LAKEVIEW, OREGON, FEB. 8, 1906.

Oregon's oldest statesman in Congress was never given greater recognition after death, by the United States Senate, where he worked so long, than to pay his funeral expenses. The fact was a sad blow to the dead senator's colleague, Mr. Fulton, who was determined for a while to introduce the usual resolution of respect announcing the death. Leaders of the Senate discussed, assured the Senator that they would force a condition far more humiliating if he persisted in introducing the resolution, and at last he deferred to the general spirit of the Senate which appreciated John H. Mitchell, but would not overlook the developments in the courts immediately preceding his death. When another opportunity came to make the Senate take official cognizance of the death, through paying the funeral expenses, which is also a custom of the Senate, Senator Fulton again brought the matter up, and this time was given the privilege of introducing a resolution. This was the first and last recognition the Senate gave Mr. Mitchell after his death, and in the last chapter in a tragic situation which will be remembered for all time to come in Congress.

Oregon's senior Senator, C. W. Fulton, has become one of the most ardent good roads champions in the city of Washington. When the Federal Government made an offer, through Samuel Hill, to place two miles of thoroughly modern road in Oregon, at such places as the senator would suggest, the later named Pendleton and Salem, as central for the two great divisions of the state. Arrangements are being made to have a mile of road built at each place, the counties to furnish the labor and material, while the Government will provide the machinery and furnish six or seven experts to see that the work is up to the standard that has been established.

The fate of the late Pacific Coast steamer Valencia, will be the basis for much investigation and a source of trouble for the owners of the steamer and the crew. Already various charges have been made, by survivors, of gross neglect, incompetency, etc., which has led to trials in which the evidence will be interesting, each survivor having his own view of the cause of the disaster and his own way of telling what happened and how it happened. Officers of wrecked passenger steamers seldom get off unscathed, even though nothing is left upon which to heap blame but a drowned sea captain.

At last the settlers on the Northern Pacific over-land grant are assured justice, after many years of waiting. Senator Fulton has put through the Senate a bill to allow all who took this land grant between the rulings of the interior department declaring their rights to do, and the decision of the Supreme Court reversing the ruling of the interior department, the privilege of taking lieu land. The Senator believes that he can put it through the House, with proper assistance. About 900 to 1000 settlers in Oregon are affected by the new bill.

A number of clippings from papers, in praise of W. S. Dunniway were run in our columns last issue as advertising matter. We have no fight to make against Mr. Dunniway in his application to be State Printer, but we do think that it would be a departure from our policy to not renominate Geo. W. Whitney, the present incumbent of that office. He surely is a capable, efficient and honest official and as such deserves a second term.

Bills in equity have been filed in the United States Circuit Court by U. S. District Attorney Devlin of San Francisco, to set aside patents to lands in Northern California, issued to Fredrick Hyde. The land is that involved in the famous Hyde-Diamond-Benson fraud.

Wish the Klamath Falls papers would desist publishing pictures of Klamath Falls' $33,000 high school building. It makes one feel drowsy to think of Klamath county on one side of us with a fine high school and Modoc County, Calif., on the other side, with two of them.

The announcement of the candidacy of P. W. Benson for Secretary of State in our last issue seems to have been construed by some as an advocacy by us of his nomination. Such was not the fact. All announcements appearing in our candidates column are run as paid advertisements.

Pioneer Passes Away.

On last Sunday morning, the 4th instant, at 4 o'clock, death came to relieve the suffering of Mrs. Edna Francis Moore, one of the pioneer women of Lake county. Some two years ago Mrs. Moore suffered a stroke of paralysis, which largely disabled her for a time and from which she never entirely recovered. Nearly a year ago it was discovered that she was afflicted with a cancer of very malignant type. From this cancer she was a constant sufferer till death, and although every effort was made to relieve her, it was known from the first that she could not live, and she grew gradually weaker till the end came. With all her great and long suffering she bore up with fortitude and with submission to His will.

Mrs. Moore was born in Adair county, Missouri, on August 15, 1844, she being the oldest child of Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Payton. In March, 1861, she was married to John W. Moore, who had previously made one trip across the plains to California with an ox team, and one to Pike's Peak in Colorado, and in the latter part of 1868, this young couple, with their two children, started for the "Golden West." This was before the construction of the first railroad across the continent, and the trip was made by way of New York City, the Isthmus of Panama and San Francisco, and consumed six weeks' time. They settled at Millville, in Shasta County, but did not live there continuously, spending part of the time for the next ten years in California and part in Missouri.

In 1878 they came to Lakeview, by the way of Redding, Adin and Alturas, arriving here on May 26th, and deceased has resided here ever since.

Her husband died five years ago, and since that time she has lived with her daughter, Mrs. Moss.

Some years ago deceased became a member of the Baptist Church of this place and has since been one of its staunchest workers. She was also a Rebekah. The funeral was held at the Baptist Church, under the joint auspices of the Church and of the Rebekah Lodge, and the interment took place at the Odd Fellows' cemetery of Lakeview. Out of respect for the deceased, the public schools were dismissed and the business houses were closed, and the funeral service, conducted by Rev. J. H. Howard, was very largely attended.

Deceased leaves three children to mourn her death, District Attorney W. J. Moore, C. A. Moore, an attorney of Baker City, Oregon and Mrs. W. Z. Moss, all of whom were present at her bedside when the end came. She also leaves her mother, a brother, and a sister in Oklahoma, and a sister in Moscow, Idaho.

By her uniform kindness, by her devotion to duty and by her christian character Mrs. Moore endeared herself to a host of friends who join the members of the family in their sorrow at a mother's death.

Misunderstood.

