LAKEVIEW, OREGON, SEPT. 12, 1901.

W. J. Bryan has bought another paper. A sort of a trust, if on't you know.

The Harney County Livestock Association has called a meeting for Sept. 21, to take steps protesting against the range leasing proposition.

When completed the Lake County telephone system will be one of the best and most convenient enterprises ever established in the county.

Modoc county has $21,817.05 in its treasury. The sum will doubtless be reduced somewhat by the time the lynching cases have been tried.

Judge Harrington of the Supreme Court of Modoc was reported quite sick last week. We hope the Judge's case is not serious, but it would not be surprising judging from the way the attorneys down there are after his scalp.

A Chicago man has been sued by a Montana woman for a breach of promise perpetrated eleven years ago. An exchange remarks that the woman is not only from Butte, but must be one herself, to wait that long before being slighted.

The death is announced of Miss Maude Coleman Woods of Charlottesville, Va. Miss Woods was pronounced the most beautiful woman in America by a committee from the Pan-American exposition, and her profile adorns all the medals issued by the board of awards.

Zina, widow of Joseph Smith, the Mormon prophet and founder of that religion, and later the widow of Brigham Young who for forty years was president of the "Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints," better known as the Mormon church, died at Salt Lake, Utah, last week.

An old criminal, says an exchange, was once asked what was the first step that led to his ruin, when he answered: "The first step was cheating an editor out of two years' subscription. When I had done that the devil had such a grip on me that I could not shake him off."

Senator Joe Simon, in an interview at Astoria, says he favored free trade with Porto Rico and will do the same in regard to the Philippines, believing it will largely increase Pacific Coast trade. He thinks Gov. Geer will be re-nominated and that Hon. Chas. Fulton will be his (Simon's) strongest competitor for the U. S. senatorship.

A letter to The Examiner last week from the proprietor of a famous California health resort: "Advertise in your columns for two Oregon girls to do dining room and chamber work. I find the Oregon girls do better work and give better satisfaction than the California girls in a health resort." The attention of the Oregon girls (scalled to this high compliment, and the places are still open.

Ex-Governor Sylvester Pennoyer is a candidate for the nomination for supreme judge. Chief Justice Beach's term expires next and his successor will be elected in June. Pennoyer's platform is: "That the supreme court has no right or authority to declare an act of the legislature unconstitutional." He believes the court arrogates to itself power which the constitution does not grant. He thinks the court should be rebuked by the people, and he wants to be champion rebuker. The people would do well to watch this dangerous anarchist's movements. Pennoyer should be kept down and out of public positions. As a member of the supreme court he would be a public menace and a chronic disturber.

Every editor makes enemies. A little squib aimed at no one in particular, will hit some hollow-headed individual, and he at once declares himself "agin" the paper, says the Baker Republican. The paper may have given him many complimentary notices, but the imaginary thrusts put him on his dignity and he at once establishes himself as a critic, but he hasn't enough nerve to go to the editor with his supposed grievance. Just notice and you will see that the men who are "agin" their home paper are, as a rule, men who would not be missed if they would leave the community forever. On every question of local interest the home paper stands ready to make a fight for the best interest of the greatest number of citizens at its back.

HE WAS A BASHFUL YOUNG MAN.

His Sweetheart Thought Him Too Nervous and Threw Him Over.

The Coquille Bulletin last week said the father of a 17 year old young lady in that place told the editor a funny story about a young man who stopped at his home one night lately. The young man called on his daughter to spend the evening, and when he got ready to go he realized a heavy rain storm was raging. He had no umbrella or rubber coat and when the girl's father asked him to remain at the house he readily consented. He is a very bashful young man, and next morning when he was invited to a seat at the table, very reluctantly accepted. He was very nervous and agitated. He sat opposite a mirror and saw that he had forgotten to comb his hair; then he dropped his fork on the floor and as he stooped to pick it up, he upset his coffee. Matters went from bad to worse until finally in despair the young man quit eating and put his hands under the table. The loose folds of the table cloth were laying in his lap, and when he touched it he turned pale. He thought it was his shirt and in his nervous excitement while dressing had forgotten to put the garment inside his trousers. That accounted for the smiles and his embarrassment. There was no time to lose. He hurriedly stuffed the supposed shirt inside his trousers. Two minutes later when the family arose from the table there was a crash. The dishes lay in a broken mass on the floor; the young man pulled a foot of table cloth out of his trousers and fled through the door. He is yet in the backwoods of his home near here. The young lady he called on is open for an engagement to a less nervous young man.

Vacation is Over.

THE CHILDREN:
The summer vacation's over at last;
September comes, with its cool air,
Vacation days are gone and past,
We note get back to school.

THE LADIES:
Goodby to sleeping in a hammock;
Goodby to sunbath without
No more of the tilted skirt;
Nice for the autumn styles!

THE MEN:
The vacation spell is over;
Now for the pants that kills!
We struggle now to pay once more
Dues, taxes, rents and bills.

"Calf Show."

When the Boston Bloomer girl, who were recently in Napa, played ball at Hollister, says the Napa Journal, it is related by a reliable reporter that every old farmer for ten miles around went into town "to do some tradin'" on that day, leaving "mother" at home. The man who had spy glasses to rent did a lively business among the grangers. Every Rube told his wife when he got home that he had been to a "calf show."

A man with a "slight foreign accent" called at the Lakeview postoffice a few days ago to inquire for mail for his friend Jack. He told Postmaster Dick Wilcox that he had forgotten Jack's other name, but said: "You yooost call off the names on all the letters and when you come to Yack's name I'll know it." Dick told him life was too short, and that postmasters had troubles of their own—to return to camp and the next time to bring "Yack's" full name. The man went back to camp, and in telling about the incident said: "Py tam! I vas so mad mit dat postoffice faller I yooost could haf dit most anytings, because "Yack" wanted dat letter from his gal."

Up at Sican the other day where the buccaroos are gathering cattle a heavy thunder storm came up, stampeding the cattle and causing some of the horses to throw their riders. One Indian buccaroo fell off of his horse and was knocked "sensible." In answer to subsequent inquiries the dusky son said: "Oh! me no saby nothin', everything he go round; I can't see; I think hell he dirty clost," says the Post of Paisley.
