Mr. George Toney while here last week informed us that harvest was about over in Surprise valley, and that the hay crop was a little light while the grain was good. The fruit was nearly all killed by frost in the early part of the season. Only a few orchards will have any fruit on, to amount to anything. Mr. Toney says the alfalfa crop in that valley is good this year, and that the valley will produce more seed this year than ever before. The sales from alfalfa seed will amount to more than all other products put together. There are now two regular alfalfa threshers in the valley, and seed coming from there may be expected to be clean.
