LAKEVIEW, OREGON, JUNE 7, 1905.

A Far-sighted Editor.

In the Cedarville Record last week was a write-up of the smallpox situation in all the surrounding towns, as close to home as its editor is in the habit of looking for such things. Bro. Stanley seems to think the Lakeview papers are responsible for the spread of the disease at Pine Creek and Modoc towns. But he says one thing he does not think. He says "it is presumed that it was conveyed in some manner from Lakeview." Now he knows this is not so—if he knows anything. The health officer of Modoc county has said that the disease was brought to Alturas, Cedarville and Adin by a drummer, who also stopped at Pine Creek. Fortunately, however, he did not leave a single case in Lakeview.

Mr. Henry, who came from Missouri, and came through Reno, was taken sick at Mr. Reynolds' home and did not leave the house, so that the only cases that have been in Lakeview have been so thoroughly quarantined that it has been absolutely impossible for the disease to spread. Lakeview is not quarantined, nor has not been, nor has there been any occasion for such a measure, because there was no chance for smallpox to get out of the house where it was.

Bro. Stanley says the Record "exposed" something. Well, maybe it did; but there is one fact that everybody knows it did not expose.

About the only fighting the Russians have done on sea was when they either met the Japanese fleet or were hemmed in some bay and couldn't get out. The Vladivostok fleet maneuvered for several months to get away from Port, and the Baltic fleet made a bold dash for that Port. What Rojstvenski would have done if he had safely reached Vladivostok can only be guessed at by what the Vladivostok fleet did while it was there.

President Roosevelt pressed the point, key that started the bells to ring, the machinery to go, and up went the Lewis and Clark fair, with his thumb. Souvenir cranks will be wanting a piece of that thumb now for a souvenir of the Lewis and Clark Centennial.

What are Lake county people going to do about remonstrating against the creation of the forest reserve. Anything? We are now in a position to keep still and have the reserve made permanent and one-half the stock driven out of the county.

We understand that the people of Modoc county who signed a petition a year ago to have a forest reserve created in that county are ready to sign another petition to have the reserve thrown open.

The two automobiles that are running a race from New York to Portland are scheduled to pass through Prineville this week. Watch out for their dust.

With big crops of wool, farm products, mutton, beef and horses at good prices, Lake county ought to be the best county in the state; and it is.

The rain maker Hatfield must have turned his attention to Lake county of late.

The Examiner urges the people of Lake county to get up a petition praying for the release of Lake's stock range from reservation.

The howl that has been going up that the range is overstocked is apt to quiet down into a peaceful snuffle if these warm rains keep up.

And still the Cedarville Record man's "omne-bis-point" hinders his vision of conditions in his own "bal-twick."

Ask Peter Peterson, one of Surprise Valley's biggest cattle men if, deserves benefit the cattle man.

If the Russian fleet had been a little swifter it might yet be on top.

The Russians fought a running battle. Nothing new about that.

Russia seems to be playing "Pass in the corner."

It was not a fishing fleet this time.

Harney a Great Place.

No matter what kind of a curiosity any other country rakes up, Harney valley will scare up something to match it, or beat it a little. Corydalis recently boasted of a four-legged chicken born near that town to one of a well known farmers favorite hens. Harney people heard of the chicken and went out among their seedless apple trees looking for a chicken nest that had not been ratted up by the big hogs to see if they could not find a chick with at least four legs. The Times-Herald man was the first to make the discovery and now Harney has a four-legged chicken, but their chick is mounted and on exhibit. The extra legs of the freak are fastened to the body just back of the natural pair and are a trifle shorter—made so, presumably, to scratch with, for the Harney chickens have to scratch for themselves—and a little smaller. This chicken came so near being two chickens that it died for want of life and was mounted by the taxidermist. Perhaps if we were to tell that Charley Sinder of Lakeview owns a sorrel gelding 37 years old last April, and raises a colt every year, either the Times-Herald man or some one else his equal would dig up "Old Colonel's" father.

Civil Service Examinations.

Examinations for the position of Forest Ranger in the Forest Service, Department of Agriculture, under the Civil Service rules, will be held in Lakeview from August 31st to September 2d, this year.

Postmaster Wiley has been requested by the Department to secure suitable rooms for holding the examinations, and The Examiner has received notice from the Department that such examinations will be held and requested to call attention of the fact to our readers.

A few weeks ago The Examiner published the qualifications for all Civil Service officials under the Forestry rules for the benefit of those who might think of applying for positions.
