The Cedarville Record says that old Dame Rumor has it that one of Bidwell's prominent young men will soon annex himself to one of Cedarville's most charming young ladies, and that the nuptial knot will be tied at Reno in the very near future.

Here's to the friends we love so well. To those so far away me by. If a drink of fine liquor would bring them here, we would drink the old house dry. 40 Post & King, The Wine Roommen.

The State Fair at Salem this year is pronounced the best ever given. The attendance was large and the Fair was a financial success as well as a success from an educational point of view. The management of the Oregon State Fair for 1901 is to be congratulated.

The Post says that Mr. Taylor of Reno, Nev., formerly a conductor on the N. C. O. railroad and who is now interested in a borax mine in Nevada and one in Harney county with Fulton, formerly of the N. C. O. railroad, passed through Paisley Tuesday. He stated that he was looking for borax.

A fine line of derby hats, latest styles and all shapes, just received at Ahlstrom Bros. Young man if you want to be in the fashion let Ahlstrom Bros. dress you up. 40 2

In the trial of the case of the State of Washington vs. Elmon Scott, ex-Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, on a charge of rape, at New Whatcom, last week the prosecutrix, Mina Schaeffer, was being cross examined by defendant's attorney when he handed her five letters which she identified and admitted having written. They were directed to a lady neighbor; she told the woman the defendant had never done anything wrong to her, but that her stepmother had forced her to tell a lie. On re-direct examination she said that she had written some of the letters at the suggestion of the neighbor.

And now Malheur county is boring for oil.

Born—At Summer Lake, Oregon, Oct. 2, to the wife of J. J. Hampton, a daughter.
