Foster is Reliable.

The New Era says that T. W. Foster, the man who first started the oil excitement there, and staked out claims innumerable, has now turned his attention to the "white metal," and this week filed nineteen mining claims at the mouth of Steamboat canyon and "Tooly Dad" canyon, in Surprise Valley, together with a site for a quartz mill in Steamboat canyon. Most of these claims were taken up in the names of men claimed to reside in San Francisco. Many think this, as well as the oil scheme, will prove only a kind of "wild-cat" speculation, for the purpose of getting money out of the people who are willing to buy almost any kind of a mine with a fine sounding name.

The writer has known Tom Foster for a good many years. He has always had the reputation of being a reliable man.

Grievance at Adel.

There is a scarcity of water in Deep Creek for irrigating purposes, and it is feared the alfalfa crops and garden produce at Adel will fall short. This is the first time that a scarcity of water for irrigating has occurred in that section, and the people of Adel are somewhat worked up over the matter. The main reason for this scarcity is owing to the many irrigating ditches leading from Deep Creek just above Big valley, to irrigate the pasture lands of the Cressler ranch in Big Valley. Several who are short of irrigating water are to interview Mr. Cressler on the subject, and see if some understanding cannot be had whereby they will have water sufficient to save their crops. Mr. Cressler is a fair man, and doubtless the matter will be amicably adjusted.

Helen Beall.

The reaper death invaded the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Seall last Sunday, August 11th, at 9 a. m., and carried away their little treasure, Helen, aged one had been ill for several days and the immediate cause of death was cholera infantum. This was a genuine case of that type of disease, one which proves deadly on nearly every occasion. The funeral was held from the family residence at 2 p. m. Monday and services were held at the grave. The floral offerings were profuse. The parents have the deep sympathy of the entire community in their sad bereavement. Little Helen was a particularly bright and interesting child.

Got One on Them.

A one-horse power has been fixed up at the brewery to run a barley crusher, and the other day Geo. Batchelder's delivery horse was hitched in to do the turning, but he objected to going around in such a small circus ring and refused to move farther than to sit down on the big lever and brake it. Fred Bogner, the brewer, was up-a-stump for awhile, until Gus Schlagel and Uncle Jim Williams came along, and on the promise of an occasional "schooner" they allowed Fred to hitch them up. They were a pretty slow team, as it took more time to unload schooners than they put in turning, so Fred discharged them and hired another horse.

The Miller's Are Returning.

A card from Miss Mae Miller sent from Grants Pass was received in Lakeview yesterday morning. Miss Miller states that the family is now on the return trip and will soon arrive in Lakeview. While passing through Oakland, Oregon, a short time ago, the Miller team became frightened and came near throwing the family over an embankment. Mrs. Miller jumped from the wagon to save herself and sustained a sprained ankle and was otherwise slightly injured. The team was finally controlled and a smashup averted.

Lem Winkleman III.

Several weeks ago Lem Winkleman the freighter started for Red Bluff after a big load of merchandise for V. Conn of Paisley. In another column of this issue the Red Bluff News tells about how the heat of the Sacramento valley had overcome Winkleman's horses near Red Bluff, and that he was compelled to "lay up" for a time at a wayside station. Later Mrs. Winkleman received word that her husband was very ill with fever at a place about 30 miles south of Bieber, and yesterday morning she started on the southern stage to go to her husband's bedside.

PUBLIC LEASING
Attempt will be Made to Force the Bill.

In July the American Cattle Growers' Association appointed a committee to draft a bill to provide for the leasing of the public range lands. In referring to this bill the Redding Searchlight says:

"Leasing of the public range is a move in the interest of syndicated capital. Should the bill be forced through Congress, all of the public domain fit for grazing purposes will speedily be alienated from the settler and small stockmen. It may be urged that under a lease system the settler and small stockmen would have the same privileges as capital, but a complete answer to this is found in the fact that capital now enjoys the same opportunities to freely use the unoccupied public domain as the settler and small stockmen. Then why should syndicated capital wish to exchange this opportunity for a system under which it would be compelled to pay a certain rental to the Government for an opportunity that is now rent free? Is it not because syndicated capital, by reason of its extensive operations, can afford to hire the public domain, driving out the small stockmen, and then recoup itself through control of the market?"

