THE END OF THE COAL STRIKE.
The great coal strike is ended. The anthracite miners have resumed work. The price of Eastern cities will get coal at prices far below what the port of San Francisco have always paid. Manufacturers can proceed with their business. The wheels of industry will again revolve. Unionism has received due recognition, for the United Mine Workers will be recognized by the arbitrators as they have been by the highest national authority, and, once so recognized, their justice standing is assured. All this has been accomplished by President Roosevelt, says the San Francisco Chronicle.

In his action President Roosevelt has been moved by the impulses of an American and a patriot, and not by those of a Republican and a partisan. He would be the historian in the world to seek to turn his success to the advantage of any party. We have no wish to do so. But the occasion is too impressive to permit its lesson to pass unnoticed. It is not the long-murdered agitator who crawls before workmen to get their votes who will do most for their welfare. It is not even those whose earnestness is not denied, but who are extreme in their demands and denunciatory in their language who are the best champions of labor's rights and labor's welfare. It is the calm, just man of clean life, sober thought, sound judgement and generous impulses who alone whatever his station, can wield the influence to accomplish results. The man who poses as the special champion of any class has very little influence outside of that class. When his failure becomes evident he is deserted, even by those for whose interest he works. There is no love of influence in office for all but the impartial and the just. A man seeking to represent the people and, at the same time posing as the special champion of one class, by the very act of taking that position, proves himself unfit for the office which he seeks.

President Roosevelt is, of course, a shining example of the just, strong, kindly man. His praise is in the mouth of every union worker today. But the Republican party is full of such men. President Roosevelt himself is a strenuous advocate of Republican policies. He knows that the majority of the American workman is bound up in the policy of protection. After one year's administration he now looks to the people for an endorsement of his policy and acts. He has proved himself the friend of union labor.

The overworked and sufferers from nervous prostration will find a real haven of rest in China, says the London Express. There is no such thing as a weaker newspaper as the hand. No other story-writer is known to have lived there for one hundred years. Education consists in a knowledge of the immortal Chinese classics. So sacred are painful tasks to the Chinese that they cannot be forced about or trodden upon without offending the gods.

Two days ago plant of Susaville was fully destroyed by fire, the other day. The 100 employees don't know where they are to live now, however, and a new mill and plant still be built. Two and a half years ago the big lumber mill at Susaville became one of the principal towns of the timberland country and has disappeared.

The only bad word was flung over the 100 men who had to leave the lumber mill unorganized. You know has taken to writing poems—for his health. This is really too bad. Such sad feelings should be given to the world in broken doses. It hurts to have the whole truth dashed suddenly upon one.

A SPIRITUAL VISION.

As special to the New York Sun from Morristown, N. J., tells this remarkable story: In a home on Hill street, Edith Gertrude Decker, 16 years old, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Decker, is dead. Connected with her death is a remarkable story of a spiritual vision. The girl had been sick for some time. While dying last night she said that shortly before, while she was alone, she saw the form of her sister Helen, who died a year ago. She attempted to cry out but could not. Then the sick girl lay in a stupor and listened. She heard the dead say, "Edith come to me." Then the vision vanished. The spell that held Miss Decker lasted a moment longer. Then she called her nurse, who informed Mrs. Decker, and together they listened to the wonderful story. The reaction from the strain made Miss Decker unconscious and her condition became worse. She revived and said: "I am sure I am to follow Helen. I am willing to go." Then she fell into a sleep and never awakened.

There is more cancer in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven cancer to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Cancer Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and removes substances of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Bounty Should Be Increased.

E. C. Murphy and H. D. McGreer passed through Bend Thursday with several thousand head of sheep which they were taking from the summer range on the Umpqua river to winter quarters near Antelope. Mr. Murphy says the gray wolves in the vicinity he has been in this summer are killing more deer than are shot by hunters during the hunting season. He is of the opinion that the bounty law instead of being abolished should be increased somewhat on these animals, which are destroying vast numbers of deer at all seasons of the year.—Deschutes Echo.

Stepped Against a Hot Stove.

A child of Mrs. Geo. T. Benson, when getting his usual Saturday night bath, stepped back against a hot stove which burned him severely. The child was in great agony and his mother could do nothing to pacify him. Remembering that she had a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm in the house, she thought she would try it. In less than half an hour after applying it the child was quiet and asleep, and in less than two weeks was well. Mrs. Benson is a well known resident of Kellar, Va. Pain Balm is an antiseptic liniment and especially valuable for burns, cuts, bruises and sprains. For sale at Beall's Drug Store.

Dr. G. A. Perrin.

Helena, Mont.

I wish to thank you for my relief. I was suffering agonies from piles and was taking morphine to relieve me, when, on the advice of a friend, I presented a tablet of your Perrin's Liniment to my doctor. I took it at 10 o'clock at night and another in the morning. At half past twelve noon, my wife gave me another tablet, spoonful, when my pain all stopped. In two days I was able to attend my regular business entirely relieved. It was simply wonderful.
