LAKEVIEW, OREGON, JAN. 23, 1906.

Willing To Do Car Part.

So many requests have come from people in the Eastern States for information about Lake county that it is impossible to as much as attempt to answer these requests by letter, and we have decided that a duty devolved upon some one to give the desired information, and as the Examiner at all times stands ready to do anything and everything possible that will benefit the county, we have taken the task upon ourselves to print answers to such questions as are generally asked by inquirers. We have not attempted to picture any particular part of the county brighter or make it appear better than any other part. We have endeavored to get out of the old rut of newspaper write-ups of a county, in which every town every valley, lake, creek or river has its department and every business man his puff. This sort of write-up pleases all who are fortunate enough to be mentioned, but does not answer the pertinent questions asked by nine tenths of the inquirers. Take one hundred letters of inquiry and the questions asked by ninety-nine of them are answered in this week's Examiner.

It is not from selfishness that we have failed to particularize the different localities of the county or boast of the prosperity of any citizen of the county, but simply because, in all the letters we have received, not one has asked to be informed as to the standing, financially or socially of any particular resident of the county, hence we have not gone into this phase of write-up. It is not a history of the county, but simply a compilation of facts that exist, such as climatic conditions, soil conditions, what is raised, and what it is worth when it is raised, etc. These prices and statistics apply to all parts of the county, and if any homeseeker is attracted by these conditions, when he arrives here he can select the particular locality that best suits his taste, and he will have plenty of time to get acquainted with the people when he becomes a resident of Lake County.

We have printed several extra copies and if anyone knows of a friend who would like to know the things contained in this article or have been written to for information about the country they should not think 10 cents too much for one of these papers, as we are sending one to every person who has asked us for information. We agree to send ten to every man's one.

Severest Storms in Years

The severest storms that have visited the Pacific Coast states in 15 years, raged for two weeks all over the West.

Dispatches from Reno state that in the Elko country the snow is four feet deep and stock are dying by the thousands, especially sheep. Hundreds of freight cars loaded with hay and corn were side-tracked at the nearest point possible to reach the starving sheep and cattle, but the snow had fallen to such depth that it was impossible to reach the stock with the feed, and they were doomed to die of starvation and perish in the storm. Further north, in Modoc county, Calif., immediately after the heavy fall of snow, a heavy downpour of rain melted the snow down so that stock could get about.

Still further north, in Lake county, the snow fell to a depth of over two feet, and settled down with a rain. Still the snow fell, but after each fall came a rain which melted the snow in the valleys to a depth of probably a couple of feet, and packed solid enough to not hinder travel or prevent stock from being driven to feed, which is abundant in the valley for all the stock carried. In Warner valley the storm was mostly rain, and only a few inches of snow was on the ground at any one time. On the desert, in northern Lake county, and extending east into Harney county the snow only fell a few inches deep, and stock are doing fine. Harvey McDaniels came in from Dry Valley, in the vicinity of Juniper mountain, and there was but about 2 inches of snow there.

This section of country seems to be about the most fortunate of any place on the Coast, as an abundance of hay was put up in the valleys and, because of the dry season on the desert, stock could not remain there to eat the feed down during the summer, which left an ample supply for winter.

In the western part of the state floods are expected daily from the heavy rains. The snow in the low mountains is said to be from four to six feet deep, while in the Cascade, it is probably 10 to 20 feet deep.

McCarthy Come Down to the Front.

On Friday last, Jan. 19th, was the day we have seen the heaviest snow of the season, to date, in Lakeview. It snowed and rained and rained and snowed and then it took a rest and snowed and rained again.

On Friday evening the Baptist Church bell pealed forth its tones which serves as invitation to the faithful of that sect (and they are manifold I hope) to come forward with all wanderers and stray sheep available, to hear the word of God, wrapt in its flaky bosom overhead the earth seemed dreary. A sudden hungry yell or howl from coyotes on the sidehill back of town drew an occasional bark from the town dogs; a pale careless moon on the southeast peered above the hilltops from behind a snow cloud; the organ in the Baptist church, operated by intricate hands, sent forth in sacuntious and heavenly tones the well known hymn, nearer my God to thee, the speaker in the pulpit bailed out some of the finest chunks of religion, lore, transmitted to him by all appearances, from the regions of eternal bliss, and as the monster flakes of sodden snow were wafted on the southern breezes our Longshoreman at the Baptist Church swore allegiance to Jesus. In a favorite resort in town where orange cider is being consumed in large quantities the violin and bango were operated on by artistic hands and struck up the favorite tunes. Haste to the Wedding and Fish a collen Voeth, when Mr. Dykeman of the firm of Heryford & Dykeman, of the Mammoth Stables, came tearing along the street announcing to the people that the Mammoth Stables and the Opera House with their 3 acres of roof were breaking down under 3 feet of alsh and snow, people rushed to and fro. Heryford had 100 horses and about 40 vehicles and other property in the building. Old Bill Barry, who owns the property, (if his debts were paid) sauntered down Water Street toward the stables knapush in hand, and with about 14 inches of Pete Post's tangle-foot stowed away in his comisar department, he was heard to soliloquize in Nov. 1902, the best of my 50 years labor went up in smoke in this block and now the balance goes down to the devil beneath a snow bank. The roof creaked and groaned and rafters split. Little Bill Heryford (weighing only 230 pounds) lit another cigar, spat out and struck a poor unwary fly that wandered around the electric lamp. Supplication went up from the worshippers in the Baptist church to the most high throne, beseeching the King of Kings to save the town. Even the Steveadore was heard to ejaculate, "Oh Jesus whatever you may do, save the Dance Hall." Bill Heryford said it might hold up until morning and we'll shovel the snow off. Came the dawn and like the Star Spangled Banner the flag was still there, the roof with its terrible load was still intact. The electric light, which is transmitted to us from the famous State Line, was very dim, indeed, but we lighted matches, so as to find the way out to the scene of action, as it was scarcely dawn. Roosters crowded a drowsy crow and from their lofty perches did indicate that graves had closed and daylight hath come, and now is the time for action.

