

IRRIGATION ON BIG SCALE IN KLAMATH

A New Project That Will Irrigate
All the Land From Falls to Tule Lake--Klamath On the Road to Wealth.

Klamath county is naturally situated for the establishment of elaborate and wonderful irrigation systems, and the people of that county are of late taking advantage of the opportunities. The result in the future will be that Klamath will grow immensely in population, and will in a few years become one of the wealthiest counties in the state. The Klamath Republican tells of a new irrigation project that will bring within its scope the great bodies of land from Klamath Falls to Tule Lake. That paper says:

Plans are maturing for one of the most extensive irrigation enterprises in Southern Oregon, and if carried to completion, as now promised, it will be of inestimable benefit to the valley stretching from Klamath Falls to Tule Lake and will aid materially in the future growth and prosperity in this country. The project is in capable and determined hands, and it is believed that success will follow the effort without conflicting with other similar undertakings already established.

The enterprise is inaugurated by Tule Lake ranchers, and N. S. Merrill, W. P. Whitney and Wm. Ball of that precinct were here yesterday to prepare articles of incorporation, copy of which was duly filed with the county clerk. Capital stock is $450,000 and will be supported, it is said, by 100 ranchers, who propose to become stockholders. Within thirty days the organization will be completed. The promoters anticipate no difficulty in floating bonds and being able to have active construction under way early this spring.

The plan is to tap the main body of Upper Klamath lake and make a canal that will furnish water enough to irrigate 40,000 acres of land. This will require cutting through the hill northeast of Klamath Falls and among other work, making a half-mile tunnel. It is thought it will take a year to complete the canal. It is a co-operative scheme and will be able to furnish water to stockholders and others at a comparatively low rate.

It can be readily seen that the undertaking will greatly enhance the value of thousands of acres of land and besides such direct benefit, bring much indirect profit to the county and to this town.

Salem Statesman: Oregon Republicans hail with delight the announcement from Washington, that the next Congressional campaign will be waged on the issue made by the Democrats declaring against the retention of the Philippines. This is an issue that all Republicans can stand shoulder to shoulder on, and one that will insure success beyond the question of a doubt. The retention of these islands means more to the Pacific coast than to any other section of the country, and the question of their abandonment can be safely left to the people of Oregon who will be the first to give expression on this question in the present form. Oregon will never favor a scuttling policy, especially when it is against the development of her commercial relations with the Orient.

Increase of the culture of alfalfa is one of the most notable things observed in Eastern Oregon, Eastern Washington and Idaho. It is a word of Arabic origin—"alfalfa"—meaning "the best kind of fodder." It was brought into Spain by the Arabs. In Spanish it is "alfalfa." The French call it "lucerne." Says the Drovers' Journal: "It matters not by what name it is known, Arabs hit it about right when they call it the best fodder." It is the best of grass crops on sage brush, where water can be had for it.—Oregonian.

"Around the Pan"

"The reader may make up his mind to be pleasantly overwhelmed by the opulence and vivacity of 'Around the Pan', published by the Nutshell Publishing Company, 1059 Third Avenue, New York.

The wonders begin with the frontispiece picture of President McKinley, drawn in a single line beginning at a point on the cheek bone and going round and round in a constantly widening circle, with waverings and downbearings of the pen in the proper places to secure detachment and shading. We are told that this portrait "is considered the most unique work of its kind in the world", and if there are degrees of uniqueness we are willing to believe that this is most the thing of which there are no duplicates. Of course there is text in addition to the pictures, and we should be surprised indeed to hear from any purchaser the opinion that he had not got his money's worth ($2.00)."

A Yearning For Spring.

When gentle spring arrives once more
To beautify the land,
We will forget the sorrows sore
Which winter bade expand,
I care not for the budding tree
Upon the vernal hill
Nor for the zephyr wandering free
Nor for the gurgling rill.

But I am longing for the day
When I no more need fear
The dreadful price which I must pay
When firewood is so dear;
When from the spigot that I turn
The water freely flows,
When I no more in grief shall learn
That everything is froze.
