Harriman is Beginning to Learn
That Central Oregon Will be Looked After Without Him

The Wall Street Journal is authority for the statement that E. H. Harriman has at last come to realize that his policy toward railroad extension in Oregon will not be tolerated much longer. The Journal ascribes the awakening to an editorial in The Oregonian, which made it plain that Oregon would move in the matter itself rather than be bottled up by awaiting for Harriman or other capitalists to come to the relief.

This much is certain now, the Wall Street Journal says: "Oregon is receiving more attention than all of the other Harriman sections."

"The preparations of the Oregon Short Line to handle a greatly increased business through Salt Lake City emphasizes the fact that within the past two years the far Northwest has advanced in traffic importance relatively faster than any other territory covered by the Harriman lines. The advance is due primarily to J. J. Hill. Portland has consistently held that the Harriman lines have not done for Portland and the North Pacific Coast as much as for San Francisco and the South Pacific Coast.

"Three months ago the Portland Oregonian openly criticised the Harriman policy on the ground that it had lost glorious opportunities and had not done anything to prevent the advance of the ports of Puget Sound at the expense of Portland. It also intimated that if Mr. Harriman did not think it worth while to do something for Portland, the city knew of some one who did.

"Since that time the Northwest has received more attention from the Harriman forces than any other portion of the Harriman territory. Reports have reached New York many times that corps of surveyors were in the field between the main lines of the Harriman system and the coast looking for new routes through Central Oregon and elsewhere. Harriman plans are never officially announced until well under way, but it is noteworthy that none of these reports have been officially denied."

Mrs. Thomas Garrett.

A telegram was received in Lakeview last Thursday morning from San Francisco to the effect that Mrs. Thos. Garrett had died in Lanes' Hospital. She had undergone an operation 36 hours before, but she could not survive the effect of the anesthetic and shock of the operation. A messenger (John Fitzgerald) was at once dispatched to Bly to notify Mr. Garrett, who at once started for San Francisco. The funeral is expected to take place at Elliot, Cal., and she will be buried beside her mother who died some years ago.

Mrs. Garrett was 25 years of age, and besides a fond father and devoted husband, she leaves three sisters, Mrs. Gordon Garrett, Mrs. J. S. Dewey, and Mrs. F. M. Miller, all of Lakeview. Mrs. Miller was at her sisters' bedside when death came.

Much sympathy is expressed for the bereaved husband and relatives.

George Hereford was in from his ranch on the upper Ochoco Monday to have an operation performed on his right thumb. A disease of the bone which has been troubling him for several months necessitated the cutting out of the first joint. Drs. Rosenberg and Morrison performed the operation. Mr. Hereford left Tuesday for Lakeview where he will spend the next few months visiting friends and relatives.—Pineville Journal.
