

The Present and the Hereafter.

Whence this ponderous globe which we inhabit. What vicissitudes has man passed through. What is his final destination, and when the dreams of the world is closed, what then. What is that which is first of all things. These are great problems. We can not presume to answer them or offer their final solution. To record the events of the following ages is to repeat the story of the past. We marvel that so many secrets of the past or silent ages are still unknown. Time is like a desolate island in the midst of a trackless ocean. But nature has always issued her bulletins, and we see in the creative force of nature that man has risen higher and higher in the onward march of evolution. But the great caravansary is in sight, the stopping place for all the dead and living. Here we all meet on one common level. Nature knows no royalty. The king and the tramp are on equal grounds in the hour of final desolation. How shall we say farewell. What thoughts come up when we utter these words. We open our eyes like an infant for a moment of time, and they are closed again once more. We arouse to consciousness of the rush of events, and the coming crash and the busy world moves on as though we had not existed in vain to push our conjecture farther. Where entered upon the border land of infinite space. What can man do. How must he die. Had he better hug a delusion and die a coward, or had he better use his reason and die like a philosopher. But what is the spirit of man whose thoughts thus wander through eternity. What is the intelligence of man that climbs the battlements of the palaces of earth and falls to rise no more. He has on will of his own in this matter. He was not consulted when he came, nor when he leaves the world, and whatever is the condition of man in the great beyond.

The genius homo, we are willing to accept and ask no special favors; Man's time on earth is like the track of a crawling insect upon the beach of a mighty ocean soon obliterated and gone for ever, and all is well.

Klamath Falls Fire.

The Klamath Republican in speaking of the fire there last week says: The fire started in an apartment just back of that occupied by the post-office and opened into Mr. Hammond's main store room, being filled with a large quantity of his goods. From here the flames communicated so quickly with all parts of the store that none of the stock nor even the books could be rescued. Losses may be summarized as follows: R. I. Hammond, building and stock of gent's furnishing goods, tobacco, stationary, etc., valued at between $4,000 and $5,000, with no insurance; Wells Fargo & Co., few packages of express; Postmaster Murdoch, postoffice fixtures, $500, no insurance; H. H. Van Valkenburg and Ky Taylor, damage to buildings $250, no insurance; telephone exchange slightly injured; building of REPUBLICAN office charred and damaged somewhat, covered by insurance.

Card to the Public.

On account of the continued ill health of my wife, I am compelled to change location. Consequently I am now offering my residence property at a price lower than was ever heard of in Lakeview. I am also selling out my entire stock of goods at cost.

H. SCHMINCK.

Several copies of the Northwestern Stock Directory, compiled by Sloss & Lightly, printers of Alturas, have been left at this office for distribution. It is a valuable book for stockmen and worth the price.

As Johnny Looks At It.

Ma's a vegetarian, Pa's a faith-erist, Uncle John he says he's an Antimperialist, Sister Sue's a Wagner crank, Brother Bill plays golf, Grandpa tells what he takes For to cure his cough, Cousin Jim writes poetry— Tells us what she's wrote— Aunt Leah he always claims Without a night to vote, I go out in the back yard soon as they commence, Ma'n my dog's th' only ones What's got any sense.

World's Smallest Republic.

The description and story of "San Marino, Romagna and Montefeltro" as told at the meeting of the Circolo Italiano by Miss Amy Allmand Bernardy, daughter of the United States Consul at Florence, Italy, was of great interest, says the Boston Transcript.

In her address Miss Bernardy passed in rapid review legendary and historical facts about San Marino, Romagna and Montefeltro, characteristic historical ceremonies connected in changes with the government, the palazzo, the cathedral, the three towers, the cloisters, natural beauties of the landscape, the customs of the people, and she closed with remarks on the present prospects of the little republic of San Marino. That it really is the smallest republic in the world may be understood because it is only thirty-two square miles in area, with 8000 inhabitants. It appears first in history in the thirteenth century. It was founded in an inaccessible wilderness by S. Marinus, at the time of the persecution of Christians by Diocletian. The diminutive state obtained papal recognition in 1631, and has maintained its independence ever since.

Miss Bernardy brought out much that was new regarding her subject, on which few (if any) living authorities are better qualified to speak. It was she who edited the official digest of the correspondence of the Republic of Marino, covering the time from the fourteenth to the sixteenth century, and early last spring presented the result of her researches and discoveries of the archives in an address delivered at the great hall of the Government Palace of San Marino.

Miss Bernardy received the degree of Litt. D. from the University of Florence and Rome and is a member of the Scuola d'Arte of Rome, and the Scuola di Paleografia e Diplomatica di Firenze. She is associated with several Italian papers and reviews, notably the Archivio Storico Italiano. At present she is in charge of the Italian department at Smith College.

It's So Easy

To take cold. It's so common to neglect the cold. That is one reason why there are so many people with "deep-seated," stubborn coughs, and so many more with "lung trouble."

The short, quick way to cure a cough is to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The quicker this remedy is used the quicker the cure. But even when neglect has let disease fasten on the lungs, "Golden Medical Discovery" may be relied on to cure in ninety-eight cases out of every hundred.

The only motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make the little extra profit paid on the sale of less meritorious medicines. He gains. You lose. Therefore accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

"I am feeling quite well," writes Miss Dorcas A. Lewis, of No. 1129 24th St., Washington, D. C. "My cough is very much better, and I owe it all to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I cannot say too much in praise of the medicine. I had been quite a sufferer for a long time, and after reading Doctor Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser thought I would try his 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I commenced taking it in May, 1892. Had not been sleeping well for a long time. Took one teaspoonful of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and slept nearly all night without coughing, so I continued taking it. I am in great sympathy with everybody who suffers with a cough. I had been a sufferer for more than ten years. I tried lots of different medicines and different doctors, but did not feel much better. I coughed until I commenced spitting blood, but now I feel much stronger and am entirely well. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the best medicine I have ever taken. My home is in Williamsburg, Virginia."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a ladies' laxative. No other medicine equals them for gentleness and thoroughness.
