...School Notes...

Lakeview High School

Wate Woodcock, Editor

The Professor has recovered from the shock of correcting examination papers and now goes about his duties as usual, only in a more deliberate way.

Two days vacation this week.

The boxing contests are becoming very interesting in the High School this winter.

We are all puckering up our mouths for Thanksgiving.

George Ross and Professor had a twisting match last week.

Professor read us some very interesting short stories Tuesday afternoon.

Bessie Wise, Maud Ross, Clarence Snider and Ray Emerson are absent from school this week.

The president of the High School Literary Society appointed three girls to select colors for the society. They used very good taste by bringing an assortment of beautiful colors for the Society to decide upon. The girls formed a monopoly among themselves and tried to run things their way, but the boys showing their better judgement selected two beautiful colors and consequently "red and green" waves over the High School Literary Society.

Moody Acquitted.

Ex-Congressman Moody, who was being tried on an indictment returned by the Federal Grand Jury, charging him with wrongfully securing and withholding a letter addressed to Mrs. Margaret Conroy, which was alleged to have contained a receipt from the Controller of the Treasury for a final dividend from the defunct Dalles National Bank, of which Moody was president, was acquitted on the 18th.

Judge Bellinger interrupted the argument of District Attorney Wood with the statement that the prosecution was proceeding on grounds too far fetched to warrant a verdict against the defendant. The Court instructed one of Moody's attorneys to write out the order of dismissal, and after the document had been signed by the foreman of the jury the defendant left the court room.

Statements that political motives were the foundation of the indictments against Mr. Moody were dispelled during the trial of the case. He took the stand in his own behalf and went into detail regarding the affairs of The Dalles National bank, of his dealings with Mrs. Conroy, the prosecuting witness, and of the commercial strife that has existed between the Moodys and the French family of The Dalles since 1861.

Small Beef Trust.

If the cattle-raisers in the interior of Oregon can get better prices for their stock through a small beef trust, it is part of their business to organize and hold their stock over. Woolmen have been benefited by pooling their wool and cattlemen will reap the same blessing from the same practice. The fact is there is not half enough co-operation among producers. The producer stands alone and the buyers, packers, commission-houses and railroads do all the cooperating and reap all the profits. The low price of cattle on foot this Winter has not affected the price of meat to the consumer in the cities. No matter whether live beef is up or down the workingman must pay all he has left for meat, so the cattlemen's trust will certainly help the members and will not materially injure the community.—East Oregonian.