John P. Irish, the California plant tool of syndicates, is a member of the committee appointed to draft the bill, and as chief editorial writer of the San Francisco Call, is doing all in his power to promote a great Livestock Trust, which must first gain control of the public domain in order to meet and destroy the competition of the smaller stockmen, now entitled to the free use of unoccupied range.

Each Town Have its Own Fair.

The Klamath Republican has a proposition on foot that may be of interest to the public, regarding the holding of the annual district fairs. The Republican says: The First District Southern Oregon Fair will be held at Ashland and commence September 17. It is reported by Ashland parties that an effort is being made to induce Klamath and Lake to participate in this fair. These counties are each entitled to one-third of the state appropriation for the district fair, and their participation renders available the whole sum for the one fair at Ashland. Lake and Klamath counties are so far away from Ashland that it would require several days to make the journey, and hence that very few would undertake it, would it not be better if each county has its own fair and thereby keep and expend its one-third of the appropriation money at home. Or, if it is best to unite the three counties, why not hold the fair at Klamath Falls, which is in the center of the proposed territory to be covered, and not at one end as it would be at Ashland. Or if Ashland would not agree to this, then how would it do for Lake and Klamath counties to unite on this question, and have a fair at some point which is convenient to both counties, as for instance at Bly, which is about midway between Klamath Falls and Lakeview.

Bellinger's Order Ignored.

It was understood that within a few days after Judge Bellinger's decision in the Jessie D. Carr case the work of tearing down the Carr fences surrounding the government land in this state would be prosecuted—but not so. United States District Attorney John Hall of Portland was much surprised upon being advised a few days ago that the order of Judge Bellinger had been ignored. The District Attorney prepared at once to send a United States Marshal to the ranch in Klamath county to see that the instructions of the Court are obeyed. On the 7th inst. Carr's motion for an appeal from the decision of the Oregon court was allowed by Judge Morrow of the United States Circuit Court for California.

Later Judge Bellinger was asked for a stay of proceedings in the case, by the San Francisco court, upon the furnishing of a bond of $10,000 by Carr. The stay was asked pending the appeal to a higher court.

The R. R. Up Klamath River.

The survey of the proposed new railroad from near Klamathon up the south side of Klamath river, crossing near Fall creek is steadily going ahead. The crew is divided into a viewing crew and a grade stake laying crew, and the latter have this week reached a point near the logging camp.

Harvey Lindley has gone east and it is presumed his mission is on this business. People in a position to know say that construction work will begin very soon and that the road will be completed from Klamathon to the timber belt inside of 14 months, says the Examiner.

We have many new customers each season coming to our establishment who tell us they always understood that we handled good quality of goods. Our reputation with our customers is not made by any particular line of goods we have, but by the general excellence of every article in our stock. We acknowledge we carry good quality of goods. This refers to our cheaper goods in just the same degree as to those of the very best quality.

In ordering our goods we give just as particular attention to the durability, the substantial make and the superior quality of the low priced goods as we do to the medium and better grades, but our assortment is mainly confined to the medium and better grades.

The strength of our lines is apparent when you look at our stock, and for Spring and Summer we venture to assert that there is not another stock of goods in the country that is equal to ours in its wonderful variety, in its great range of price, in its particular style of everything that we show.

We solicit the business of the people of Southeastern Oregon and can readily convince them that we are the best house to trade with in this entire region.

IT LOOKS

As if we had experienced a landslide of gloves--such a variety. We'd much prefer they'd be on "your hands." We're going to "palm" them off this week. Better have a "hand" in the deal. Cost nothing to "see."
