CELEBRATION IN LAKEVIEW.

All kinds of Amusements Interspersing the Five Days Racing.

PLANS FOR BALL TOURNAMENT.

max for Up-to-Date Fourth of July Events,

The Eagle will scream in Lakveiew on the Fourth of July, so say the people. Arrangements are being made for an elaborate celebration, up to date in every feature. A base ball tournament will be arranged, the number of teams visiting will decide the size of the purses and the number of games played. Active committees will have the entire program in charge and no pains will be spared to make sure of adequate amusements and accommodations of the large crowd that is sure to visit Lakeview to take in the weeks horse races and such other sports as will be arranged. Lakeview made a credit mark last July that has not been eraced from the memory of every visitor to this city, and fully as large a crowd will visit us this year to participate in a round of amusements as were had here last year. Our people have received so much assurance of a large attendance from the announcement of the races that other features are thought necessary to keep the large crowd of visitors busy all the time they are here.

People from Klamath county, Oregon, Modoc county, Calif., and in all the communities in this county have announced their determination to spend the Fourth in Lakeview this year. We have not learned the exact terests or demands. At the same time number of ball teams that will be here to try for the big purses nor the strings of race horses here and on the way to take part in the big race meet, which will last five days, but we have every assurance that the number will be sufficient to make a grand success of the entire affair.

N-C-O. Goming.

A correspondent of the Sacramento Bee writing from Reno under date of May 30 says: All doubt about the extension of the Nevada, Cailfornia and Oregon Railway from Madeline to Alturas, Modoc county, Calif., was removed last evening when Superintendent Dunaway said to a Bee representative: "On the morning of June 1st a large party of workmen will begin the construction of the Road to Alturns. The new line will be forty miles long, and will open up one of the richest agricultural and timber countries in the Sierras. Materials are on hand for the extension, and it will be but a few months until trains are running through into Alturas.

"The matter of making the road a standard gauge is for future consideration. Just as soon as the business will justify it the owners will lay heavy rails and put standard gauge rolling stook into service.

Must Act Promptly.

Members of the Lake County Development League have received letters from Senator Fulton indicating that early action on the matter of protest against the creation of forest reserves in this county, be taken if hope of relief is expected. Mr. Fulton believes it is useless to oppose the reserve as a whole, but that the people may effect some change in the boundary lines. Blue prints will be received, probably in the next mail, and the League will take up the matter at once. Stockmen should take an active part in this matter and do all they can to make such changes in the boundary as will benefit the interests of the stock industry of this country.

Construction work on the telephone line from Lakeview to Bly will be commenced in a short time. The posts will be set at once for wiring the poles to, and as soon as haying is over the poles will be wired on and the the county. Some complaint is heard wire strung. A meeting of the share- of portions of the road between here holders will be called soon for the and Warner, but all roads are in a Local Option for County transaction of such business as is nec- condition now to receive substantial essary preparatory to beginning work | work which will put them 'n excellent on the line.

Oregon Politics.

(Oregonian.) We think it can be said with certainty that the voting in no state has ever been so eccentric as that in Oregon last Monday. It shows that many thousands of Republicans voted at utterly cross purposes with each other; and moreover, that each voter of many thousands made up his own ballot at utterly cross purposes with him-

Here is a state in which Republicans, or men who call themselves such, are a great majority, not less than three-fifths of the whole electorate. For candidates on whom they Lakeview Always Caps the Cli- to 30,000 majority. Yet they have given the Democrats the governor and United States Senate, at the same members of the Legislature that the Democrats have not a single member, out of sixty, in the House, and but "holdover."

A multitude of Republicans, for reasons purely personal to themselves, or upon considerations of merely selcratic nominee for Governor, rather than for a man of excellent fitness and character, who, though the Republican candidate and nominated under a primary law which assured entire freedom from bosses, combinaparticular "man" for the place; and No. 113. therefore they preferred a Democratic Governor to a Republican not of their own choice or faction. The thought ing cities and towns exclusive power was, "If we cant' have it, let it go to to enact and amend their charters. the Democrats."

Again, a multitude of Republicans voted against Bourne for Senator, not because they expected or desired a Democrat-though some of them would, since they couldn't have their own "man"; -but they wantedto beat Bourne before the people, and throw the contest into the Legislature, where they would have a chance to juggle it up, and mayhap get a Senator who would respond to their own selfish ina Republican Legislature was necessary, or there would be a Democratic Senator; so these persons who helped to beat Bourne yet wanted a ch for their man, or a chance to make sale of the office, voted so solidly everywhere for the Republican candidates for the Legislature, that we have the unexampled result of but six Democrats in that body, and not a single one in the House.

