Ten Dollars for Advice.

It cost David O'Neil just $10 to be rude to Yasye, the violin virtuoso. It might have cost him more but for the fact that he did not appear in court, so all that Police Judge Cabaniss could do was to order the bill forfeited.

"Aw, do another one, yeh?" was the remark of the judge as he looked at the defendant. "If you had used your tongue instead of your hands, you might have been a violin virtuoso yourself."

The defendant, who was a young man, looked at the judge and said: "I'm sorry, your honor, but I didn't know you were a violin virtuoso yourself."

I was afflicted with nervousness and general debility to such a degree that I was unable to do any work and had to take a rest. I was told that I was not gaining my strength and health as fast as I should, and as your Wine of Cardui was recommended as such a tonic, I bought a bottle and began using it. I was satisfied with the results from the use of the first bottle, and took three more and then found I was restored to good health and strength and able to take up my work with renewed vigor. I consider it a fine tonic and excellent for worn-out, nervous condition, and am pleased to endorse it.
