LAKEVIEW, OREGON, JULY 26, 1906.

In talking with a gentleman the other day who was raised in Minnesota, an Examiner representative inquired what the man thought of the possibilities of this county as a farming country. He said "I believe it will be a great agricultural section some day in the very near future. There is not the least doubt about it in my mind. You will soon get a railroad, and skilled farmers will locate on this land that you think worthless and make it produce. You have no idea the difference in a practical farmer and a man who knows nothing about farming. It is just like any other trade; the experienced man will get results where the inexperienced will fail absolutely. You'll see the day," he said, "when every acre of this beautiful valley, none in the world more beautiful, will be raising abundant crops of every kind of products adapted to a temperate zone. You will find that fruits of all the hardier varieties will thrive here, and from what I know of the keeping qualities of the fruit raised here now by your inexperienced fruit growers, your fruits will be famed the world over for their keeping qualities as soon as they are placed on the world's markets and given a test. It beats the world how your apples keep."

Like many a run down criminal Mrs. Creffield has acknowledged her wrongs and stands ready to repent, when the stern law stares here in the face. Very few people who have committed crimes, when overtaken by the hand of justice, have failed to recognize their folly and offered ready repentance. Since Mrs. Creffield has repented as a matter of vindication, all that is left to complete the vindication—from such a standpoint—of two of the most unusual criminals the West has ever known, is for Esther Mitchell to repent and promise never again to kill her brother George.

Mr. S. V. Rehart says that he passed through towns on his way home from San Francisco that he would be ashamed to call his home and come back to, but he said "I am not ashamed to come back to Lakeview, and call it my home to any man from any town. Lakeview and Lake county is simply all right; business here is not done in the slipshod manner I see it done in many places I have visited, and I am proud of Lake county and Lakeview, and proud of the energy and ambition and brains of the people here, proud to call them my neighbors and this my home."

State Senator F. P. Mays is trying hard to evade trial in the federal courts. He is stopping at his farm some distance out from Portland and his physicians declare he is too sick to go to trial. A physician employed by the government, however, went out to examine Mr. Mays as to the condition of his health, and did not announce his coming, so Mr. Mays was found out horseback riding. The doctor stated that Mr. Mays was perfectly able to go to Portland, although he was suffering somewhat from nervousness.

Portland has been in the throes of a street car strike for several days past. About 400 car men are agitating a strike for higher wages. The Oregon Water Power Co. has argued to an increase in wages from the present scale of 23 cents per hour for the first two years, 24 cents for the second two years and 25 cents per hour for the fifth year and thereafter, to 23 cents per hour for the first year, 24 cents for the second year, 25 cents for the third year, 26 cents for the fourth and 27 cents for the fifth year and thereafter.

Nevertheless the great excitement caused by the first discoveries of gold and silver in this county some months ago, recent discoveries have laid the first strikes in the shade. As prospecting goes on more valuable strikes are being made. We will yet see one of the richest mining sections here ever known in the world.

A wave of Holy Rollerism has swept down the Pacific Coast as far as Los Angeles. At Monrovia, Calif., it is believed that the fanatics intend to sacrifice two of the oldest children in certain families, as their doctrine teaches that the christians' noblest fate is to die by fire as a sacrifice to God.

About the longest hot spell Lakeview has experienced for many years has prevailed since July 2. Several thunder showers have visited this section during that time but the weather soon turned warm when the clouds passed over.

THE SPANIARD.

His Courtesy, His Cigarette and His Lottery Ticket.

Of the courteous manners of all Spaniards a traveler writes: "So anxious is every one to be of service to others that the stranger is apt to consider the Spaniards very inquisitive people. An experience in a Madrid tramcar was enlightening in this direction. A woman in getting into the car appeared to have slipped and hurt her foot. She and her husband began an animated discussion upon the incident, and of the dozen others in the car every one except ourselves craned forward to listen. The passengers were well assorted, ranging as they did from an captain in uniform down to a woman almost of the beggar class. But one and all in turn joined in the discussion without exciting the least resentment, opinions being apparently welcomed. Gentlemen arriving at their destination ceased arguing, raised their hats and went out, leaving others in possession until the principals left."

