Growing Business Demands it

For some months we have been figuring on some scheme to increase our service. Different plans were thought of and figured out, the two favored most was either to make it 6-column, still running 8 pages, or to leave it 4-column and increase the number of pages. We have decided on the latter, and have begun arrangements to publish a 12-page paper instead of 8 page, as The Examiner has been since August, 1900. We have also figured on a type-setting machine for The Examiner, which would cause an outlay of about $2500. This is a little steep, but we hope in the near future to enlarge the paper to 6 columns, 12 pages, and put in a typesetting machine.

The increased circulation of The Examiner and the constantly increasing demand from foreign advertisers compels us to enlarge the paper to meet the demand for space and increase the capacity of the office to supply our customers.

The Examiner is nearly 24 years old, and every change that has ever been made in the makeup of the paper in any way, has been to increase its efficiency, and these changes have been made from time to time, as rapidly as its steady and constantly growing business would permit. Never has it gone backward, but always striving to a still higher rung of the ladder of usefulness. The goal has been set, and when it was reached, it was set as far ahead as was consistent to put it, and again it was reached. And so The Examiner has grown, forged ahead and always strove to meet every demand, since the first issue, on January first 1880. And so it will continue to grow and become more and more efficient in its calling.

It will be some few weeks before we are able to issue the 12 page paper, but we have started the ball to rolling. The price will be the same, $2 a year in advance.

We do not ask any bonus for this increased service, or anything of the kind; we simply want our patrons to have the benefit of every possible advancement, and all we ask is for everyone who believes The Examiner is trying to please, to see that their name is on its subscription list, marked "paid ahead," and if it comes handy to you, speak a word for it wherever you can that will add to its subscription list.

Democratic politicians in the state are somewhat uneasy just now, while Governor Chamberlain is out of the state on a hunting trip and Secretary of State Dunbar is exercising the duties of Governor, last Senator Mitchell will resign from the senate and Mr. Dunbar, a republican, will exercise his power to appoint a republican to the U. S. Senate to serve out the two years of Mitchell's regular term.

The result of the trial of Senator Mitchell has started the senatorial bee to buzzing in the bonnets of a number of eligibles, among them T. B. Wilcox, W. D. Fenton and A. L. Mills, of Portland, Ex-Governor Geer, of Salem, A. S. Lowell of Pendleton and M. A. Moody, who was defeated for congress two years ago, is also talked of.

The question now is, will the appointment of Elihu Root to the position of Secretary of state take him out of the presidential race?

Open Your Eyes, Brother.

A few weeks ago, The Examiner, in commenting upon the Forest Reserve policy, brought in, as an example, the disfavor with which Modoc county people have come to regard the reserve in that county. The Alvarus Philosopher, always a strong advocate of the reserve policy in his county, seen fit to denounce The Examiner's views on this question and call his editor a "liar," Mr. Thompson's favorite name for everyone with whom he cannot agree. He emphasized the truthfulness of his own paper, and stated in the same item that there was not a man in Modoc county that was not entirely satisfied with the reserve in that county, and stated further that if we would show him a man who was not, he would show us a transient sheep man.

The Examiner knew what it was saying when it stated that there were prominent stockmen in Modoc county who signed the petition a year ago to have the reserve created and were now ready to sign one to have it thrown open. He even defied us to show him any such. Now, Bro. Thompson is as ignorant of the sentiments of the people in his own county as he is of decent language and courtesy to his fellowman. We were talking to a gentleman from Modoc county last week, whose nationality is far more unquestionable than that of the Philosopher man, and whose knowledge covers a much larger scope, and he said "If Mr. Thompson will go into Surprise valley he can find scores of stockmen, large and small both sheepmen and cattlemen, who will sign a petition any day to have the reserve thrown open." Now Bro. Thompson, do you wish to know who that man is? Probably not, and no doubt a dose of the advice you gave the editor of The Examiner, well rubbed in on yourself, would bring you friends.

The Jury in Mitchell Case.

Senator Mitchell has been tried and convicted. Very few people believed that a jury could be had that could agree upon a verdict, not knowing what the evidence would be. The evidence seemed to be overwhelmingly against the senator, and so strong was it, that not one of the jury was willing to let his sympathy for the aged senator influence their verdict. Whatever the intent was, or whatever was his feelings at the time of doing the things charged, there could be no doubt that the senator did the things, if the evidence could be believed at all.

When it is remembered that the jury which tried Senator Mitchell was composed of men who were his personal friends in a large degree, and all of whom had, for years, regarded him as Oregon's most distinguished citizen and ablest statesman, we can at once see how true those men were to their consciences, and our respect for the verdicts of juries is very greatly increased.

Not that we mean to approve or disapprove the verdict here; but to commend the character of the jury which could unite in the conviction of their friend in a case which appealed so strongly to personal feeling, and whom every one of them would no doubt have been glad to shield. Oregon grieves over the downfall of the great, strong man she had delighted to honor.

We also honor the jury which would not sacrifice conscience by acquitting their friend.

There seems to have been some monkeying with the witnesses in the Williamson trail, and the case is progressing slowly.
