Last week Wm. Burnett of Silver Lake, under the employ of Columbus Porter, met with a painful, if not dangerous accident while corralling horses on the Klamath marsh. The horse he was riding fell with him, throwing him to the ground with such violent force as to break his collar bone. Al Dunning brought the injured man to Silver Lake and Joe Howard reduced the fracture and greatly alleviated the patient's sufferings. At last reports Mr. Burnett was resting nicely, and early recovery is hoped for.—Post.

Mrs. Bertrand Blair, the music teacher, has received a Metronome to assist her in her work. The Metronome beats time with music and has a bell attachment which rings the number of beats to a measure. It is a wonderful instrument and of great assistance to the pupil who is learning the art of music. Mrs. Blair has a number of pupils and her class is steadily growing.

George Duke of Likely accompanied by his brother-in-law, Mr. Little, was here last week looking after cattle, says the Cedarville Record. We understand that he offered 6 1/2 cents for beef delivered at Madeline. He says that recent arrangements made by the railroad company makes it possible for our stockmen to feed their cattle here and sell them in carload lots, which can be delivered at Madeline most any time during the winter.

The next bottle of whisky you buy, resolve to try the "Jesse Moore". You've heard it was the best; prove it by practical test. Jammertal keeps it.

Sumpter is becoming a great railroad center. That Huntington-Sumpter line, the one from Hilgard, the O. R. & N. parallel of the Sumpter Valley track, the northeasterly extension of the Nevada, California & Oregon narrow gauge from Reno, a possible wing of the Columbia Southern that seems to be getting lost on the John Day, and the Heppner branch of the O. R. & N. will make this a young rival of Chicago.—Blue Mountain American.

The people all over the country living along any mail route could enjoy the luxury in the way of mail service if they only knew it. Even if there are no so-called rural mail delivery routes in the country, it is possible for every farmer living along the route of a mail-carrying stage to have his mail left at his door by simply making the request. All that has to be done is to stick up a little box and notify the postmaster to have your mail put into it.

Everybody has read "Tom Payne," but unless you smoke the "Tom Payne" cigar at the Brewery saloon you cannot get the right inspiration. 24-3m

The rural mail delivery was hailed with delight when it was first placed into operation, but there promises to develop a lively opposition to its further extension. The country storekeeper declares that it is ruining his business and he is calling upon his congressman for redress. Under the old postal regulations the farmer went to the village for his mail, and just so sure as he went he left some money with the storekeeper. Now he remains at home, never going to the village except in cases of necessity, and enlist the services of the mail carrier to do some little chores which he desires.

Ed. Loucks, foreman of the Klamath Lake construction forces, who was the second victim of the drink-crazed McDonald, the Klamath murderer, died after suffering several days from a bullet wound through the body. It has been learned that Loucks crossed McDonald's path in an opportune time for the latter to take revenge for an alleged grievance. The man who did the shooting claims that Loucks interfered in a love affair of his, and assisted in every way he could a hated rival for the affections of a young lady of the neighborhood. McDonald has disposed of his property at Klamath to raise funds for his defense.

"El Comandante!" Who is it—what is it? Lovers of a good smoke will never ask that question, for they know. "El Comandante" is the pure weed that has made Post & King's cigar department famous. Ask once for an "El Comandante" and you will call for it always. On sale only at Post & King's, Lakeview. 24 3m

The East Oregonian suggests that Western Oregon opposes the coyote scalp bounty law because the benefits accrue to Eastern Oregon. However it may be on the part of some, there should be no such sectionalism injected into the discussion. The issue goes to the benefits so the region in which coyotes live and ravage the bands of sheep. If it be proven finally and conclusively that the destruction of coyotes and animals of that species makes for the greatest good to the greatest number of people in that portion of the state wherein coyotes are numerous, then ought Western Oregonians to support the law and retain it on the statute books.—Portland Journal.
