In the matter of the selection of a news-paper to publish the County Court proceedings for the County of Lake, State of Oregon:

It appearing to the Court that the Lake County Examiner has 455 bona-fide yearly subscribers in said County; that the Lakeview Herald has 452 bona-fide yearly subscribers in said County; that the Lake County Examiner has a larger list of bona-fide yearly subscribers than the Lakeview Herald, therefore:

It is hereby ordered that the Lake County Examiner be, and it is hereby selected as the News-paper to publish the said County Court proceedings, as is required by law for the year ending January 1st, 1905.

Ordered that a License to sell spirituous, malt and vinous liquors in quantities less than one gallon is hereby granted to W. P. Moulder at Plush, Lake County, Oregon, for a period of six months from the 8th day of July, 1904. The said W. P. Moulder having complied with all the requirements of law in the premises.

Court adjourned without date.

FRIGHTENED HIS ILLS AWAY.

Suffered with an Affliction of Spine for Fifteen Years and Then Was Miraculously Cured.

"There are not a few recorded cases of chronic diseases and physical deformities being cured by fright or some violent emotion," said an old New Orleans resident, recently, while gossiping with his friends at the St. Charles, relates the Times-Democrat, "but I have read or heard nothing more extraordinary than a recent occurrence in north Louisiana. By comparison the most extravagant alleged faith cures appear commonplace. A Mr. Hampton had been a cripple for 15 years. He had an affliction of the spine and was unable to walk. "He was carried about from place to place by a large, powerful-limbed negro, who carried him as he would a sack of corn. Mr. Hampton would put his arms around the negro's neck. One night two laborers, who belonged to a gang which was repairing the railroad track in the vicinity, planned to steal a pig. They knew one of the farmers had butchered three pigs, and that the dressed animals were hanging in a barn. One of the men sneaked into the building to get a porker while the other waited in the roadside to keep a lookout. "It was an exceedingly dark night, and, as it happened, Mr. Hampton and his negro were returning home. Suddenly, out of the dark, loomed the form of the black servant with his charge on his back. The waiting accomplice to the pig thief thought it was his partner returning with his greasy booty, and cried out in smothered tones: "Is he fat?" The negro was superstitious, as his race is wont to be, and he thought it was a ghost. He jumped about ten feet, and Mr. Hampton was shaken off his back. The negro was a faithful fellow under ordinary circumstances, but in his fear all ties were forgotten, and he ran down the road. Mr. Hampton was greatly frightened himself, and made a supreme effort to follow the deserter. Strange to say, he succeeded in using his limbs, and ran 200 yards before stopping. None of the country doctors could explain the phenomenon, but it is a fact that he was completely cured."

THEY LIKE HUMAN FLESH.

Cannibalism Still Exists in Different Parts of the World—Sometimes a Religious Rite.

There are many places in the world to-day where cannibalism flourishes. Scattered about the Pacific ocean are many cannibal islands, where the natives eat human flesh because they like it for food. In others cannibalism is practiced as a sort of religious rite, says the New York Sun.

The natives of New Guinea are confirmed cannibals, and not long ago they killed and ate the members of an exploring party led by the well known missionary and explorer, Dr. Chalmers. Dr. Chalmers was one of the founders of Port Moresby, the principal town in the British part of the island, and had done more in the way of exploring New Guinea, than any other man. On his last expedition up the Fly river, the largest in New Guinea, he was at first received with all the old-time respect which the natives were wont to show him, but one night they killed the whole party and ate their bodies, including that of their friend, the doctor.

Seven Spanish sailors, who were wrecked near the mouth of the Muri river, in West Africa, were captured and eaten by the natives recently.

To-day there are cannibal tribes living in many parts of South Africa. Such tribes inhabit that region of wilderness belonging to Columbia known as the Tribes, and the brother of Geoffrey, the special envoy of the United States was killed and eaten by some of them while attempting to cross to the head waters of the Amazon.

Some of the tribes of northern Luzon are suspected of being addicted to cannibalism. Grosseome tales of cannibalistic practices are told of the voodoo worshippers of the interior of Hayti.

Night Was Her Terror.

"I would cough nearly all night long," writes Mrs. Chas. Applegate, of Alexandria, Ind., "and could hardly get any sleep. I had consumption so bad that if I walked a block I would cough frightfully and spit blood, but when all other medicine failed three $1.00 bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery wholly cured me and I gained 58 pounds." It is absolutely guaranteed to cure Coughs and Colds, LaGrippe, Bronchitis and all Throat and Lung Troubles. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottles free at Beall's at Drug Store.

"Gosh dern, Mary!" said the bride's father. "I guess you'd better git married ag'in."

"Law! What is the matter, paw?"

"Why, the paper says the ceremony went through without a hitch."—Indianapolis Sun.

Hash and the Three Graces.

"This hash," said the star boarder, "reminds me of the three graces."

"Oh," replied the delighted landlady. "in what way?"

"One is foolish to tackle it without faith, hope and charity."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Safeguard the Children.

Netwith standing all that is done by boards of health and charitably inclined persons, the death rate among small children is very high during the hot weather of the summer months in the large cities. There is not probably one case of bowel complaint in a hundred, however, that could not be cured by the timely use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. For sale by Lee Beall.
