Tarew off Their Disguise
One of the best social dances of the season was given in the hall last Saturday evening by the Lakeview Orchestra. Nearly all the "oldies" were out, and the way side of their "swing" on the corner proved they were not "old" enough to be back numbers. W. H. Shirk is entitled to the prize for best dancer. There were more ladies than gentlemen, and Lee Beall remarked that he was making a martyr of himself. Lee can't dance much, but is very popular with the ladies. Dr. Steiner was to have been there, but it is believed that when he heard Charley Sherlock was going, knew there was no chance for himself to show, so remained away. Charley Tompkins' graceful attitude on the floor won for him considerable distinction among the ladies, but was envied by all the young studs that had sweethearts there. Joe Lester was all right as soon as he got onto the two-step. A. J. Smith could hardly be classed among the "old boys" for he can't be a day over 18, but he was the only one who created any jealousy among the really old boys.

Died in Mill City.

Mrs. Sarah J. Barham of Mill City, Oregon, died on April 12th, after an illness of eight days from a severe attack of influenza, at the age of 83 years. She was born in High Point, Iowa, April 29, 1841. Married to John M. Barham April 19, 1867, came to Oregon and settled in Mill City, now Mill City, 28 years ago, where she lived with her husband until her death. Besides her husband, there are four children living: Mary I. Koenigs of Stayton, Oregon; John A. Barham of Paisley, Oregon; Sherman Barham and Walter Lanker of Mill City. John Barham of Paisley, received the sad news of his mother's death last week. It came as a shock to him who was not aware of her illness. The friends of Mr. Barham sympathize with his loss and sorrow.

This report is changed each week, and if our readers wish to keep a yearly record of weather conditions for future reference, cut out the report along the black line and paste it in a scrap book one week after another. This record will be taken on Tuesday to end each week and begin on Wednesday for the next week. Government Weather Bureau Station at Lakeview, Oregon, C. O. METZGER, Local Observer.

Edwin W. Joseph is dead.

Edwin Worthington Joseph, aged 73, was interred yesterday at Woodburn, and many members of the family residing in Portland attended the funeral services. Mr. Joseph was born in Muskingdon county, Ohio, in April, 1839, and crossed the Isthmus of Panama for the California gold fields at the age of 21. In the early days of his California residence he engaged in various business ventures, but later opened a large stock ranch on Pater creek, Siskiyou county, where he won the surnames of "Pater Jack," by which he is known to a vast number of Californians today. Later Mr. Joseph resided in other counties of the golden state, and finally came to southeastern Oregon where he resided with his family until six or seven years ago. For the past three years he lived at Woodburn, where he died Saturday evening of heart failure. He was in apparent good health the evening preceding his death. Mrs. Joseph died in Portland slightly more than a year ago. Members of the family resident in Portland are George W. P. Joseph the attorney, who is the only son, and Misses Carrie and Eva; the third daughter, Miss Jennie, resides in Huntington. Mr. Joseph's long residence in California brought him in contact with numerous men who have become famous, among the number being Mark Twain, the humorist-author, who often urged Mr. Joseph to take to a literary career, predicting eminent success, as he was a vivid word-painter and remarkably close observer.—Oregonian.
