CORSETS TRIED ON MONKEY

Forced to Endure Tight Lacing the Animals Soon Succumb to the Strain.

That tight lacing is injurious to women, has long been known, yet members of the sex persist in continuing the practice, despite the warnings of physicians. A few years ago several experiments were made to show the effects of tight lacing on monkeys. Miniature "monkey corsets" were constructed and applied to selected specimens of our female progenitors. According to Dr. Arabella Kenealy, who, it is only fair to state, "hates corsets like the devil," the poor monkeys were killed off as by a plague.

"Those who were corseted and laced at once to the regulation V-shape of fashionable women died in the space of a few days as though stricken by some mortal malady. Those in whose case a more gradual process was adopted lived some weeks in sickness and suffering, while others, the 'improvement' of whose figures extended over a still more lengthy period, did not succumb at all, showing that tolerance became established. But the tolerance was established obviously at the expense of health and happiness. These rudimental martyrs to a civilized vice fell off grievously in appetite and spirits. They were attacked by gastric and other internal disorders. They moped and lost flesh, alternating between extreme languor and marked nerve irritability. Their tempers rendered them unapproachable, and although they did not die actually of ways, they died within a few months of some disorder of which ways were the undoubted cause."

The movement for the separation of church and state in France has brought out a proposition from a group of deputies to submit the question to a referendum of the country. The constitution contemplates a referendum, but it is only adopted in the case of questions of the highest importance. The proposers of the plan assert that the separation of church and state is so vitally important that it should be submitted to the country.

Governor Terrell of Georgia has on his staff Colonel J. S. Raibe, who is a stieker for the respect due the state executive and members of his family. This was shown recently at St. Louis, where the governor and party are visiting the fair. Colonel Raibe knocked down a camel driver in the streets of Jerusalem because the driver refused to permit Mrs. Terrill to dismount when she discovered that she did not like to ride. The blow brought results. The camel was stopped and forced to kneel while the trembling wife of the governor dismounted.
