Elma Heryford vs. Lemuel Heryford.

Mary E. Kimsey vs. Wm. T. Kimsey.

Mining News.

There is very little new in the mining district south of Lakeview for this week further than that all are being in expectation of a mining boom with the opening of spring.

The Paisley mines have took on a revival, however. Geo. Ayres will go to Paisley tomorrow with a crew of miners to work on the Gaylord mine. Mr. Ayres expects to acquire an interest in these mines and development work will be pushed until winter weather prevents. They will go down on one of the ledges, already opened, about 100 feet, and Mr. Ayres says if it pays as well as they do down as it does on top, it will be good diggings.

Surprise Valley News.

From the Record.

The Glicher Bros. struck a big flow of artesian water last week on D. J. Warner's ranch, at a depth of 125 feet. The water spouts up about 20 feet high and as the flow is a good strong one it is valuable for irrigating purposes.

John B. Linderman returned from Reno last week. While there he sold his cattle and ranch near Bald Mountain to Henry Miller for a good sum.

W. T. Cressler threshed his alfalfa last week, which yielded 21 sacks off 10 acres. The sacks weighed 160 pounds each.

As near as can be learned, there will be 300,000 pounds of alfalfa seed raised in this valley this year.

James Snelling returned last week from the railroad, where he had been delivering his sheep.

Ed. Sessions started a big band of sheep to the railroad this week.

Frank Smith, the tonsorial artist, and G. S. Easter, jeweler, went out to Muddy Creek, on the West Side, last Saturday on a deer hunt. They took orders for several fine bucks before they left town. Pleasant dreams of the juicy steaks.

Additional Locals.

L. Brantlacht sold his household furniture at auction last Saturday. Mrs. Brantlacht left Lakeview last week, and Louie expects to go soon.

R. A. Hawkins and family were down from the sawmill Sunday. Judge Brattain and family, who have been visiting with them, returned home.

Mr. Doble, of Honey Lake Valley, last week purchased 60 head of horses from the Wall brothers of this place. Frank Walls left to assist in driving the band to Lassen county.—New Era.

J. T. Metzker, the sawmill man, will start the mill shortly and saw up a couple of hundred logs he has in the yard. The mill has been shut down since he started the Fair a month ago.

A man by the name of Billy Nevills, at Klamath Falls one night last week, while intoxicated, fell from a high porch to the ground, sustaining internal injuries from which he died the next day.

Supt. J. Q. Willits returned from the northern part of the county last week. He reports all schools up that way in a flourishing condition. Prof. Willits opened his school at Pine Creek Monday.

George and Frank Reed returned Sunday from their trip to the fair. The boys say the fair was all right. One could see anything he could think of. They spent several days visiting at Salem, Albany and Yreka, Calif.

Chas. Wallace passed through here from Madeline on his way to Bidwell last Saturday. Charley took in the races while here, and received a private tip, but we do not know just how much he made out of it.—Modoc Republican.

Another regular meeting night of the Lake County Development League passed last Saturday evening without a meeting. The Examiner worked faithfully for several months, for the organization of the league and the object was finally accomplished. However, its future success depended upon those who were honored with offices. It is up to them to see to its career.

Rev. Sanford Snyder, who attended the M. E. Conference at Albany, and was returned to this charge, returned to Lakeview last Saturday morning. He drove all night in order to meet his regular appointments. Rev. Snyder is a zealous worker for Christ, and comes back to this work with renewed vigor and the people who are the only possible beneficiaries of this soul-saving work, should show their appreciation of his efforts in their behalf by making his work easier than such work has been here in the past.

Mr. J. C. Harrow of Montague spent several days in Lakeview the past week visiting his brother G. D. Harrow of Hotel Lakeview and the numerous friends in Lake county whom he has not seen for several years. Mr. Harrow was one time a resident of this county, and met many old time friends while here who were glad once more to grasp his hand. He will also visit his father and mother and boyhood haunts at Alturas, Modoc county, before returning to his home and business in Montague. We are glad that we made his acquaintance, and we found him a congenial gentleman, well posted on local and general topics. Business has been good out his way.

