DELANEY IS WRONG.

The instant delivery of the captive girls, and if refused or further delay was sought, that he would kill the chief and then and there. That for no attention to him as they would all probably be killed any way.

Accordingly Ben Wright went to the camp 75 yards away. He told the chief he had come for the girls. The chief said in reply that he would not deliver them except on certain terms, but never intended to do so. That he had men enough to kill all the white men and would do it. Scarcely had the words escaped the lips of the treacherous old savage than Ben Wright whipped a revolver from beneath his blanket and said, "Here he is. He then, with revolver in each hand, favored his way out as best he could. The instant delivery of the two captive girls, and if refused or further delay was sought, that he would kill the chief and then and there. That for no attention to him as they would all probably be killed any way.

The couple entered the Yreka home, and were treated with all the respect and kindness that such a man as Ben Wright was entitled to receive.

The treacherous old savage was never released. One was killed at Hot Creek by the chief to settle a quarrel among the Indians. The writer and Judge Bollinger made a search and found a portion of her remains scattered about in the rocks where the man had been slain. The other girl probably met a similar fate.

HAMMERSLEY - HARTFORD.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Heford about two miles north of Lakeview, was Wednesday evening, October 7, the scene of a very pretty wedding, when Mr. A. H. Hammersley was united in marriage to Miss Olive L. Heford, W. B. Saiter, the Lakeview proprietor, officiating.

The services were conducted in the presence of the relatives of the bride and a few stockmen of both bride and groom.

Miss Heford was beautifully attired in a white silk, trimmed in white satin and silk applique and carried a beautiful bouquet of white sweet peas and muslin hair lace. After the ceremony, the happy couple departed for the Hammersley residence in South Lakeview where they will make their future home.

Mr. Hammersley has been a resident of Lakeview for the past 39 years and has been a stockman. He is at present employed by the firm of Ayres & Hollsworth under an agreement.

The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Heford, and has always been one of the foremost in the social circle of this city.

The Examiner joins the many friends of the bride and groom in wishing them both happiness and happy wedded life.

STOCK NOTES:

H. Howard, of Drews Valley sold 80 head of three-year-old steers to Swanson, of Sacramento, last week. The cattle were bountiful conditions and brought $7.50 per head. They will be delivered at the Howard Ranch on Oct. 19th.

L. Chest, of the firm of Chest Bros. of Harney county, drove one thousand head of cows through this section last Tuesday. The stock are being driven to clear county, on account of the scarcity of feed, and in Harney County.

H. E. Dunlap, assisted by L. Orf, 8th, and Louis Barkeberg, with B. Miller as cook of the outfit left the Crook county yesterday morning. They expect to drive 60 head of cattle, which Mr. Dunlap purchased from Jas. Gardner, back to Lake County, when they will be pastured for the winter.

W. F. Duke, buyer for Miller & Sons of San Francisco passed through town last Tuesday enroute to Siale. Mr. Duke, bought the beef of Whitworth & Snyder and several others at Steele Swamp, Modoc county, amounting in all to about 500 head. The price paid was six cents for cows and seven cents for steers, cattle to be delivered and weighed at Gialene.

J. W. Howard, the Lake County cattle king, arrived in the city Monday and will probably remain here the rest of the fall, says the Kamloops Falls Express. Mr. Howard will load from 2500 to 2500 head of cattle in the Kamloops region this season. He already has his hands full started this way and the first installation of stock reached him in a short time. He has bought all the Amery & Cantril and Holsey yard, besides some small lots from others. One can realize the immense amount of feeding a small outfit, at this time when it is known that he will take forty tons of hay a day. The first lot sent from the yard will be on the market by last of December. The first lot will be dried and sold sometime in November. Howard states that on account of the exorbitant price of hay this year, he believes there will be a much larger quantity of cattle raised another year. He now has about 300 head but does not intend to handle over 500 next year.
