REV. G. L. MILLER

Still Spreading the Word of God and Saving Souls at the Methodist Church in Lakeview.

Evangelist Miller continues to interest people at the M. E. Church. The reverend gentleman, in reply to The Examiner's remarks last week, thanked the editor of this paper for the free advertising he received, and in place of a "roasting," as was expected on Sunday evening by the immense crowd that went to hear him, he complimented The Examiner. Now nearly everybody we meet wants to know if we are "in cahoots" with the minister and how much we received for giving Mr. Miller so much advertising? The Examiner never makes any charges for telling the truth, and always publishes church notices gratuitously. While we recognize Evangelist Miller's privilege to conduct his meetings as he sees fit, we would have a better feeling for him if he would discontinue his harangue about the fraternal societies and benefit organizations that exist in every community. Evidently the gentleman knows nothing about the work of these secret orders. If he did he would uphold them as vigorously as he does the church. He must not trouble himself regarding the "sinfulness" of these organizations, and induce people to remain away from them one night in the week and go to church instead. The right sort of religion and christianity is taught within the secret walls of these institutions—without a mixture of hypocrisy. The teachings of these orders are from the words of God, and are far more impressive than any words that come from the mouth of the preacher in the pulpit.

Rev. Miller has dealt more mildly with the "sinners" during the past week, rather finding a better effect by his persuasive logic and pulpit eloquence than by abuse. Large crowds continue to attend his meetings at the church, and the discourses of himself and associates on the street meet with good attendance. The Lakeview people are generous to a fault and the good money from all quarters continues to go into the contribution box. Mrs. Miller continues to sing in her sweetest voice and the meetings of the Evangelist are highly successful and entertaining.

The Tournament.

Four teams are scheduled to play ball here during Fourth of July week. The first game will probably be between Lakeview and Silver Lake-Paisley teams. Cedarville will probably play on the 5th. The $200 for purses is now in the hands of the treasurer. Bids will be received up to July 21 at 8 p. m. for soft drinks, confectionery and ice cream and other privileges on the ball grounds. For particulars see Manager McGarrey.

District Attorney A. E. Reames of Jacksonville has been elected grand president of the order of Native Sons in Oregon.

Farmers, when you come to Lakeview Fourth of July week go to Field & Barrus' warehouse and inspect their stock of extras, buggies and wagons. 25-1

The New Era says that a large number of Astoria people will attend the Fourth of July celebration at Lakeview. Glad to hear it, friends. Lakeview will endeavor to give you royal entertainment.

Remember the grand ball and supper on the evening of July 4th. Gunther Bros. are determined to make this the swellest function of the season. It is a delightful way to wind up the Jollification of the National holiday.

Mrs. L. E. Land and family left Monday for Willow Ranch, Calif., where they will reside. Her brother, Mr. Creed, will attend to the harvesting of her crop, on the Granville Naylor farm, west of Medford.—Medford Mail.

Mr. Morse, the Boston wool buyer, left for the railroad Wednesday morning. With Bailey & Massingill, Mr. Morse made large purchases of Lake county wool for their house. Morse is a clever fellow and made many friends here.

"I saw the Rudwin Company play two nights in Cedarville, and I must say they are a talented company, equal to the best I ever saw in San Francisco, besides being refined and social people."—Wm. T. Mitchell, the creamery man.

Hugh Witzel and Miss Myrtle Edith Travillion were married on June 13th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hampton at Summer Lake, Justice L. A. Moss officiating. The bride is the handsome daughter of Mrs. Jack Hampton, and is a niece of A. M. Smith of New Pine Creek.

Geo. C. Turner, the stockman of Surprise and Lake, arrived here Tuesday, and went out to his Point Ranch on a business visit. George M. Habel, a bright young man with the prominent merchants, Kistler Bros. of Cedarville, accompanied Mr. Turner on an outing. The Examiner acknowledges a visit from both gentlemen.
