BROOD SOWS IN WINTER.

Importance of Liberal Feeding, Shelter and Exercise. No class of animals are soilly managed in the winter season as brood sows, says Professor Thomas Shaw in American Agriculturist. In a majority of instances in some sections of the country they are simply abused. It is not intentional abuse. It is abuse that is the outcome of not knowing...

One of the best combinations in the northern states is field roots and corn, except when the weather is very extreme. The amount of corn wanted is relatively small, only a few ears per day. Such a diet is cheap. Ground rye or barley may take the place of corn. In the south cowpeas and alfalfa answer well or cowpeas and sweet potatoes. All corn or rye or barley is in a sense fatal to wild doing. If sows can be fed much skim milk then they may also be fed considerable corn, since the milk is very rich in protein...

Sludge Good For Sheep. Sludge is a most excellent food for sheep, says E. Van Alstyne in Rural New Yorker. They become very fond of it, and it will tend to keep their bowels in good condition and stimulate the milk flow. Last year when the major part of our root crop was frozen in we fed more of it to our sheep than ever before, and while not quite so good as roots I can but speak of it in the highest terms.

POINTS ON FEEDING

When you want to fatten sheep do not throw in a great volume of feed at one time; they will waste it and also be disgusted with it. Give them just enough to eat up clean and no more and they will stay on their feed and fatten fast.

Peanuts For Hogs. In the fall of 1903 five Tamworth hogs, aggregating 895 pounds, were pastured for twenty days upon Spanish peanuts. At the end of the twenty days they weighed 1,124 pounds, the five gaining 229 pounds, or 45.8 pounds per hog in twenty days. The average grain of each hog was 2.29 pounds per day.—Bulletin Arkansas Experiment Station.

Soaking Grain For Pigs. Authoritative data is not plentiful upon the point of the relative value of dry and soaked whole grain for the feeding of pigs, but such tests as have been made seem to indicate that there is a considerable advantage in favor of the soaked grain.

Alfalfa For Horses. Horses are often fed too much alfalfa. This is indicated by indigestion, which finally manifests itself in scours. A horse of 1,000 pounds should not eat over twenty pounds of alfalfa per day. If appetite is left to determine the quantity some individuals will devour thirty or more pounds.—Farm Progress.

Steer Feeding. Alfalfa hay combined with corn and cob meal gave the best results to fattening steers at the Kansas station when tested against a mixture of several grains and hays, including corn ensilage.

The Colt's Feed. The second winter in a colt's life the feed should be increased enough to keep the colt growing and in good condition. This should be followed up, his feed being increased a little every year until fully matured.

Milk For Hogs. Hogs need fresh, clear water even when they are fed on slop. Clabber is not as good for growing pigs as butter-milk or sweet milk.
