S. M. McKensy, of the telegraph line, is expected here shortly to look over the line and make some needed repairs. There is a proposition talked of for running the line direct from Pine Creek to Alturas, instead of crossing the mountain into Surprise valley. This, we understand, will not effect the line from Bidwell through the Surprise Valley towns, as a line will cross the mountains to Alturas where it does now, at Cedar Pass. This line can be kept up easy, as it follows a road. Mr. McKensy intends to put the line in first-class working order.

J. J. Monroe and Mr. Friday were from Adel first of the week on business. He and Mr. Monroe made The Examiner office a visit while here. Mr. Monroe purchased a new carriage from J. E. Bernard & Son. He will leave Warner Valley, but did not know where he would locate. We wish him success, wherever he goes.

The quarantine was raised from the Colvin Lane Monday, and now the travel will not be interfered with. All smallpox patients are well so far as we have heard, and the routine of business is being transacted in all the towns where there has been cases. Those who were actually sick with the disease have not been released yet, but as all are now isolated there is no further danger of a spread if care is used. One dwelling in Lakeview is yet under quarantine and the hotel at Pine Creek. Further than these, we believe there is no quarantine. The health officers have used the best of judgement in preventing a spread, and the people are to be commended for their regard for the rules.
