

COVENT GARDEN DESCRIBED

Famous London Market Set Forth in Word-Pictures at Various Periods.

Market gardeners who spend the sleeping hours of the Londoner's morning at Covent Garden would scarcely recognize their place of business in the words: "I across fence of pasture cum pertinentis vocat The Covent Garden jaentes in parochia Sancti Martini in campis juxta Charinge-Crosse." Yet that was the description of it as held by the earl of Bedford when he leased it on March 10, 1631. Earlier than that, though, in 1570, the same landlord, in granting a lease of it to Lord Burghley, called it his "poeyon or percell of the Pasture commonly called Covent Garden, and other tenements situate in the high streete of Westminster, commonly called the Stronde." A present description of Covent Garden might be better spelled, perhaps, but it would be less picturesque. "Commonly" ceases to be common when it can be spelled as you please.

CAUSE OF SLOW GROWTH.

Cause of Retarded Development of California Is Laid to Scarcity of Coal.

One of the causes which has somewhat retarded the development of California, particularly in the main mining line, has been the lack of fuel. The finding of oil in that state has advanced in some degree the situation, but large quantities of coal are still used, most of which has had to be brought in from Australia or other foreign ports, or else brought by rail a distance of 1,000 miles. Recent discoveries in the state indicate that coal in large quantities exists in that locality at several points, and development is being pushed with vigor. While this means a loss of some immediate traffic in the territory, it promises large gains in the future. The development of the resources of that state has only just begun, and correspondingly the present volume of railroad traffic therein is the only promise of what will come in the future.

LITTLE SLEEP FOR SULTAN.

Fear of Assassination Is Cause of Insomnia of Abdul Hamid, Turkish Monarch.

The sultan of Turkey sleeps only two or three hours of the 24, and even when some one is reporting to him or a musician is performing in the adjoining room. This insomnia, which is chronic, has been a matter of about 15 years, but of assassination. A fight is always making in his son, and Ismet Bey, his foster brother, and grand master of the imperial wardrobe, sleeps with him in the same chamber. Ismet Bey is the most trusted member of the sultan's court, and, as he closely resembles his master in appearance, he not infrequently impersonates Abdul Hamid on those occasions on which the sultan appears in public ceremonies where a risk of assassination is involved.

Empress Wants Big Flowers.

The dowager empress of China, that lady of most uncertain temper, is magnificent in her taste and hates all poor specimens of flowers. She is said to constantly scold her gardeners because the colossal chrysantheums they raise do not appear to be large enough and she has also expressed her displeasure that all trees could not be made to produce flowers and fruit simultaneously as do orange and lemon trees.

Fortune to Richard Beswick. Reports from San Francisco say that Judge A. J. Conroy in the United States Circuit Court has rendered a decision which gives promise of adding nearly $100,000 to the already comfortable fortune of Richard Beswick, a well-known capitalist of Ashland, Oregon. The decision in question upsets E. D. Dorris, P. A. Dorris and various Dorris, big stockmen of Matney county, California, to pay to Beswick $95,598.05, which amount Beswick sued for on promissory notes dating back more than 30 years.

In 1874, when Nathaniel Beswick, wounded in the Modoc Indian War, was taken to San Francisco to have his injuries properly treated, his brother, Richard, spent his last dollar in caring for him, but the wounded man died, leaving his brother as an heirloom a bit of paper which promised that P. A. Dorris & Bro. would pay the bearer $9,000 for value received in services, etc., on the Dorris cattle ranches. Richard also held the Dorris note for 1900 for services rendered.

Through many years, it is said, the plaintiff, Beswick, has renewed the two notes as one at 10 per cent interest, each year the amount of interest being added to the principal until the last note, made in June, 1897, amounted to $55,000. Added to this, the interest up to date brings the total for which judgment was asked and obtained to $95,598.05.

An Editor's Opinion of the Royal Gorge.

Edyth Foxier Weatherford, in describing a recent trip over the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad, says in "The Exposition":

"At last the goal of the ambition of years has been reached—marvelous, wonderful, grand and inspiring Royal Gorge is on either hand. The only disappointing thing is you only have one pair of eyes, while the train flirts in and out of the tremendous chasm. If any who have never seen it are wondering how it looks just go and see. Thousands have tried to describe it, yet every attempt falls short of giving the subject justice."

If you contemplate a trip East, write W. C. McBride, 124 Third Street, Portland, Oregon, for booklets picturing Colorado's famous scenery, and any other information you may desire.

Setout Leach's Wheels, Reverter. A young woman, 8 feet 4 inches tall, who is something out in front with her strength, became temporarily incapacitated with a revolver compelling the family where she was bound. Her sister who was there sick, another lady who happened to be there, two watch men and fourteen tincoons to accompany her to a neighbors house, fifty or miles distant. The men folks, under penalty of sudden death were forced to hitch up the best team on the ranch to a three seated carriage; one of the ranchmen was ordered to sit on the front seat and drive, while the women folks were ordered to their seats in the carriage and a ranch hand was made to stand up in the hind end of the rig, while the fourteen tincoons mounted on good horses rode in a squad around the carriage as it moved along at a moderate gate to the next neighbors ranch. The young woman must have exhibited considerable bravery, or as much courage as said of the 14 "wild cow boys" who were forced by her to do her bidding.

One would hardly believe such a thing ever happened in Oregon, and only for the veracity of an Idaho newspaper, the story would be generally doubted.

If You are not Particular don't travel over the Illinois Central, as you will find out as you go and see that your patronage, but if you are particular and want the best and mean to have it, ask the ticket agent to route you via the ILLINOIS CENTRAL, the coal hot runs through, and visitible towns mentioned: Paul Dunlap, Chicago, St. Louis, Memphis, and New Orleans.

Might Bring a Flood.

Charles Hatfield who has created quite a sensation in Los Angeles by claiming that the recent heavy rain in that section was due to his chemical manufactures, has his eye on Nevada as the following from an interview in a Los Angeles paper shows: "Near Reno Nevada, on the eastern side of the Sierra Nevada mountains," said Mr. Hatfield, "there is an arid region about 100 miles square. Rain has never fallen there. The rain from the coast is precipitated before reaching this area, therefore making it a dry and barren locality. Nevada is dry because of the intervention of these mountains. Now I would like nothing better than to go to this region, or anywhere on the globe for that matter, and conduct a series of demonstrations, for I feel confident that I could produce rain."

If Hatfield was really the cause of the sudden downpour in Southern California, Nevada will do well to think twice before inviting him here. Dry ground is sometimes preferable to inundation.—Nevada Observer
