

A MODOC COUNTY POET Visits Portland and is Interviewed on the Modoc War.

Ezekiel, alias "Pap" Music, of Modoc county, Cal., is making his first visit to Portland. When seen at the Esmond he was enthusiastic over the objects of interest he had, so far, encountered in the metropolis.

"She's a hummer, 'nd no mistake," said he. W'y dang it! that big newspaper tower's higher'n the bluff back of my cabin, down in Modoc, 'nd bicycles, 'nd everything's just great. Then the elevators! Gee whiz! The fust time I tackled one in this hotel she whizzed up so fast it tuk my breath clean away, 'nd I was mighty near as bad skeered as I wuz durin' the Modoc War. Sure punkins I wuz in that war, bein' younger then, 'nd havin' less experience 'nd sense.

"One day I wuz sent out as a sort of a spy, ter locate a band of savages, supposed to be hid in one of the noomerous caves, about three miles fr'm headquarters. I crep' along mighty keerful like, 'nd wuz beginnin' to think the reds hed changed their locality, when all of a sudden, fr'm out'n the earth, about a million bushy Modoc heads riz up before me, 'nd arrers 'nd bullets began to whiz 'nd sing around me like a bee hive in the bloom of a Summer swarm. I guess I kivered moreground in the succeedin' ten seconds than eny sprinter of the Woolly West ever did in two minutes.

"Durin' the war, 'nd up to the time the Injuns got plum Christianized, I wuz wounded three times. Got a bad cut on the left shoulder blade, 'nd an arrer in my back, 'nd a bullet in my right heel. How I faced all the dangers 'nd got out is a miracle to me yit. One thing, I wouldn't do it over for a thousand dollars.

"Arter the rebellion was quelled, 'nd while convalescin' fr'm my hurts, I writ a pome describin' the hull business. I tuk it to the paper published at the county seat 'nd offered it for publication. The editor tuk me to one side, arter runnin' his eye over the introductory canto, 'nd says be, 'Pap, I am a-runnin' this sheet for all they is in it. I git the county printin' ($300 a year) 'nd that graft, with ball tickets, hoss bills, patent ads 'nd w'at few subscriptions I collec' fur, serve to render a meages support for me 'nd my family. Now, as you kin see, I print my paper on that old Hoe hand press, 'nd while I would like to do you a favor, 'nd send the burnin' words your genius has dictated thunderin' down the corridors of time, I really kin not ake the risk. Should I break the press in the attempt to print that masterpiece, life would hev no more charms fur me.' He then brushed away a tear 'nd tenderly handed me back the manuscript.

"I waited awhile, 'nd then mailed a revised copy of the pome to a leadin' 'Frisco journal, inclosin' 25 cent wuth of stamps to pay fur copies of the number in which it appeared. I afterwards learned that the copy-reader of the paper spoke of tuk the stamps 'nd invested their proceeds in five schooners, 'nd subsequently borrowed a 2-cent stamp from the snake editor to tell me that my pome had been accidentally destroyed by fire, through the keerness of the office devil.

"I rewrit the pome 'nd hey read it over to myself so much that I've got it by heart. As you are a noospaper man, I will speak it off to you. It won't take mor'n a hour, 'nd you kin decide as to its wuth, 'nd if you want it, I kin mail it to you. The first canto begins—"

But his auditor gave the sign of distress to the day clerk, who informed him that he was wanted at the 'phone, thus enabling him to make his escape by the back entrance—Portland Telegram.

Stricken With Paralysis.

Henderson Grimet, of this place, was stricken with partial paralysis and completely lost the use of one arm and side. After being treated by an eminent physician for quite a while without relief, my wife recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and after using two bottles of it he is almost entirely cured. Geo. R. McDONALD, Man, Logan county, W. Va. Several other very remarkable cures of partial paralysis have been effected by the use of this liniment. It is most widely known, however, as a cure for rheumatism, sprains and bruises. Sold by Lee Beall, Druggist.

A crew of about 30 men are at work on the big canal that will drain the big marsh says the Post. The canal will be 30 feet wide on the bottom and 3 feet deep. Fourteen four-horse scrapers are being used on the job. No more than one canal will be dug this fall, and that on the lower marsh. In the spring, however, a similar one will be dug through the big marsh.

A J'less Jay.

