Geo. S. Nickerson received a very fine Solar transit Monday. The instrument cost $350 and is the best surveyor's transit ever seen in this country. Mr. Nickerson will establish a Meridian in Lakeview and get the correct time from the sun. This will be an innovation that has long been needed in Lakeview as no two people have the same time.

Mr. Yadin is making some welcome improvements on the Western stage line which will prove a decided convenience and comfort to the traveling public. As it is always necessary to run backboards over the mountains in the winter on account of the snow and mud, travelers are always exposed to the weather. Backboards with tops on are the latest improvements, and foot warmers are to be carried during the winter.

Wharton & Smith's Palace continues to be the popular club room. If you are looking for a man you will likely find him at the Palace. George and Fent always treat their patrons well. Latest periodicals. Private club room. 42 ft.

The Oregon Land & Livestock Company was incorporated at Eugene last week with a capital of $1,000,000. The incorporators are members of the Booth-Kelly Lumber Co., and they aim to cover nearly everything in the livestock business. This Company recently purchased the Military Wagon Road land and will develop all that portion east of the Cascades which is more valuable for stockraising than for timber.

Chas. C. Robertson a telephone expert arrived from Portland Monday to superintend the putting up of the local exchange system. The Lake County Telephone & Telegraph Co. are putting in the system and it will be connected with the Lakeview-Silver Lake line. A monthly rate will be made to cover the local exchange and it will include the line to Silver Lake. The rate will probably be $3 per month for the whole system. The phones, wire and poles are all on hand, and it won't be many days before the line will be in working order.

Jackson Square is one of the famous localities of New York. The "Jackson Square" in Lakeview is one of the famous market squares sold exclusively by Ahlstrom Bros. This firm also has exclusive sale of the fragrant "Instructor," also carries the ever famous Belmont, 3m

The Eastern Star Lodge entertained invited guests and a number of invited themselves in a very pleasant manner Tuesday evening. The program of the evening was made up of card playing, music by the orchestra, vocal solos and dancing, which was greatly enjoyed by all present. At 11 o'clock all were invited to the banquet room where the banquet spread, which was partaken of freely and with very little ceremony. The whole evening was of the usual standard of excellence given by the Eastern Star.

E. Carpenter, Wells Fargo route agent arrived from Reno Monday and proceeded to go through the books of the local office here. Everything was found in ship-shape order, but discovered that a great many people were in the habit of going into the express office and finding a package that belonged to them, would carry it off without paying for it. The agent would be compelled to go and collect for it or pay it himself, which proceeding is not according to the Wells Fargo rules and regulations. Mr. Carpenter is a very nice gentleman.

The New Town Council.

At an adjourned meeting of the City Council, held last Monday evening, the newly-elected officers were sworn in, and took up the town's business where the old council left off. The particular business before the council was the appointment of committees and for each member to ascertain his new duties. Mayor Whitworth occupied his new position with becoming dignity. A report is to be made by Recorder Snider showing the financial condition of the town up to the present. The report will probably show that the Town of Lakeview is in debt to about the amount of $10,000. Of this amount $10,000 is bonded indebtedness and $6,000 in outstanding warrants.

His Bones Bleaching In The Lava Beds.

According to the Redding Searchlight, the man who became a terror to Shasta and Modoc counties as a desperado and who killed a popular officer in the latter county, named Bert Walker, never got out of the famous lava beds. It will be remembered by readers of The Examiner that Illingsworth and Dorland escaped from the county jail at Redding the sheriff followed them to a lonely place near Adin, and, assisted by Bert Walker, the Alturas constable, who had a record for bravery, took part in a duel with the escapers. At that meeting Bert Walker the officer and Dorland the outlaw "passed in their checks."

The Searchlight has evidence from Modoc as follows:

From accounts received from Modoc County it would seem a certainty that Illingsworth, the outlaw who killed the officers near Lookout, was killed by the Indians after his escape from the encounter. In the mind of S. N. Harvey, constable of Adin, there is no doubt that the bones of the outlaw are now bleaching somewhere on the lava beds of Modoc.

Mr. Harvey and the man who tracked Dorland and Illingsworth to their camp on the creek. He it was who told the officers of the location of the camp. He was not engaged in the fight, but went in with others and got out Bert Walker, the Alturas constable who was mortally wounded. He heard Walker's story of the encounter.

Asked concerning Illingsworth, Mr. Harvey said there was no doubt but that he was killed by an Indian. Mr. Harvey says that after the encounter in which Dorland, outlaw, and Walker, officer, were killed, he was one of a party that tracked Illingsworth for eight days. Finally they lost all track of him, and gave up the chase.

Several days later an Indian, whose name Mr. Harvey don't know asked Col. Thompson of the Alturas Philanderer what there was in it for him to get Illingsworth. Mr. Thompson told him there was a reward out for the man's capture. He loaned the Indian his rifle to go out after Illingsworth, cautioning him to order the outlaw to throw up his hands and if Illingsworth didn't comply to shoot.

A young liveryman of Alturas was present at the conversation. He said: "Tell him now to throw up his hands and when you see him, shoot. He has a good gun and plenty of money, that is enough reward for you."

The Indian went out and was gone several days. When he returned he had over $100 in money and an Indian friend of his had a new 30-30 rifle such as Illingsworth is known to have carried.

The deduction that the Indian "got his man" seems reasonable.

Henkle-Ross Nuptials.

Cobb Henkle is recognized as one of Lakeview's confirmed bachelors, not so aged as some people think, and one of the best fellows on earth. It is probably not necessary to say that Mr. Henkle is the proprietor of the swell Alhambra and also of the Irish place down town. Last Saturday morning he skipped the "trial-n-loo"—or rather hid himself to Nevada's chief town, and—got married. This getting married is not a habit of Mr. Henkle's.

His bride is Anna J. Ross, a lady well known in Lakeview, and who has a kindly heart that other people ought to possess. Mrs. Henkle is esteemed by those who know her best—her good womanly traits of character will make her life-partner happy. The Examiner joins with many friends in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Henkle happiness, contentment and good fortune.

The wedding took place at Reno on Tuesday November 11.
