PLANNED ESCAPE!
 Prisoner in the County Lockup Seeks Liberty or Death.

Last Thursday evening, about the dining hour, Sheriff Dunlap made a tour of inspection of the little jail building in which is at present incarcerated an unfortunate young man—the first inmate of that somber and dreary place for many months—and found the prisoner Verne Hopkins all prepared for a jail break. The prisoner had been allowed the privileges of the "corridor," or outer room since his incarceration and taking advantage of the situation had found an iron bar with which he removed three slats from the jail floor, making an aperture through which he could pass to the ground beneath the building. Once underneath he proceeded to dig a trench to the south end of the building, and when the hour came for his escape he would have nothing to do but remove a board from beneath the sills and take himself off.

Everything was completed for the escape. The Sheriff made his inspection at an opportune time, to the utter chagrin of the prisoner. The aperture in the floor was covered by a blanket from the bed, and the officer noticing this thought it strange. Lifting the blanket from the floor the means of the prisoner's escape was discovered, and a jail break was averted.

"So you were going to leave here tonight, were you?" inquired the Sheriff.

"Well, yes; that was my intention. You don't blame a fellow for wanting to get out of this place, do you?" answered the prisoner.

Sheriff Dunlap probably thought he could not blame him, though he did not say so, and after locking him in the steel cage for the night admonished his prisoner that he would have to stay in the cage day and night if he made any more attempts at escape. The unfortunate young man promised faithfully not to try again. The jail floor has been repaired, the prisoner has the same liberties as before and the Sheriff visits him at least twice a day now.

R. R. EXTENSION
 What the N-C-O Intends Doing.

The Alturas correspondent to the Cedarville Record last week had something to say regarding the extension work of the N-C-O. The correspondent probably knows what he is talking about—so far as the present work is concerned—but no man can safely say just what the N-C-O people intend doing with their road. It is a matter of mere conjecture so far as the public is concerned and the only common sense opinion or surmise that can be made is that the N-C-O will surely not stop short of a northern connection, and in order to make that they must move on north within a couple of years. Too many railroad people have their eyes on this territory to admit of any great delay in building, and The Examiner still believes that within a very few years Lakeview will be the headquarters of two distinct railroads. The Record correspondent says:

The track is now graded from the reservoir at Wilson Bayleys to Van Loans station. On Monday, the 5th, grading began at Termo, towards Van Loans. Ties are piled up at Plumas Junction and other stations along the line sufficient to build the extension to the Reservoir and unless the strike of the eastern steel operators ties up the work there the narrow gauge will be running through trains to Reservoir by the first of November or middle of October. The new station is just above the Madeline plains and about five miles this side of Van Loans. It is only four miles from the summit of the pass on South Fork mountain and only thirteen miles from the town of Likely, and thirty-three from Alturas. It will be about 28 miles to Adin and 53 to Cedarville. A. M. Miller went out to Van Loans last Saturday night to figure on the contract for the new hotel and barns about to be erected at Reservoir by Van Loan. As the new station is a division run of one hundred and forty-five miles north from Reno it is the general belief in railroad circles that no further extensions may be looked for until the road gets ready to make a big extension to Lakeview which may be years in the future. R. M. Sample for many years the agent at Amedes was on the north bound train to Termo Saturday but it is not known yet whether he will again go into the employ of the company. His wife is very much better in Los Angeles.
