

DEAD FOR THREE DAYS

"Dr. Burney Pete," Indian Medicine Man, Suddenly Comes to Life in the Coffin.

There has lived at Burney Valley, Cal., since long before the whiteman's trail was known in the West, a character type of the Western Indian for fifty years known as "Dr. Burney Valley Pete." He is the last of the medicine men of the Burney Indians. After three days spent apparently in the happy hunting grounds, he has come back to life, just as his body was being lifted into the coffin, to frighten his mourning tribesmen half out of their senses.

Burney Valley Pete, most famous of the Burney Indians, who for more than fifty years has brought his herbs and emblems to bear upon the ails of the tribes, sat in Carnass' store at Burney last week telling of wondrous cures that had been wrought. Wrinkled, painted face, he looked a hundred years old. Suddenly Pete fell from his chair. His face struck a hot stove and he rolled upon the floor, apparently dead. Heart failure was ascribed.

Word was sent to Peter's two squaws who dwelt in different places. The messenger went through the Fall River country, and the Indians solemnly packed up and took the trail to Burney. The dead medicine man's body was removed to the wigwam of his daughter near by.

Billy Pete, his son, as master of ceremonies, prepared the most elaborate funeral of many years among the Indians. Chanters and beaters of hollow drums and wailing squaws frightened teams off the road for three days, while the body lay in state. Indians came from the adjacent counties for fifty miles. The crowd of Indians prepared for the burial and stood in silence while Billy Pete and two others lifted the body into the coffin. Suddenly the corpse's legs shot into the air. Then it raised up in the coffin. The terrified Indians dropped the body, and the whole company yelled and ran. Finally Billy Pete and his sister ventured back to their father, helped him to his feet, and now he has fully recovered.

A Deep Mystery.

It is a mystery why women endure backache, headache, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, fainting and dizzy spells when thousands have proved the Electric Bitters will quickly cure such troubles. "I suffered for years with kidney trouble," writes Mrs. Phoebe Cherier, of Patterson, La., "and a lame back pained me so I could not dress myself, but Electric Bitters wholly cured me, and, although 73 years old, I know am able to do all my housework." It overcomes constipation, improves appetite, gives perfect health. Only 60¢ at Lee Beall's drug store.

SALT LAKE BATHING PERILS.

Many People Drowned by Being Choked with the Evaporated Brine.

"I have never seen the Atlantic or the Pacific ocean or the Gulf of Mexico, but have had some experience with salt water, nevertheless," said George Y. Russell, of Park City, Utah, to a Washington Post man. He is an official of the great silver mine near Park City, which extends deeper than any other in the world.

"Salt lake is a remarkable sheet of water in many ways, and bathing in its possesses features which are unique. It is very invigorating and refreshing to be sure, but it takes some time to become accustomed to the extraordinary buoyancy of the water. It is quite impossible to sink or to drown in the lake, but many people have been killed by the water. When there is a breeze and spray is dashed upon bathers, the water is so densely impregnated with salt that the liquid portion evaporates very quickly and leaves a deposit of salt on the skin."

"On several occasions people have drifted out while bathing or been washed and thrown overboard and afterward found dead on top of the water, choked to death by the accumulation of salt in their mouths and nostrils. Ordinary salt water bathing as I discovered to-day, is very different from that in the salt lake. I learned that I could enjoy salt-water bathing at Chesapeake Beach, and took a trip there. It is certainly very pleasant to bathe in water that is salt, but not so salt as in Lake. But the accommodations for the bathers at Salt lake far surpasses, so I am told, anything in America."

MIRROR, SCALES, ETC.

There was a man. And his mirror said "sallow skin." And the scales said "losing weight." And his friends did wag their heads as he passed by. But being a prudent man he forthwith swallowed daily certain pleasant doses of Scott's Emulsion.

Then his mirror said "ruddy face." And the scales sunk beneath his weight. And his friends looked upon him with mazé.

Note.—This is no fable—but is true story.

No Flies On Him—Married Man.

Not long ago the wife of a Western Kansas politician asked him to lay aside politics long enough one day to dig the potatoes in the garden. He agreed to do it. After digging a few minutes he went into the house and said he had found a coin. He washed it off and it proved to be a silver quarter. He put it in his jeans. "I have worked pretty hard," said he to his wife. "I guess I will take a short nap." When he awoke he found his wife had dug all the rest of the potatoes. But she found no coins. It then dawned on her that she had been "worked."

MOORISH PRISON SYSTEM.

Sultan of Morocco to Begin a Reform to Correct a Pitiable and Brutal State of Affairs.

A dispatch to the London Times from Tangier, dealing with the announcement that the sultan intends to reform the Moorish prison system, says anything more pitiable than the present state of the prisons it is impossible to imagine. Any Moroccan subject is liable to be seized and incarcerated at any moment, often without the pretense of a trial. The rumor that he has saved a few dollars is sufficient excuse for his imprisonment.

The state of affairs in the prisons in the cities is bad, says the Times' correspondent. That of the prisons in the country baffle description. Many of them consist of small, high-walled yards, with no shade, no shelter, no water supply, and no sanitation.

To add to the horror, the prisoners are chained by their necks to a long, heavy iron chain, sometimes as many as 50 to one chain, without a yard between each. Heavy shackles are also riveted to their legs. The conditions in the subterranean dungeons are even more awful.

The sultan intends to change all this. He will overhaul the prisons, sending inspectors to report upon the condition. The prisoners are to have sufficient rations, supplied to them by the local officials.

THE NEW YEAR MINUET.

It was danced in the ball by the fire's red glow,
For the palms hid the lamps at the side,
And each form was outlined on the floor below.
While the shadows were spread far and wide,
But the shadows were misty—a soft gray—
In accord with the slow melody;
The light of the fire drove the dark lines away,
While it lent all a sweet mystery.

Both dancers were courtly and figures of grace,
Yet the maid held my hands alone;
The glow gave a blush to her beautiful face,
In her dark eyes a fairer light shone,
And then as the measured steps started so slow,
With the grace of an age that is past,
It seemed like a dream of the long, long ago—
Like a dream that I know could not last.

Postmaster Palmer

of So. Glen Falls, N. Y., describes a condition which thousands of men and women find identical with theirs. Read what he says, and note the similarity of your own case. Write to him, enclosing stamped addressed envelope for reply, and get a personal corroboration of what is here given. He says regarding

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure:

"I suffered agonizing pain in the left breast and between my shoulders from heart trouble. My heart would palpitate, flutter, then skip beats, until I could no longer lie in bed. Night after night I walked the floor, for to lie down would have meant sudden death. My condition seemed almost hopeless when I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, but it helped me from the first. Later I took Dr. Miles' Nervine with the Heart Cure and the result was astonishing. I earnestly implore similar sufferers to give these remedies a trial."
