On Tuesday morning the registration books of Lake county showed a total registration of 760. With three more days in which to register it is estimated that the total will reach 850.

J. J. Chappell, representing Moses & Co., San Francisco wool buyers, is the first wool man to reach Lake County this season. Mr. Chappell has been here several days, in advance of the opening of the market.

J. N. Fitzgerald has retired from the City Meat Market business, and is succeeded by John Wendell, an experienced butcher and meat cutter from California. Mr. Wendell fully understands his business. The firm is now Lane & Wendell.

Miss Rose West, the teacher, left for Salem last Monday. Little Barbara Steiner accompanied her to spend the summer with her grandmother at the State Capital. Miss West will visit San Francisco. The best wishes of many friends accompany her.

Dr Steiner, J. D. Heryford and Archie Heryford started for San Francisco last Saturday morning. Archie is taken to the city to be placed in the care of an eminent oculist, to endeavor to restore his sight. The unfortunate boy has been totally blind for several months.

When Eben and Evans were at Washington they were introduced to President Roosevelt. When the President learned in the course of conversation that they were from Lakeview, Oregon, he remarked: "Lakeview, Eh? Well, yes; I have heard of Lakeview. Please leave your firearms in the ante-room."

A large crew of railroad surveyors with five wagons of equipment, are reported to be at work in Stone Coal valley, 35 miles west of Alturas. They are said to be following the old survey up Pit river, through Stone Coal, Hot Spring, and Goose Lake valley, on through Lake county to a northern terminus.

Bert Harber was riding an old black mare to water last Thursday evening, dreaming probably of "happier days," etc.; when the animal threw him over a barn. Bert was unconscious when he fell on the other side, and was badly bruised and cut when found. Dr. Steiner attended him and brought him back to earth. When Bert opened his eyes he asked: "Is the election over, Doc? Who's Judge?" He is still incapacitated, but will be around to work again in a few days.

Arthur Florence is the new clerk at the Lakeview Mercantile Co's. Mr. Florence is from California, and is a pleasant gentleman. It is noticeable that the young ladies are crowding into that store of late. The attraction may be the new clerk, or Alex—or, it may be those lovely shirt waists and swell ties. Besides, there are such lovely pieces of dress goods to be seen there. To tell the truth there are so many attractions at the Lakeview Mercantile Co's that it is hard to tell what makes the crowds go there.

Thos. H. Hardy of Norfolk Va., is at Hotel Lakeview.

W. K. Barry has made an improvement on the street in front of his North Lakeview property that certainly does him credit as an enterprising gentleman. He has filled up the low ground in front of The Oregon with dirt from the hillside, and will finish the work by covering the dirt with four inches of gravel. It is a fine improvement.

The man who cannot say anything good of the nominees of this party should either remain silent or get out of that party. A political "knocker" is a barnacle. It is absurd to imagine that in the selection of nominees of any party in convention that all people can be satisfied in those selections. It is also the height of absurdity for any disgruntled politician to assume that his judgment is to be taken as a party Solomon in preference to the judgment of a half-hundred citizens selected from the various precincts to attend a county convention for the naming of nominees of his party in a political contest. The political "kicker" is in the same category with the "knocker." About the most ridiculous man in any community, though, is the man who, elected as a delegate to his county convention to assist in the selection of party nominees, goes out of that convention and either secretly stabs the nominee of his party in the back, or openly espouses and champions the cause of a political enemy. When the books in the glass he must certainly see a splendid specimen of the political traitor. Every county has them.

The Rev. Michael Augustine Corrigan, Archbishop of the Catholic Church and a famous man in Catholic circles, died in New York on the 5th inst. Mgr. Corrigan was ordained a priest in 1863. He was soon after selected the coadjutor of Cardinal McClosky, and in 1880 he was raised to the archiepiscopal see of Petra and made coadjutor. He was also given the right of succession. Archbishop Carrigan succeeded to the see of New York upon the death of Cardinal McClosky in 1895. The diocese of New York is perhaps the most important in America, and contains about 850,000 Catholics.

Bret Harte, the famous California novelist, died at his home at Camberly, England, on the 5th of May. Although he was not a native of California he was regarded as a distinctly Californian writer. His greatest literary tales were inspired and written in the sunny clime of the Golden State. Bret Harte was a New Yorker by birth and in his veins flowed a mixture of English, German and Hebrew blood. He, also will have a page in the Nation's history as one of her gifted sons.

Admiral William T. Sampson, the great naval commander, died at Washington, D. C., on May 6th, of hemorrhage of the brain. The passing of Sampson closes an eventful career—full of brilliancy in its hey day and worry and anxiety in its close. The name of William Thomas Sampson will have an exclusive page in history and the American people will always turn to that page with pride.

Governor Geer has announced his candidacy for the United States senate in a statement given out at Salem. He said that he had all along declined to enter the race, but has received so many requests from all parts of the state that he was forced to yield. He says he has always favored the selection of United States senators by the direct vote of the people, and in keeping with this opinion consents to allow his name to go on the official ballot under the Mays law.

Another enterprise is to be established near Lakeview—at least B. Daly has "promised" to build a sawmill for a young "friend" of his, a young man whom he has "always thought a great deal of." Of course this enterprise will not be started until "after election." Next!

Those who believe in turning the Philippines back into barbarism, to abandon them to the "powers" of Europe, and haul down the American flag, will all vote for Chamberlain and against the Republican ticket.—Ashland Tidings.

Now that Col. Cogswell has arrived in Lake county, the Daly campaign will open in earnest.

The Crater Lake National Park bill is up to the President, and he will sign it.

A QUESTION OF SHOES

This is the season of the year when it is necessary to be well shod. In the winter, when the weather is bad, you wear over-shoes. At this season of the year the dampness is coming out of the ground and you need substantial shoes to
