Their Only Weapon.

The persistence with which the two nonentity leaves down the line question the variety of The Examiner can only be regarded by sound minds as pettish. The Col. and "Uncle" Stanley are addicted to the vile habit of calling everybody "liars" with whom they cannot agree upon the most trivial or important point. It is a display of pitiful depravity of mind to allow oneself to give the lie upon the slightest provocation, and soon leads to an unenviable stage. The Examiner publishes its news items only upon what its editor believes to be good authority, and the readiness with which these papers ever stand to brand every man as a "liar" does not waive our confidence in our informants. No one ever takes either of the papers very serious upon any subject, and through sympathetic kindness, we inform their editors of the fact.

Range Trouble In Grant.

Serious trouble is looked for in Grant county during the coming summer between stockmen and small ranchers. Armed guards are patrolling the streams to prevent cattlemen and sheepmen from using them for watering places for their stock. The guards have been instructed to shoot if herders persisted in the usurpation of the streams and range in prescribed territory.

A strong organization of ranchers, business men and mining men are at the back of the guards, and unless the stockmen observe the rules posted on trees and signboards trouble is looked for.

A man arrived here from Klamath Falls a day or two ago and stated that he was informed that if he came to Lakeview he could not get away, as the place was under quarantine. How such reports get out is a mystery. Lakeview is not under quarantine and has not been. We have a clean bill of health. There is not a case of sickness in the town of any consequence nor one of a malignant or contagious type.

The President has been informed of the fact that the Indians along Spring creek and Williamson, on the Klamata Indian Reservation, are slaughtering fish by the wholesale and the extermination of trout in these two streams is inevitable should the slaughter continue. The President has taken the matter up with the Indian office and a fish preserve will likely result.

The fastest railroad train in the world runs on the Lake Shore railroad between Chicago and Buffalo. The world's record was broken on this line the other day by a run of 526 miles in 453 minutes, a little over 70 miles an hour. Think of going from Lakeview to Portland and back in seven and one-half hours.

The congressional irrigation committee will visit the Malheur project on June 23. Senator Fulton urged the committee to make an investigation of the project instead of putting in all their time on the Idaho and Washington projects.

The Whipping Post Law.

In all this widely discussed and much argued mode of punishment inflicted on the man who whips his wife there seems to be one general opinion; that he deserves it. The magnitude of such a crime warranting the severest chastisement. This in itself is true, yet there are some mitigating circumstances. A man who would strike a woman lowers himself to the level of a brute, which correctly defined means an irrational animal. Any woman who would provoke the anger of any such brute lowers herself to at least one-half his equal. It is for woman to smooth and try to control the many diversities of the domestic union, or marriage state, and when it is realized, probably late, that an ungovernable temper is to be contended with a woman with any intelligence should begin to study the best plans for control; yet should the powers of endurance become lessened, then all that remains is to separate. A mistake was made; Compatibility is lacking. As impossible as it is to control the elements, so is it impossible to harmonize antagonistic natures. These conditions, when existing among the more intelligent classes, undoubtedly would end as prescribed. Among the illiterate is where probably the greater injury is done and where, if the cause of confusions would be determined, in many cases would be found that the woman could share an almost equal blame. The very fact of a wife defiling the husband by admitting to the world of his brutality places her very questionably before the public, that is if she continues to live with him. Should a law, such as the whipping post, be enforced upon him, humilitating him to the extremest the woman should respect the protection given her. In many instances, however, it will be found that after this severe and degrading punishment the sympathy of the woman will be aroused and a forgiveness extended the culprit. There certainly should be some penalty for the woman, who would in such an extremity, make the infliction of the whipping post seem so trivial. Now the question arises, whether after a flogging the conditions are bettered? Will a man return to his hearthstone and become more considerate toward the wife? After such a degraded chastisement and public exposure, will the man become more sensible of wrong and try to cultivate kindly traits? surely not. This would be contrary to all animal training and will not produce effectiveness in man. These solons who devise laws, meting out punishment for all abnormally developed, brutish men should think it over and find a remedy that will better conditions. When, after a punishment a man may become repentant and show some spirit of contrition, extreme measures producing mortification and humility as the use of the whipping post, will never gain supremacy of government or cultivate docility of nature over brutish temperaments.

(The above was contributed to The Examiner by a friend, and does not represent The Examiner's views on the whipping Post law. The Examiner believes there should be something done to put a stop to the heastly practice of wifebeating, and we are willing that experiments may be made. Wifebeaters are fit for nothing but subjects for experimental law, anyway.)