Lakeview, Oregon, Feb. 7th, 1906. To the Editor: It would seem from your last issue that The Examiner favored the nomination of F. W. Benson for Secretary of State. I think Mr. Editor, that you mistake the sentiment of the Republicans of Lake county if you assume to advise them to support Mr. Benson for this nomination, for the sentiment seems to be overwhelmingly for Hon. Claud Gatch for this nomination.

Without detracting aught from Mr. Benson, who is an excellent gentleman, I think it is universally conceded that no man in this State excels Claud Gatch in gentlemanly attainments and uprightness as a man, and that he is eminently and peculiarly fitted for the office of Secretary of State. One of Gatch's Friends.

Frightfully Burned.

Chas. W. Moore, a machinist, of Ford City, Pa., had his hand frightfully burned in an electrical furnace. He applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve with the usual result: "a quick and perfect cure." Greatest healer on earth for Burns, Wounds, Sores, Eczema and Piles. 25c at Lee Beall-Druggist.

The Wool Market.

The Oregonian says of the Eastern wool market:

Although the volume of business done has been only moderate, chiefly on account of the small offerings of territories, the situation seems to offer encouragement to dealers.

Conditions on the Range.

Dan P. Malloy returned Monday from the desert in the vicinity of Mule Springs, what is called the North Warner desert.

Mr. Malloy started from Adel the next morning after the big snow, which was on the 13th of January, to bring his sheep into Adel for feed, as the snow had fallen about two feet deep. When he reached Plush it began to rain and the snow all went off in one night and a day. He then thought that all was well on the desert, so spent a day helping Jeff Par-rish get horses out of the snow at Drake Camp. On the following day he started for his sheep camp. For 15 miles north of Honey creek there was no snow, but from that on to Mule Springs the snow got deeper and deeper. When he reached the camp he found his sheep in over a foot of crusted snow. Jim Barry was hauling hay 20 miles from Flag Staff to his band with 2 four-horse teams, but could not supply them with sufficient quantity. Zac Whitworth's sheep were also in deep snow, and Phil Lynch's band was over a hill with 3 feet of crusted snow between them and hay and no trail broken. Dan took in the situation, which he says was the worst for 20 years that he knew of, and lost no time in starting his sheep for hay over the partial road made by the hay teams. He finally succeeded in getting them in, as his desert band was a picked band for the desert, he having left all the lambs and weak sheep on hay in the fall. W. K. Barry had his sheep on a favored part of the desert, in the coyote hills, where there was no snow and sustained no loss. Some of the other sheepmen trailed their sheep to Warner as soon as the snow fell, while those who remained will lose from 10 to 20 per cent. Phil Lynch's bands were in the worst place, but his sheep are strong and Mr. Malloy believes his loss will be comparatively light. Dan thinks all are safe now, as the snow has melted down to from 4 to 10 inches, and the feed is good under the snow, and unless a heavy loss in March, the loss on the desert for the winter will be but little over average. He says the snow fell from 2 to 3 feet deep out there and if it hadn't been for the rain, there would not have been a single bleater come from the desert in the spring.

Came With Their War Paint On.

(FIRST ISSUE of the new paper.) "In its issue of Jan. 25th our neighbor of The Examiner has this to say: "We understand that the Smith Girls who bought, or leased the Herald plant, will not start the paper up till spring. It is a pretty hard row to hoe to start a newspaper in a town this far from the railroad his time of year. None too easy at the best." In the wilds of Arizona somewhere, is a fabled river, across the waters of which, no traveler could pass and ever after tell the truth. The motive for the above is a mystery unless, indeed, the editor has unfortunately crossed those fated waters. Surely he could have had no other." (Hee-Haw.)

Can She Save Them?

Many a poor mother who feels that those who hold most precious are gradually slipping away from her over the terrible precipice of disease, would be thankful to know what Doctor Pierce's wonderful "Golden Medical Discovery" has done to restore thousands of weak and wasted children to complete rounded, rosy, healthy activity and life.

"Five years ago this last fall I was taken down with a fever and was very bad for several months," writes Mrs. Henrietta Bell, of Diamond, Ohio. She continues: "Finally recovered from the fever, then my lungs became very bad. The doctor said I had consumption, and that he had done all he could for me, and he did not think that I could get well. My case was a very dangerous one. I was very weak, had night sweats, also a very bad cough, night and day. At times would spit blood. I felt as though my time on earth would be short. Requested my husband to get me a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and perhaps it would help me. Before I had taken one bottle my cough was almost gone. The next to disappear were the night-sweats. I am almost sure that if it had not been for your medicine I would not have been here today."

If mothers will only write to Dr. Pierce concerning the ailments of their family he will send them sound and valuable advice in a plain sealed envelope, and without any charge whatever. His remarkable wide experience has qualified him to deal with diseases which baffle the local practitioner. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

A Telephone Affair. "Hello central, give me"—and operator Burke was kept on the jump changing plugs for a while one day last week. It was a "hurry up" call for a game of whist and every response was "yee ya", when it was found that Mrs. F. M. Miller was at the other end of the wire. Twelve ladies met at Mrs. Miller's pleasant home, played a few games of whist, after which a delicious luncheon was served. Mrs. Jonas Norin and Miss Harvey favored the ladies with some very fine vocal and instrumental music. One is always sure of a good time at Mrs. Miller's. Those present were: Mrs. V. L. Snelling, Mrs. William Harvey, Mrs. W. R. Boyd, Mrs. W. M. Harvey, Mrs. S. B. Chandler, Mrs. A. M. Patterson, Mrs. Jonas Norin, Mrs. D. C. Schminck, Mrs. C. O. Metzker, Miss Mamie Light, Miss Josie Harvey. Miss Hall arrived at 4:30 just in time to win one game.