"There is no hour of the day or night which a Spaniard deems inappropriate to the practice of smoking," the same writer observes. "Whenever he finds time hanging heavily, which is frequently, he lights a cigarette. Time hangs heavily on a Spaniard's mind in the brief interval between the courses at lunch and dinner, whenever he wakes at night, when traveling between station and hotel in an omnibus and always when in a railway train, regardless of ladies. The practice of smoking is so universal in Spain that railway compartments for non-smokers exist in theory only, and the habit, combined with that of loud talking at all hours of the night and morning, makes the average Spaniard undesirable as a traveling companion, especially at night."

Of the sturdy beggars who overrun Madrid: "The beggars usually have some pretense for asking alms in the shape of a decrepit guitar or fiddle under the cloak, where it remains. Another plea is the sale of lottery tickets, the lottery being a great institution in Spain. Each ticket costs 5 pesetas (about $1), and beggars in absolute rags, as often as not children, rush about with strings of these for sale."—Chicago News.

WIT IN CONGRESS.

Some Famous Retorts Made During the Heat of Debate.

One of the most famous of Reed's retorts was made at the expense of Springer of Illinois. The "Maine giant" had just read one of Springer's own speeches in refutation of the latter's argument just concluded. The Illinoisan launched into philosophy upon the privilege of progressive thinkers to change their opinions.

"I honor them for it," he continued. "An honest man is the noblest work of God. As for me, Mr. Chairman, in the words of an eminent American statesman, 'I would rather be right than be president.'"

"The gentleman from Illinois needn't worry, Mr. Chairman," drawled Reed. "He'll never be either!"

During the bitter fight against "Reed rules" the house was thrown into convulsions by General Spinola, who, pointing to the painting of the "Siege of Yorktown" hanging in the hall, gravely accused Speaker Reed of counting the Hessians in the background of the picture in order to make up a quorum.

The general always wore a tremendously high collar, so high, in fact, that Representative Tim Campbell tapped it one day with the ferule of his cane and inquired, to the amusement of the house, "Is General Spinola within?"

During the famous deadlock fight in the house over the civil rights Bill General Ben Butler favored a Sunday session.

"Bad as I am, I have some respect for God's day," replied Sam Randall of Pennsylvania.

"Don't the Bible say that it is lawful to pull your ox or ass out of a pit on the Sabbath?" asked Butler. "You have thirty-seven asses on your side of the house, and I want to get them out of this ditch tomorrow. I think I am engaged in holy work."

"Don't do it," replied Randall. "I expect some day to see you in a better world."

"You'll be there, as you are here, a member of the lower house," flashed back the general, with telling effect.—American Magazine.

A Hundred Million Suns.

A peep into the heavens through a modern telescope is a peep into the very depths of mystery. With such an instrument one may gaze upon 100,000,000 stars, each of them a burning, blazing sun. From what little we know of creation we cannot but believe that each of those suns is giving light and heat to a train of planets, just in the same manner that our sun gives light and heat to his little flock of planets. Beyond those 100,000,000 suns there may be hundreds of millions more. Thus they may continue "system after system and worlds without end."

A Serious Breach.

Intimate Friend—What was the breach of senatorial courtesy of which you accused Senator Graball? Senator Grafton (hercely)—Why, the scoundrel approached the interests I represent and offered to work for 25 per cent less legal expenses than they're paying me! —Puck.

The Poet's Troubles.

Friend—What did you find the most difficult thing when you wrote your first verses? Poet—To find some one who would let me read them to him.—Pilegande Blatter.

No one loves the man whom he fears.—Aristotle.