Work of this kind, with its resullts, shows the extent to which factional spirit exists in the Republican party of Oregon. It is the direct conse quence of factional work heretofore, under the leadership of one or another, living or dead, whose contests have racked and divided the party. and planted within it, permanently, it seems the habit and practise of working politics for personal and selfish interests, rather than from any consideration of the public welfare. All For Attorney General know how this habit was introduced into our politics and who did it. The abuses that proceed from this action have led to results here not witnessed in any other state. These factional contests have produced the initiative and referendum, the direct primaries For State Printer and Statement No. 1-measures pointed at as eccentricities and "fads" by people in other states, but adopted as remedies for the excessive abuses and For Commissioner of Labor corruptions bred in Oregon by these low and selfish views of politics, and by the degrading methods employed to support them.

A higher view of the ojects of po'ltical action is the necessary cure. A For Senator Short Term common expression is, "I'll not vote the ticket; *here is nothing in it for me." We doubt if there is another electorate in the United States so deeply corrupted. It extends equally to the Democartic party and similarily through it; for this party also has had its full share in the general corruption, and many times when Republicans have revotled Democrats have supplied their places and carried the Republcian bosses through. Of these operations the debauched and degraded condition of politics in Oregon is the natural and legitimate result. Men do not gather grapes of thorns nor figs of thistles.

Roads are getting fine now all over shape for the season.

A Breeder of Socialism. (Minneapolis Tribune.)

Corruption in government is the surest breeder of socialism among the

For all but a few persons whose mental operations are eccentric, the ideas of state socialism represents only harmless intellectual vagaries. But disgust and despair of present institutions may lead many minds generally sane to entertain the idea of new government experiments which seem harmless and promise to be helpful.

Oregon was the first state to adopt the initative and referendum. pushed the direct primary father than any other. It has tried singular exprohibition. It is always toying with woman suffrage not as an end, but as a means of moral reform. Here are all the signs of a community so disgusted with the results of government as it is that the people are willing to try almost any political nostrum as a remedy for them.

In the last few years the Federal Courts have revealed the seed of socialism in Oregon. Its whole public service has been honeycombed with corruption. Its Federal land offices have been debauched by specualtors to rob the people of their heritage. The contagion has spread to state courts, legislation and administration in touch with them. Municipal govprivate profit at public expense. State in the been bought and sold like cattle.

When the day of reckoning came three out of four of the Oregon members of Congress were indicted for felony, and have escaped punishment only by death and the law's delay. Whole business communities have been ripped up by grand juries, and extradition officers have ravaged other states for accomplices. There is no effect without a cause. Here is the cause of socialism in Oregon.

ed to be Victim of Tragedy In Grooked Creek.

Last Thursday evening E. C. Ahlstrom received a telephone message from the Chandler ranch in Crooked Creek valley stating that a man had been burned up in one of the old houses on the ranch and requesting him to notify the coroner. Mr Ahlstrom and Coroner Harris went out that evening and reported that the charred trunk and skull and parts of limbs of an unknown man were found in the ashes of what was once the house where Mr. and Mrs Chandler, father and mother of Mr. S. B. Chandler, lived several years ago. The old house was pretty badly delapidated, not having been occupied for several years. The windows and doors and part of the wall was gone, but the delapidated structure had evidently offered shelter for a weary traveler on Wednesday night, who had, from all appearances, cooked his supper on a stone hearth where once had been a fireplace. A frying pan, coffee pot and a tin cup were all that was left of the man's camp outfit, and they were on the large flat stone hearth. From the ernment has been made an agency of position of the body the man had made his bed down, for the undesturbed ashes of bedclothing could be seen, near the fire-place, in one corner of the house, and evidently siept till he was suffocated before arousing, when he must have raised up and fell toward the hearth, as his head lay in that direction. The body was nearly burned up and nothing left of the limbs but bones. The remains were brougt to the I. O. O. F. cemetery and buried Friday.

A man about 35 years of age, of rather slim build weighing about 135 pounds, slightly lame in one leg, rather light complexioned, with short beard wearing a light colored coat and blue ovrealls, worn out at the knees, carrying a roll of bedding-the outside He stopped at the house and cut some Malheur project-About 534,120 wood for a meal, and was seen to pass the Meyers place a little later, and still later was seen at the watering trough on the Chandler grade.
