SHOT BY HIS FRIEND

Dwight Johnson is Accidentally Shot in the Hip by George Ross—Will Recover.

Last Sunday Dwight Johnson and George Ross went out to Cottonwood for a day's sport at the fishing pools. When preparing to return home a most distressing accident occurred in which Dwight Johnson was seriously injured. The boys went out on their wheels. Before going the younger lad secretly carried away a revolver and some cartridges from his father's room. He was apparently elated over the success had in fishing and boy-like became careless with the firearm. He swung the pistol above his head, intending to discharge it in the air, but the trigger worked hard and the hammer did not come down until on a level with young Johnson's body. The result was that the bullet entered the latter's thigh. Some other young men were in the neighborhood with a wagon and Johnson was brought home in their conveyance. A physician poked for the bullet but was unable to locate it. Dwight is getting along all right, and will soon recover if blood-poison does not set in. It is a most unfortunate affair as the young man works faithfully to support his aged and invalid mother. George Ross, the innocent cause of the accident, feels almost broken-hearted at the result of his carelessness. He has undertaken to fill Johnson's place as best he can in the Rustler office, and is doing everything he can to assist him in a financial way until he recovers.

A Calf that "Butts In".

Fred Ahlstrom, Jr. (we don't mean Fred Ahlstrom Junior-junior, nor "Grandpa" Fred Ahlstrom, but the rustling young business man of the Monogram) has a calf in his backyard that is in training a la Bob and Jeff, and "the antics of that calf makes the mother cow laugh", (no infringement on the rights of the poet who wrote an "Ode to the Cow"). This calf is one of the breed that "butts in" on every occasion. With continual practice which he seems determined to take, he ought to draw a salary in Ringling Bros' side show. About as often as the clothes-line prop is placed in position this calf knocks it down, and then makes a dash at the bag of clothes-pins hanging conveniently at one end of the line. The practice is continued hour after hour. One would think that the calf would tire of this monotonous play, but he doesn't—he just enjoys it immensely. Fred indulges him in the fun, and until last Tuesday morning believed that he wouldn't tackle anything but a bag of clothes-pins. It was perfectly natural for Fred to feel rather frisky on that morning (see birth column) and he went into the backyard to have some fun with the clownish calf. Unexpectedly the animal "butted in," and landed a "plexis" blow in some place on Fred's anatomy—just where he refuses to say—and when discovered Fred was over the fence, across the alley, in another lot. The calf thought he was a clothes pin. "Grandpa" Ahlstrom thinks he's "It" now, and will tackle that calf himself in the future, when the animal feels right devilish.

Not Over-Wise.

There is an old allegorical picture of a girl scared at a grasshopper, but in the act of heedlessly treading on a snake. This is paralleled to the man who spends a large sum of money building a cyclone cellar, but neglects to provide his family with a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as a safeguard against bowel complaints, whose victims outnumber those of the cyclone a hundred to one. This remedy is everywhere recognized as the most prompt and reliable medicine in use for these diseases. For sale by Lee Beall, Druggist.

The Palace (George & Fent's place) is becoming the smokers' emporium. The excellent brands of cigars carried there are the "Belmont," the "Robert Maule," and a new cigar made for the exclusive trade of the Palace, the "Key West Quartett." This is an extra fine article.

J. Frankl, the old-time merchant and frequent visitor in Lakeview, arrived from San Francisco Monday. Mr. Frankl says the city has its charms, but old Lakeview holds such pleasant memories that he always likes to return. Mr. Frankl's many friends were glad to greet him again.

Charlie Bernard, some time sport of Alturas, hit a man named Stormer over the head with a bottle at Eagleville, last Friday, and the victim was so long in coming too that it was thought Bernard would be held for murder. Besides they have in their reading room all the latest newspapers and periodicals, and in their club room excellent music and the latest Kaleidoscope moving pictures. Drop into the Palace when you are in town and you will be entertained.

W. A. Walker, prominent stockman of Bly, was here several days last week. Mr. Walker is one of the men who objects to the sheepmen infringing on the cattlemen's territory, in Klamath county, but who is not in accord with the movement now on foot, to threaten and use force in keeping the sheep out.

Charlie Metzker was an exemplary young man, known for his manly traits of character, and many who knew him will regret his death.

"Col. Bud" Currier has purchased the saloon stock of Dawson & McDonald at Paisley and closed up the "Dam'fino". The "Col." is now the "only" in the Chewaucan hub, in the refreshment line, and will be pleased to have the public call at the "The Pioneer" and partake of his hospitality. Next Monday the popular George Cooley will join him in the business, and a reception will be held on that evening at "The Pioneer," when Cooley will be initiated into the mysteries of mixing "soft drinks" and opening wine. Get your tickets in advance and avoid the line-up rush.
