The Fourth at Lakeview.

The Fourth of July passed over Lakeview without any public demonstration toward a general solemnity; everybody celebra-thed the day in his own way, either with fireworks or a bit of town.

The Earl, with some friends, were on a trip to the coast, and did not return to Lakeview until the 11th.

The Fourth of July was passed by the citizens of Lakeview at the usual place, the Town Hall, with a grand exercise of muskets
and cannonades.

Lakeview, July 17, 1880.

１

The Examiner.

The Fourth of July.

The Fourth of July passed over Lakeview without any public demonstration toward a general solemnity; everybody celebra-

thed the day in his own way, either with fireworks or a bit of town.

The Earl, with some friends, were on a trip to the coast, and
did not return to Lakeview until the 11th.

The Fourth of July was passed by the citizens of Lakeview at the usual place, the Town Hall, with a grand exercise of muskets
and cannonades.

Lakeview, July 17, 1880.

１

The Examiner.

The Fourth of July passed over Lakeview without any public demonstration toward a general solemnity; everybody celebra-
thed the day in his own way, either with fireworks or a bit of town.

The Earl, with some friends, were on a trip to the coast, and
did not return to Lakeview until the 11th.

The Fourth of July was passed by the citizens of Lakeview at the usual place, the Town Hall, with a grand exercise of muskets
and cannonades.

Lakeview, July 17, 1880.

１

The Examiner.