WESTERN PACIFIC

SURVEYORS.

From the S. F. Chronicle.

Southern Oregon is becoming much excited over the activity of a crew of Western Pacific surveyors in that section of the State. From the engineering operations that are now in progress east of Eugene by a force that is said to be working in the interest of the new transcontinental line the belief is growing that the Gould interests are planning to reach Portland and penetrate the rich Willamette valley on the way.

It is learned that the engineering force went from this city to Eugene, on the line of the Southern Pacific in Southern Oregon, nearly a month ago, and has since been running lines toward Diamond Peak pass, following the southwest fork of the Willamette river. The proposed route of the Oregon survey is by way of Diamond Peak pass to Crescent lake, from which point the Klamath and Lake county regions are easily accessible. Although not officially admitted, the Nevada-California-Oregon narrow-gauge road, which extends northwest from Reno, Nev., to Madeline, Cal., and is projected northward to Lakeview, Or., is understood to have been acquired by the Gould interests, and it is believed that the surveying operations now in progress in Oregon are intended to solve the question of an outlet to Portland for the narrow-gauge line, which, in that event, would be converted into a standard-gauge line.

Local officials of the Western Pacific have nothing to say about the surveying activities in Oregon.

Tunneling on the Western Pacific line has begun at the two long tunnels through the Sierra Nevada, one over 7,000 feet long and the other 6,000 feet long. Grading crews are at work at various points along the route, and it is expected by the time the tunnels are completed the grading and road bed will be finished along the entire route. Crews are at work on the Salt Lake end and the gaps will be closed up as rapidly as possible.

A Business Change.

Readers of The Examiner will remember we published an item several weeks ago to the effect that a Dr. Patterson was in Lakeview looking for a location, and that he would endeavor to induce a young druggist of Eugene to come here to buy Lee Beall's drug store. Mr. S. L. Thornton arrived here from Eugene Tuesday morning for that purpose and a deal is now on between him and Lee Beall for Mr. Beall's drug business. Dr. Patterson is expected here any day and will associate himself with Dr. E. H. Smith in the practice of medicine. From what we can learn both new arrivals will be acceptable acquisitions to our city. Mr. Beall does not state his intentions for the future, but says he will remain in Lakeview, as there is no place that would suit him as well.

C. Swanson arrived here Monday, and Tuesday he and F. M. Miller, of the 77 cattle firm, went to the company's ranch in Warner, to start the 77 beef to Merrill, where the steers will be weighed and delivered to Mr. Swanson. It is probable that he will buy the cows, also. There will be about a thousand head altogether. Mr. Miller will go to Merrill to see the cattle weighed. They will pass through here about next Sunday.

Additional Locals.

There is an immense lot of freight being hauled into Lakeview this fall. Teams are arriving every day, loaded to the guards.

J. B. McNew has leased the J. D. Farra livery stable in Paisley, and Mr. Farra will start for Red Bluff in a few days, where he will remain this winter.

Joe Weaver, who has been working for S. T. Colvin on the Crooked Creek ranch, went below with the Colvin horses. Mr. Weaver will remain in California most all winter.

H. Megorden, who was convicted of murder in the first degree for killing his wife last spring in Malheur county, was sentenced to hang in the penitentiary at Salem November 24.

Mrs. McDonald, mother of R. M. McDonald, who owned property in Lebanon, this State, has sold out there and is expected here in a couple of weeks to make her home in Lakeview.

M. E. Musgrave and Roy Rehart, who have leased about 100 head of horses from C. A. Rehart, returned from Warner first of the week, where they have been riding gathering up the horses.

Mrs. T. W. Colvin of Lincoln, Calif., who has been here with her husband several weeks visiting relatives and old friends, has been suffering from erysipelas. They will return home as soon as Mrs. Colvin is able to make the trip.

