SHE KNEW IT ALL.

The Maid Who Spoiled One Chance of Getting a Position.

"Dear me, but I had a narrow escape!" said a young woman to an acquaintance as she entered a Sixth avenue surface car last Friday afternoon and, with a sigh of relief, took a seat beside the other.

"Nearly run over by an automobile?" asked her friend.

"Worse than that. I went in an Intelligence office over on the corner there-though why they call them intelligence offices is more than I can imagine, for that is the most scarce commodity in them. I went finding a treasure. It was an awfully narrow escape, and because, womanlike, she said too much I was saved."

"Saved from what?" asked the other. "Do tell me!"

"Well," continued the first speaker, "the girl impressed me very favorably indeed and appeared to be she saw that I had about made up my mind to engage her she tried to clinch matters by making the remark that saved me from having her in the house."

"What remark? Do tell!"

Evening came on, and the workman, having finished the job, shouldered his tools and turned to leave. As he did so a bonnie, bright eyed domestic laughingly remarked:

we've ever had here.'

"Good heavens!" he gasped, almost dropping his tools. "Why, I thought you were all deaf and dumb."-London Telegraph.

HUMOR OF THE HOUR

Her Success.

"She is indeed a most extraordinary girl."

"How so?"

"Why, when they decided to be married they found they didn't have enough money to begin housekeeping properly, and they didn't want to board. But she was equal to the emergency."

"What did she do?" "Well, he was almost rendy to give up, but she said: 'We'll take things on trial. Everything is to be had on trial that was advertised, 'If you don't like It after three months' trial return it at our expense.' They had to buy some by picking out novelties that were just being introduced they managed to get a good deal on trial. They got a patent range that way and a ventilated mattress and a patent bookcase and a lot of books and- Well, about half of all they needed was secured on trial."

purchase price?" "Certainly not. At the expiration of the time limit they sent the things back and got some others on trial. They've been running on this plan for six months, and she says if enough new manufacturers come into the field she sees no reason why they can't keep going for two or three years."-Broozlyn Eagle.

A molecule of alcohol is composed of two atoms of carbon, six of hydrogen and one of oxygen, so synthetical alcohol is obtained by uniting these atoms accordingly. For a long time It has been known that by direct combination are acetylene can be obtained. Sufficient hydrogen must be added to the acetylene to produce ethylene, a constituent of illuminating gas. In combining water with the ethylene alcohol is obtained. Thus alcohol is produced in France without the employment of Vegetable matter.
