A massive fir stump that has been lying concealed beneath the sidewalk of one of Portland's main thoroughtare's ever since that city was a hamlet, was discovered the other day, and the ambitious mayor, district attorney and police judge made a raid on it, and it was taken out by the roots. Possibly that is the very stump that the Portland business men have been "up against" these many years when they were looking for Lake county's trade, and expected it to come to them without any effort on their part. Now that the stump is off of the main traveled walk, so they will tain Mine is showing up in splendid not have to go around, it may be possible that a move will be made on their
