BUCKINGHAM'S DYE

Advice to Young Men.

The following apt suggestions are from the Oregon Journal editorial, prompted by reflections on the indictment of distinguished men of Oregon:

Young men starting out on a career, think on these things. A priceless truth to you is that money or property wrongfully obtained, gained by any crooked means or dereliction of duty, is a curse, even if you do not actually transgress the letter of the law, or if, having so transgressed, you are not found out. Fidelity to trusts of all kinds, fidelity to yourself as an honest man, God's noblest handiwork, even though you should go through life with barely a competence, is more valuable than all of Rockefeller's millions.

A Portland business man having returned from a trip through the Southern States, said: "I was very much surprised at the interest taken through the south in the Lewis and Clark Fair. Everybody seems to be talking about it, and the Fair is certainly well advertised. The railroad men even at this early date are pushing it forward, and everywhere I went I found lithographs. What most surprised me was that in the south, from which it was easy to reach St. Louis during the Fair there last summer, few people went, and yet these people are talking about coming to Oregon this year."—Oregon Journal

President Roosevelt, in transmitting to Congress the report of Ambassador Porter, concerning his efforts to locate the body of Admiral John Paul Jones, has urged the erection of monuments for both Paul Jones and John Barry, "to emphasize the value set by our people upon the achievements of the naval commanders in our war of independence."

The President indorses the word of Ambassador Porter and asks Congress to appropriate $35,000 needed to conduct the search for John Paul Jones' body in the abandoned cemetery of St. Louis, where it is believed he was buried in 1792.—Ex.
