The Country Newspaper.

(From the Boston Post.)

The weekly country newspaper, as an institution, is by no means declining. If one may judge by the evidence of the recent newspaper directories, it never flourished so much as at present. It has a character of its own. Its place cannot be filled by any metropolitan publication. It is the intimate friend of its constituents. It has the atmosphere of its locality. Its angle of vision is that of its community, and this truly reflects. Broad questions—state, national, international—it presents and considers as a part of its work of information; but these are subordinate to its own peculiar mission. The uprising in the Balkans, the breach in the British ministry, the scandals of the postal service at Washington, are dwarfed in actual, present importance by the washout on the state road or the project for a new trolley connection. And these indeed, are the real living concerns of local life. It is the home matters that make up existence, and with these the country newspaper deals.

We do not sufficiently recognize, perhaps, how great an influence for the preservation of that spirit of local self-government which is the foundation of our institutions the country press of New England has been and is today. It is unquestionably a power. And it holds the power and retains this influence because of the sturdy honesty of the country editor. The country press is the ideal of independence. It is, as a rule, unpurchasable and incorruptible. The country newspaper has its place from which nothing can dislodge it, no quick delivery of metropolitan dailies, no fascinating pictorials. And we are glad to see indications of the growth and prosperity of this product and aid of local enterprise and local pride.

Undesired Lodgings.

The patronage which in times past great princes were in the habit of bestowing upon men of letters had two sides. What the other side might well be is illustrated by an anecdote of Voltaire.

In the early days of his literary efforts the regent of France was much displeased by the tone of Voltaire's remarks about public affairs and had him locked up in the Bastille. But later, when his tragedy of "Edipus" was represented, the prince relented and released the author.

Happening to meet Voltaire soon after, the regent went so far as to say:

"Be prudent, and I will take care of you."

"I am infinitely obliged to you," said the poet, "but I beg your highness not to charge yourself further with my lodging."

Curious Facts About Eggs.

It is rather curious to know just how much pressure an egg will stand. The following tests, given in a scientific journal, may surprise readers. Eight ordinary hens' eggs were found only to give way under a pressure applied all round of between 400 pounds and 675 pounds on the square inch of surface. When the tests were applied internally to twelve eggs they yielded at pressures of thirty-two pounds to sixty-five pounds per square inch. The pressure required merely to crush the eggs was between forty pounds and seventy-five pounds per square inch. The average thickness of the shells was thirteen-thousandths of an inch.—Chicago Journal.

...School Notes...*Lakeview High School

Rate Woodcock, Editor

The program in Prof's room last Friday was very good. There was several visitors. There will be a program a week from Friday, everybody invited.

About twenty of the pupils were disappointed in not getting to see the inside of the jail this week.

The Pres. of our "Society" is absent this week.

Bertha Nickerson was out of school Monday afternoon.

The pupils of Prof's room were given some very good compliments last week.

Program in Miss Sand's room next Friday afternoon.

Several of the pupils went home at recess to prepare for the entertainment Tuesday evening.

The pupils of the High school are anxious for a few half holidays this week.

There is only one "pebble on the beach" this week.

Most of the important young ladies in the Prof's room were in the drill at the Milk Maid's Convention.

The temperature would be more even if there were two or more stoves in the room.

Absentminded Professor.

"What are you looking for, Professor Gumpersnitz?"

"I am looking under 'S' for my spectacles."—Chicago News.

A Plunger In Candy.

"Oh, Henry, did you ever love?"

"I did once, an' it cost me nearly 35 cents."—New York Journal.

Notice to Horse Raisers.

I will be in your part soon to buy all the 1200lb horses and mares I can get. They must weigh 1200lb or over, broke or unbroke.
