Of New York

CHARLES W. FAIRBANKS
Of Indiana

A terrific wind and rain storm swept over Umatilla county last week doing very heavy damage to the wheat crop and to city property. The weather observer reports two inches of rain. The Oregon Railroad & Navigation company's tracts were washed out and the trains held at Pendleton. Cellars were flooded and the streets and yards were ruined. No loss of life was reported. The estimated damage to city property alone was $20,000. Much of the immense wheat crop of Umatilla county is totally ruined. The damage to the wheat crop is hard to estimate, as the extent of the path of the storm is unknown.

The Fourth of July casualties came up to the standard, several hundred people were killed and many thousands injured besides the thousands of dollars worth of property destroyed as a result of the glorious Fourth. Dynamite cases were among the most destructive implements, and the usual number were killed and maimed by the explosion of fire works, runaways and other causes due to reckless celebrating.

Again this week we received a letter from the Secretary of the Oregon Information Bureau urging the cooperation of the people of Lake county in the development of the state, and asking that something be done here to advertise our county so that we may secure our share of the immigration that is sure to come to Oregon within the next year.

The Kinkead law went into effect June 28, which provided that homesteaders could file on 640 acres of land in Central and Western Nebraska. About seven million acres are subject to entry under this law in a section of country where a man cannot make a living on 160 acres. In fact the land is good for nothing but grazing lands.

The Deschutes Echo at Bend died a natural death last week. Some months ago the Echo plant burned, and since the Echo has been issued from the Review office at Prineville, and finally gave up the ghost. Peace to its ashes.

It is stated by men who are in a position to predict conditions and prices that the bottom of the beef values is reached and better prices have already been assured.

The stockmen of the Pacific Northwest have organized an association and contemplate establishing an independent packing house in Portland.

For want of a platform of their own, the democrats have adopted one similar to that of the republicans.

Large forest fires have started in the Blue Mountains and much damage to timber and feed is inevitable.

Last Sunday the family of the late E. L. Green, formerly of Paisley, passed through Lakeview, on their return to Paisley after an absence of about a year for the benefit of Mr. Green's health. The family had started to return to Paisley when Mr. Green was taken sick and died, and the wife and five children finished the lonely journey without him.

Hiram Villard, a Yalmax gentleman came into this office last Thursday while the papers were being printed, and proved the intelligence of the Yalmax Indians by picking up a paper and after reading it said, "pretty good paper. I want to take it for a year," and paid over his $2, and watched with pride, his name being placed on the subscription book.
