ALLL COONS Look Alike to Some.

Some people can't see any difference Anderson is a native of Bonnie Scotland, of good old Presbyterian woof—with Methodist filling, as he puts it himself. He is a man of very fine physique, and to-day, in his sixty-sixth year, can hold a heavy dining chair at arm's length without a tremor.

Some people can't see any difference in pictures. A picture may be made of lamp-black, colored chalk or any old thing—all are the same to them; the "price" is the only difference noticed, and, blinded by the exaggerated statements of some "fakers," they are sometimes induced to give an order for work which is afterwards regretted. "Experiments" are costly. If you have a picwithout a tremor.