Mr. J. E. Cayen stepped into The Examiner office Monday afternoon, tipped his hat back and glanced over the office in a way that spoke in no uncertain words that it was not the first print shop he was ever in. Somehow he had a look that told us he was at home in a newspaper office, and his acknowledgement of the fact was no more than a confirmation of our first impression of him, caught at a glance. Mr. Cayen was for 20 years publisher of the Kansas City Daily Times, and also publisher of several other influential newspapers. He is now in the show business, traveling with an up-to-date moving picture outfit; one that is said to be a little ahead of anything in that line that ever came to Lakeview. His show will be here tomorrow (Friday) night and give two performances, one Friday and one on Saturday evenings.

The Merchants Investment & Trust Co. of Portland Ore., whose advertisement appears elsewhere in this paper, have issued a very attractive little booklet for free distribution containing information about the scope and purpose of their institution. One point borne upon strongly is the advisability for persons having estates or investments to look after, of placing their affairs in the hands of this company. The Merchants Investment & Trust Co. argues that the proper care of estates demands a talent of a high order, and that individuals of sufficient business skill for handling estates usually have affairs of their own which prevent them engaging in such a service for any other person. The Merchants Investment & Trust Co. in soliciting business, calls attention to the fact that a trust company never sleeps, never dies and never absconds. The company declares its willingness to accept accounts of all kinds and states they are as ready to receive five dollars' worth of business as they are five thousand. Their booklet will be mailed to you free if you write and ask for it.

NO TWO MEN ARE ALIKE

There may be a hundred men in this city who have arms the same length as yours—but there is not one other man in the whole county who is the same as yourself in all other proportions. It is simply an impossibility to get a perfect fitting suit by buying ready-to-wear clothes.

We will make a suit to your measure for $20. You pay that much, or nearly that much for every hand-me-down suit you buy.

Custom-made clothes—store clothes—are torn out by the thousand. They are cut and sewed by machinery. That is why you have bought suits herebefore that lost their look of smartness before you had worn them half a day. We will make a suit to your measure—for your entire wardrobe—made and fit you because it was built for you, and no one else—for $20. We guarantee the cloth to be an all-wool cheviot—the cloth is new and light-colored, just off the loom—latest patterns—hand-padded—every seam hand-stitched with silk—lined with imported Venetian cloth.

We have selected several patterns, any of which we will make up to your measure for $20. Unless you express some preference we will mail you a sample of a late English overline pattern. This pattern is so new that it will be sold by tailors next year as the "latest."

The background of the pattern is a deep gray, with an almost imperceptible overline of check. The color of this fabric does not show dirt easily, does not wrinkle and has taken the dye so well that the garment looks like new until it is all worn out. The wool used in wearing this garment was selected with unusual care. There is no short wool in the fabric and no shoddy. The cloth has so fine a weave that it presents a fairly hard surface, and at the same time is soft and pliable. It will not wear up or get shabby. This cloth cannot be bought from the mill for less than $3.25 a yard, no matter if you bought five thousand yards. We are the Pacific Coast representatives of a syndicate of the largest woolen mills in the world. That enables us to make this unprecedented offer of a suit to your measure for $20. Send for a sample—fill it to pieces—see how long and even the waist straps are—note how well the dye has set.

Fill out this coupon and mail to us and we will send you a sample of the cloth. We guarantee that the sample is actually cut from the very bolt of cloth from which we make the suit. When you visit Portland, come in and verify this or any assertion we make. If you wish, ask some Portland friend to tell you about the reputation and standing of the Columbia Woolen Mills Co.

It is the simplest thing in the world to have some friend take your measure. We will send you a tape measure free, and instructions how to take a measure for a suit of clothes. Be sure and send for this sample. If you get a suit from this offer, you will be wearing a garment the pattern of which local dealers cannot possibly get in stock before another year. The pattern of our $20 suit will be sold next year as the latest (by other tailors).