The following story was not told in Lakeview by a long ways, as we have no jays here, but it came from a town named La Junta, Cal.:

Dohn't they 'ave queer names for stations in this wild section? "La Junta sounds awfully funny, dohn't you know?" said the New Yorker. "Sh! Don't call it La Junta; it's La Junta," whispered the fat friend. "These Mexicans out here pronounce j as though it were h. Remember that and you will avoid being laughed at." The man murmured his thanks and studied the bill of fare. After the waiter had asked for his order the third time he colored a little and said: "Waitah, you may huz bring me some hackrabbit with apple helly on the side, order a mint hulep from the bar and bring me some of the salmon salad sprinkled with lemon huice." The guests within hearing were roaring. The New Yorker became highly indignant and turned with wrathful gaze on his new found friend. "Maybe you think this is a hoke," he said. "You can huz take a run and hump at yourself if you take me for a hay!" and he stalked out of the dining room.

The Catholic fathers have a flourishing mission station on the west shore of Lake Tanganyika, at a place where the forest comes nearly down to the water's edge. This place has been known for 15 years on the maps as Mpala, and much has been written about it as a station where the Catholic missionaries have been trying to introduce civilization in a most practical manner.

Here in the depths of Central Africa they have been teaching the natives how to make brick and lumber, how to improve the quality of the iron they dig from their hills, how to make better implements from this useful metal and the best methods of tilling their crops. A great many natives have come from far around to enter the schools at Mpala.

A year ago the natives who had been taught to set type in the printing office made their first book. A few copies of it have reached Europe and attracted considerable attention. The little book is a geography. It tells, in the native language, and in the simplest manner, something about the world. It gives the most interesting facts about the geography and peoples of some of the great nations. There are only 56 pages in it, but they contain a great deal of information without being crowded with so much detail as to make the story hard to read.

Father G. Van Acker wrote the little volume, superintended the typesetting and printing, and made the map which adorns the work. The natives under his tuition attended to every mechanical detail, from typesetting to binding. The book is an excellent specimen of typography, considering that it is the first effort of the black printers who made it, and it furnishes conclusive evidence that progress is making in the heart of Central Africa.

According to an ingenious statistician who has been at work on the subject ever since the assassination of King Humbert of Italy, the greatest number of murders is likely to be committed in that country in which animals are treated with the most cruelty. He claims, too, that comparatively few murders are committed in those countries in which societies for the protection of animals flourish.

Out of every million inhabitants, he says, there are in England and Ireland only 6 murderers; in Germany, 11; in Belgium, 14; in France, 16; in Austria, 23; in Hungary, 67; in Spain, 83, and in Italy, 95.

These figures, he maintains, are just what might be expected. In no country, he says, are animals treated with more kindness than in Great Britain and with more cruelty than in Italy, and the treatment accorded to them in the other countries may fairly be gauged according to the number of murders committed in each.

At the same time this statistician, who is a German and an influential member of the Berlin Society for the Protection of Animals, admits that climate is a considerable factor in this matter.

The Great Carnival Which opens at Portland on Sept 19th and continues until October 19th, 1901, will be well worth a visit to the metropolis.

Exhibits of agricultural and horticultural products, mining and manufacturing industries, athletic exercises, a horse show at which feats of horsemanship and the various forms of fancy riding will be seen, and a magnificent military tournament, participated in by picked companies from the Oregon National Guard, are a few of the attractions at the Carnival this year.

The Southern Pacific Co. will sell tickets at low rates for this occasion, and will also run a special excursion from Ashland to Portland and return, stopping at all intermediate stations, the dates and rates for which will be announced hereafter. 374

TIMBER LAND NOTICE

United States Land Office, Lakeview, Oregon, August 5, 1901. Notice is hereby given that in compliance with the provisions of the act of Congress of June 3, 1878, entitled "An act for the sale of timber lands in the States of California, Oregon, Nevada and Washington Territory," as extended to all the Public Land States by act of August 4, 1892, Charles U. Snider, of Lakeview, county of Lake, State of Oregon, has this day filed in this office his sworn statement No. 319, for the purchase of the SE 1/4 of Sec. 10 of Section No. 30 in Township No. 38 S., Range No. 22 E. and will offer proof to show that the land sought is more valuable for its timber or stone than for agricultural purposes, and to establish his claim to said land before the Register and Receiver of this office at Lakeview, Oregon, on Friday, the 25th day of October, 1901. He names as witnesses: W. K. Barry, Charles Moore, James Anthony, Mike Barry, all of Lakeview, Oregon. Any and all persons claiming adversely the above described lands are requested to file their claims in this office on or before said 25th day of October, 1901. E. M. BRATTAIN, Register. 31-10