When the attention of our citizens is diverted from the more exciting life of stockraising and fruit growing is taken up, Lake county will be one of the greatest fruit countries in the world. The flavor and keeping quality cannot be surpassed in the world.

We understand that Frank Evans has leased a mine at Silver Bow, Nevada, where he is conducting a general merchandise store, and has gone into the mine business. Frank has also increased his business. He now carries a general stock. Looks like he is prospering, alright.

Rev. John Young, who has been stationed at Reno for a year past, has accepted a pastorate at Lodi, California, and himself and wife (nee Edna Heryford) have moved to that place. They request that their Examiner be changed to the new address.

Mrs. W. Howe, who has been seriously ill for several weeks gets poor encouragement from her physicians for her recovery. She has been advised to remove to a different climate, and as there is a large family of small children, her recent illness has placed the family in such financial circumstances as to hinder them from seeking another climate, consequently a liberal sum was donated to aid Mrs. Howe to seek her health. Lakeview for charity.

Commissioner Richards of the General Land Office at Washington, D. C., will recommend in his annual report, some important changes in the conduct of government land offices, designed for economy in that branch of the government. One, the most important, is to consolidate the offices of Register and Receiver. Commissioner Richards' reform policy promises a saving of over $300,000 a year. This providing no extra clerical work would be necessary, which is hardly likely.

SCALDED TO DEATH.

AT SPOKANE.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kingsley received the sad news last Saturday by a brief telegram from Spokane, Wash., that their son Bur had been scalded and died at 8 o'clock the previous morning. Bur Kingsley was 21 years old the day he died, and was the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kingsley of this place. He had been in the employ of the Northern Pacific Railroad Co. for several years, and was recently transferred from Colorado to Spokane, where he was working in the round house of the N. P. Co. Bur had been with the Company long enough to prove his worth and was in line for promotion, and would, no doubt, have climbed up the ladder of success as a railroader. No particulars were given in the short dispatch, but his father believes that the accident must have been the result of a boiler explosion.

Only a short time ago young Kingsley wrote a very encouraging letter to his mother, stating that he was now getting good wages and how much it cost him to live and how much he could lay up and how much he would send his mother each month. But his dream never came true, before the first pay day rolled around after he was placed in a remunerative position, he was promoted to an everlasting home in the beyond.

Later.—The particulars of the accident were given in the Oregonian of the 7th as follows:

Spokane, Oct. 6.—(Special.)—Bert Kingsley, engine-wiper who was accidentally scalded at the Northern Pacific roundhouse early this morning, died at the hospital this afternoon. Nearly every inch of skin on his body was scalded.

Kingsley and a comrade were engaged in trying to straighten the threads on the blow-off plug of one of the passenger engines. At the first turn of the wrench the plug came off, and the two men were enveloped in a cloud of steam. Kingsley, crazed with pain, ran from the roundhouse, and was picked up by the police about two blocks away. His comrade was rescued from near the engine.

A Whist Party.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Johnson gave a whist party at their home Tuesday evening, in honor of Miss Ada Woodcock, of Reno, who is in Lakeview on a visit with friends and relatives.

The guests were welcomed by Miss Woodcock and Mrs. Johnson, and when all had arrived the tables were arranged and all proceeded to enjoy a social game of whist. The games were full of enthusiasm and much good playing was done. Miss Fannie Tonningsen was awarded the capital prize after a spirited contest, while Miss Bertha Dean received the consolation prize. After the prizes had been awarded light refreshments were served to which the company did ample justice. The guests then departed for their respective homes, with a warm spot in their hearts for their royal entertainers.

Those present were the Misses Ada Woodcock, Bertha Dean, Fannie Tonningsen, Doela Willits, Gusie Metaker, Cora Finley, Jean Tonningsen, Lalla Brown, Messrs Fred Reynolds, James Partin, Geo. Boone, Harvey Colvin.
