W. R. Bartwick, erstwhile blacksmith of Pine Creek was in Lakeview yesterday.

We understand that a remonstrance was circulated at Pine Creek last week against the issuance of a license to sell liquors. In that town. From what we can learn the remonstrance is not sufficiently signed to hinder the license being issued. However, the county court will settle that matter.

Charley Walter and his young brother came to Lakeview Sunday. Charley was suffering from cystitis of the head or some such ailment, and came here to be treated. Charley laughingly says a job of vaquero boss gave him the ailment. He joshes about it, notwithstanding his intense suffering.

H. C. Norton the Paisley miner, who has been in Ohio to see his partner, who was ill, returned last Friday, and went on up to his mines Monday. What business he transacted, if any, while in the East, we do not know, but our readers may expect to learn through our columns of any important development in the Paisley mines.

The Herald, our contemporary, passed into new hands last week. Wm. Wagner, who has run the paper under lease a couple of months is in charge as owner. We hope he will prosper, and also hope our relations will continue to be as they have been in the past. We will endeavor to maintain the even tenor of things at least.

We are inclined to feel sad over the demise of The Chewaucum Post, after an existence of nearly four years. Having started that paper in February of 1901, and worked with it for nearly three years, naturally we formed a liking for it and wish its demise had not occurred.

Some trade, we hated to see its light go out. Some say it has only gone to sleep, but why it should sleep if proper support to keep it alive could be had we do not know.
