LAKEVIEW, OREGON, APR. 11, 1901.

Maurice Barrymore, eminent actor and gay jester on and off the boards, is said to be hopelessly insane.

A Tennessee jury disagreed as to the guilt of a negro charged with assaulting a white girl, but the mob didn't, and the prisoner was lynched in the court house yard.

Admiral Schley is coming home. If he is the "schley" old sea-dog we believe he is, he will continue his policy of dignified silence as to how it happened in Manila Bay.

DeWett, the brave Boer General, is said to be a prisoner, but the report is unconfirmed. The last heard of him he had joined Botha, and was making it warm for the enemy.

Probably the most gigantic real estate deal ever made was the purchase by Eastern capitalists for $40,000,000 of all the land owned by the Northern Pacific Railroad west of the Missouri river.

Denver prohibitionists have nominated a municipal ticket composed exclusively of women. If the ticket wins it will be interesting to see how the big towns will be run under the new order of things.

Lakeview is installing its light and water plant, Prineville is discussing the matter of constructing sewers, and it seems that Burns should be taking up some line of public improvement if only to keep in line with the sister cities.—Burns News.

When you write to relatives or friends out of the state be sure and say a good word for Lake county. We want ten thousand more good people to come and live with us. Tell them to bring all their spare cash with them so they can "set up housekeeping" in the right way.

The Reno Daily Gazette now appears in enlarged form, handsome new dress and set up by a Mergenthaler Linotype. The Gazette is modern in every department, and gets the latest news of the world over its own leased wire. It is a first class daily evening newspaper, and the state of Nevada should be proud of it. It is published in the biggest unincorporated town on the Pacific coast.

Russia has given China fair warning that the Manchurian agreement must be signed—an ultimatum that China must accede to her wishes or take the consequences of a termination of friendly relations. It would appear to a man over here that China need not care a continental whether friendly relations exist or not. Outside of the United States the powers that have any interest in China seem determined to take it all anyway.

There is every indication of a big influx of home seekers in Lake county during the summer. People from the East as well as the great Northwest are becoming interested in this inland empire, and we still have faith in our own prophecy recently made that Lake county will have 5000 people in the next five years. The land is here, the climate is here, the advantages for success are here and the people from the East are going to find them.

Emilio Aguinaldo, erstwhile chief of the Filipino insurrectionists, and celebrated as a foot racer, now promises to be good, under Uncle Sam's careful guidance. He seems to be proud of his adoption by Samuel, and thinks his uncle is the greatest mogul on earth. This practically beheads the cause of the insurrectionists in the Philippines, and it is not necessary now to behead brother Emilio.

We have read of Maud on a summer day who, barefooted, raked the new-mown hay; we have read of the maid in the early morn who milked the cow with the crumpled horn, and we have read the lay the poets sing of the rustling corn and the flowers of spring; but of all the lays of tongue or pen, there is naught like the lay of the Lakeview hen. Long, long before Maud rakes her hay, the Lakeview hen has begun to lay, and are the milkmaid stirs a peg, the hen is up and has dropped her egg; the corn must hustle and the birds of spring, if they hold their own with the barnyard sing.

Professor Pupin's New Invention
Makes Ocean Telephony Possible.
"Hello, New York!"
"Hello, London!"

If the plans of Professor Michael I. Pupin work correctly, there is no reason why the first years of the new century should not hear such a message spoken across the ocean. Professor Pupin has just perfected an invention which will in all probability not only render submarine telephony possible, but also greatly increase the efficiency of ocean cables and land telegraphs and telephones.

The inventor is about 40 years old and is adjunct professor of mechanics in Columbia university. He is considered one of the leading electricians of the country.

He has been working on his marvelous invention for several years and upon its recent perfection offered it to the leading telephone and telegraph company of the United States. Its experts thoroughly tested and warmly approved it. The company has agreed to pay Professor Pupin about $200,000 for his invention, as well as an annual royalty of about $15,000 during the life of the patents, which is 17 years.

To describe accurately the invention would necessitate the use of technical language unintelligible by a layman. According to the professor himself, the difficulty hitherto has been to overcome resistance. In the present ocean cables the current has so many obstacles to battle with that it is comparatively slow in traveling and becomes very weak before it reaches its destination, 3,000 miles away. Professor Pupin, after long experiments, finally discovered that the insertion of eight induction coils to every mile of wire would overcome this resistance and messages could be sent over the cable at a much faster rate.

By this means every time the current begins to slacken its strength it will meet one of the coils, which will give it renewed impetus until it reaches the next one, and so on. It is practically a relay method of applying strength. The new system will involve the laying of new cables at enormous expense. It is this feature which is rendering the work at present. The new cables will require no greater strength of current or different instruments from those now used.