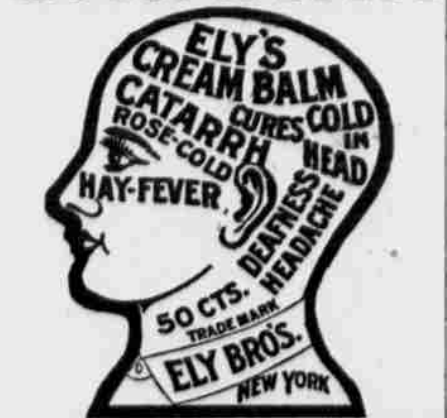

Three Emeraldsiders with shovels mounted the roof, Walter Russell, Timothy McCarthy, Irish Comedian and Bill Barry. Russell is a modern Hercules and was supplied with a 2 horse iron scraper, with a crowbar for a handle; Mc had a two x two scoop shovel; Bill effused a lot of air giving orders. He had so much air at large that a neighboring windmill, though being frozen, got moving and Bill shouted "if I had Frank Light here with our own chinook we would clear the snow off all the roofs in town." The boys took another orange cider and the snow went down a flying and at 10 o'clock 300 tons of snow had been shoveled off and all was safe.

Heavy Storms in Modoc

(Alturas Plaindealer.)
One of the worst wind storms that ever visited Alturas occurred Monday night. The wind was accompanied by rain and traveled at the rate of about 60 miles an hour. A part of the front of the Modoc Stables was hurled into the street the tank on the Court house grounds was blown down and some chimneys, windmills and out-houses were overturned.

Notwithstanding the terrific storms our mails continue to arrive, though somewhat belated. On the Cedarville pass the snow is very deep and eight horses and a heavy sleigh were necessary to break the roads to the summit where the mail from Alturas was met. Our stage men deserve rare credit for their determined efforts in getting the mails through.

(Cedarville Record.)
This part of the country has been visited by one of the most violent wind and snow storms experienced here for years, during the past week. Snow fell to the depth of about two feet and Monday night it commenced raining and at this writing, Tuesday, the snow is 8 or 10 inches deep. The frost is mostly out of the ground, and it will receive a good soaking. The storm made the roads over the mountains almost impassable. The stage from Madeline, due here Sunday, got in Monday night and it required hard work to get the mail across the mountain from Alturas, one man started from here to meet the stage at Wilson's. We have heard of no losses of stock, but some sheep out east of here may suffer. There is plenty of hay to feed all the stock in Surprise valley and our stockmen are resting easily.

Beware of Ointments for Cattarrh That Contain Mercury

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surface. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

THE WEAK SPOT.
When a boiler explodes carrying death and destruction with it, every body says "Why? we thought it was strong enough. It must have had a weak spot somewhere!" When a man who has the outward appearance of being sound and strong suddenly falls a prey to disease, his friends exclaim: "Why? we thought he was all right—he must have had a weak spot somewhere."
The fact is, almost everybody has a weak spot somewhere. Death and disease are always looking for weak spots. If your stomach or your liver won't do its proper work, if your body fails to get its full nourishment from the food you eat, and your brain loses part of the sleep it ought to have, no matter how big your frame and muscular your limbs may be, you will give out; disease will find the weak spot, and nature will give way.

Three years ago this spring I was attacked with severe dyspepsia, writes Mr. W. A. Cain, of 414 West Madison St., Hastings, Mich. "I was treated by five different doctors, but kept getting worse until I was afraid to go to the table to eat, as the least thing I ate distressed me so I could hardly stand it. After suffering for nearly a year and falling off in weight from 130 pounds to 100 pounds I commenced taking Golden Medical Discovery. Before I had taken all of one bottle I began to feel relief, but kept on until I had taken eight bottles, and now I am as well as ever, can eat anything I want and I feel good. An weighing 130 pounds and feel fine all the time. My friends were surprised to notice such a quick change in me after seeing me suffer so long. Several said they never expected to see me so well. I have not had to take any medicine for stomach trouble since. I cannot say enough in praise of your Golden Medical Discovery."
This glorious "Discovery" gives the stomach and liver power to do their natural work regularly and completely. It makes healthy blood and steady nerves. It helps the weak spots, making them sound and strong.
Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be used with "Golden Medical Discovery" whenever a laxative is required.
