Whose Ad.?

Printers' Ink uses a great many advertising blotters—in fact, uses no other. They come in as fast as wanted, and very nice and handy they are.

Whose advertisements are on these blotters?

Ah, that is a thing the Little Schoolmaster never observed, or, if he did, he never remembered and does not now remember, but he likes the blotters.—Printers' Ink.

This blotters is never available in advertising in your newspaper.

Gasolene Fire Caused Excitement

About half past ten last Thursday morning the alarm of fire was sounded and the hose cart was soon on its way to Bernard's warehouse where they have a barley crusher run by a gasolene engine. Some gasolene about the engine had exploded and was shooting flames to the ceiling. The presence of mind and quick work of engineer Ted Jaquish probably saved a large portion of Lakeview from complete destruction, by applying a hand fire extinguisher. It was a miracle that the gasolene tank only a few feet away was not exploded, which would have scattered flaming oil throughout the building, and the way the wind was blowing from the south, nothing possibly could have saved a large portion of town. As it was, no damage was done.

When the fire first started, Sam Lambert was standing close by and watching the engine, while Ted Jaquish was in another part of the building. Flames first shot up only a few feet but instantly leaped nearly to the ceiling. Dave yelled fire, and Ted looking around, took in the situation and told him to run for his life. Dave, being a cripple, could not move very fast, but the way he got out of there surprised even himself, and he soon discovered that he was several blocks away and meeting many people going to the fire. Dave said he didn't like the looks of that blaze.

This little fire, while no harm was done, demonstrates the practicability of the hand fire extinguisher. More than half a dozen arrived on the scene and were ready for business long before water could have been turned on. However, water was in the hose in a remarkably short time. Every business house in town should have a fire extinguisher. Most of them are supplied, and some necessities have them.

Stage Runaway.

Just as the Western stage was being loaded up with mail preparatory to departure for Klamath Falls Tuesday morning, the team became frightened at another wagon passing, and ran away. The rear horse was much the faster and crowded the other over on the sidewalk in front of the team. The team struck the troughs in front of Myers & Whitworth's store and broke them all down but one fine trough. The rear horse broke through the walk and fell down while the other branched from the harness and went on down the street. The horse's harness came ripped out and completely demolished. Edna Woodcock's bicycle that was leaning against the walk. The horses were not hurt and about all the damage done the coach was a broken tongue. The greatest damage was to the porch and bicycle.

Hay Come to Lake.

Captain Applegate informs us that Senator Fulton writes him that it is his purpose to make Klamath county a visit possibly in August. He may be with Wm. Steele's party but as yet can not say with certainty. Mrs. Fulton is to accompany the senator. Our junior senator may be certain of a hearty welcome in Klamath County.—Klamath Republican.

Senator Fulton has been invited to visit Warner Valley in Lake county in company with Governor Chamberlain, Congressman Hermann and U. S. District Attorney Hall, and it is possible that the party will come out here after visiting the scenic wonder of Oregon and the Pacific coast. These gentlemen have expressed a desire to inspect the Warner lands that have been so long in controversy, and their report may decide the fate of those settlers who lay claim to pre-emptions within the disputed territory.
