The Oregon Country, which the expedition of Lewis and Clark assured American sovereignty, comprises all of the present states of Oregon, Washington and Idaho, the Western part of Montana and the Southwestern part of Wyoming. It had in 1850 an area of 307,000 square miles and a population of less than 14,000. It now has 1,500,000 people with room for 15,000,000 more, and an aggregate wealth, all classes of property included, of approximately $2,000,-000,000. Dislocated Her Shoulder

Mrs. Johanna Soderholm, of Fergus Falls, Minn., fell and dislocated her shoulder. She had a surgeon get it back in place as soon as possible, but it was quite sore and pained her very much. Her son mentioned that he had seen Chamberlain's Pain Balm advertised for sprains and soreness, ond she asked him to buy her a bottle of it, which he did It quickly relieved her and enabled her to sleep which she had not done for several days. The son was so greatly pleas ed with the relief it gave his mother that he has since recommended it to many others. For sale by Lee Beall, druggist.

Pure Bred Cattle Sales.

The Statistical record of sales of pure-bred cattle in the United States during the year 1902 is published in The Breeder's Gazette, and says in part "more than two and a half million dollars exchanged at auction sales for pedigreed beef eattle during the year just closed concretely expresses a fact which clearly indicates the expansion of a mighty industry in America. The figures show an increase of more than a balf million dollars in the volumne of business transacted at the block this year compared with last. An important and significant feature of the year's trade is the wide spread distribution of bulls. New sections of the country have been invaded and registered bulls sold where grade sires long have flourished. Bulls and females were distributed by the enterprising Short-horn and Hereford Associations in the Northwest from Sioux Falls to Spokane.

The general average of pure-bred cattle sold during the year is as fol-

Oregon Out Of Debt.

Probably no state in the Union can show a better financial condition than Oregon. The state has no outstanding bonded indebtedness, and its current debts are more than offset by accruing credits. In other words, Oregon is out of debt, and everything being collected in and paid out that is due, there would remain a considerable balance in the treasury. This, considering the fact that G. W. Davis swindled the state out of about $30,000, and that some state officers receive rather large fees and perquisities, is a fine showing. Oregon sets a good example for the several counties of the state. They ought to get out of debt and keep out of debt, except for a comparatively short space of time when some improvement too costly to pay for all at once is necessary. In a comparatively new and growing country some debts for improvements are scarcely to be avoided, but the debts of some of Oregon's counties and cities have been greater than was necessary, or than was justified by results. There has been, on the whole, an improvement, however, years. Several counties are practically out of debt, others have reduced York and other large cities do. As a city we shall probably follow the usual routine, however, increasing our debt about in proportion to our growth, but the county can and

Too much housework wrecks women's nerves. And the constant care of children, day and night, is often too trying for even a strong woman. A haggard face tells the story of the overworked housewife and mother. Deranged menses, leucorrhoa and falling of the womb result from overwork. Every housewife needs a remedy to regulate her menses and to keep her sensitive female organs in perfect condition.
