Cozy Homes.

The discovery of a new wick principle—so effective and yet so simple that it's a wonder no one thought of it before—has so revolutionized the manufacture of oil heaters and lamps that explosions, smoke and smell, caused by imperfect wick arrangement, may safely be regarded as things of the past.

This new wick attachment is to be found on the Perfection Oil Heater, advertised in the Examiner by the Standard Oil Co.

COMPOUND INTEREST

The trouble with most advertisers is that they expect immediate returns of large proportions. One prominent advertiser illustrates the principle of advertising in this way:

"The money expended for advertising is the same as if placed at interest. The profits from the advertising are virtually the interest on the investment."

"The sums spent for advertising are properly chargeable to capital account because the resulting good will is something that has value, which, if the advertising has been properly done, can usually be sold for the face value of the investment."

"The rate of interest is determined by the skill with which the investment is made."

"Just as the quickest way to increase invested wealth is by compounding the interest, just so the quickest way to realize results from advertising is to compound the returns."—Advertising Experience.

Advertisers get good returns on the amount invested in our columns. We reach the people.

THE SHEPHERD AND HIS FLOCK

Where land is fenced sheep and lambs may be used with much effectiveness in preventing weeds from getting to seed. Lambs are considered preferable to old sheep because they do not soon learn to molest the corn, which in some instances old sheep do, and when they do of course they have to be removed. But under some conditions both sheep and lambs can be used with decided advantage in doing such work, especially when the variety of corn grown is tall and stands up well.

The plan of turning lambs into such fields at weaning time is an excellent one, says Professor Shaw in Sheep Breeder. They should of course be turned in while the weeds are yet young and tender. They will then crop them down and in doing so will render the most munificent service to the field. They will also crop off the lower leaves of the corn and in this way will obtain much food without probably doing any harm to the corn. The shade furnished by the corn at that season of the year when the weather is usually hot will be good for the lambs.

When lambs newly weaned are turned into such fields it may be necessary to supplement the food given to them. It probably will be necessary. The weeds grow much in the shade and in consequence will be more insipid than when they grow in bright sunshine. Even when newly weaned lambs are turned in to graze in good pasture they should, as a rule, be given a supplement of grain. When they pasture amid corn, if thus fed the lambs will not only be directly benefited, but the fertility added to the land or some of it will be proportionately helpful.

The Tunis Sheep.

Tunis sheep are said to have adapted themselves to all climates, north or south, and have proved a success on the pine mountains, on the desert and in the swamp lands of the southern states.

They have cleaner noses and less tagging than any other sheep. They are hustlers and will make their own living if it can be found. They are quick, active and strong, have clean faces and a bright, intelligent look. The American Cultivator says: "They will raise two crops of lambs a year or will bring lambs any month in the year desired. The tails of the Tunis sheep will weigh three to six pounds on mature sheep."

Tunis ewes make the best of mothers and will raise from one to three lambs at a time. They will shear six to twelve pounds of wool.

High Class Carriage Horses.
Considerable skill is required to breed, train and sell a high class carriage horse and get the top price. Only occasionally we find men who are doing it. The carriage horse is produced at a great uncertainty, says an Ohio Farmer writer. The sire and dam may look alike and be of high quality and yet the foals be a disappointment. It is not enough that the sire and dam be of high quality in order to produce high class, uniform foals. They must come from high class, uniform ancestry as well; the grand sire must look like the grand dam, and so on, and the uniform type must be established before uniform foals can be produced. In order to obtain these requirements several years of careful breeding are necessary.

Keep the Flock Clean.

No flock is really comfortable and very few thoroughly healthy without the yearly or semi-yearly bath, says Field and Farm. It is simply impossible that a flock should long have freedom from dust itch, ticks, lice, chiggers and all the other things which bring discomfort, loss of flesh and discontent to the sheep and loss to the owner. For these, as for the numerous skin diseases that torture the sheep and hinder the perfect growth of the fleece, there is but one remedy, and that is the use of some dip which in the light of experience is now regarded by all humane and thrifty flockmasters as essential to the well being of the flock as house cleaning is to the well ordered home.

Show the Figs.

When one has got his first crop of pigs up to about six or eight months of age he naturally begins to look about for customers. I know of no quicker way for a beginner in this line of work than to select a few of his best specimens and fit them for the fairs, says a writer in Kimball's Dairy Farmer. In this way better than any other can he make his first bow to the public. He should show at county fairs only at first. But he should show what he has to the best of his ability and in prime condition. Let him be on hand early and secure as prominent pens as he can, and above all things let him remain at all times with his exhibit, that he may answer all questions regarding them.

Women Who Wear Well.

It is astonishing how great a change a few years of married life often make in the appearance and disposition of many women. The freshness, the charm, the brilliance vanish like the bloom from a peach which is rudely handled. The matron is only a dim shadow, a faint echo of the charming maiden. There are two reasons for this change, ignorance and neglect. Few young women appreciate the shock to the system through the change which comes with marriage and motherhood. Many neglect to deal with the unpleasant pelvic drains and weaknesses which too often come with marriage and motherhood, not understanding that this secret drain is robbing the cheek of its freshness and the form of its fairness.

As surely as the general health suffers when there is derangement of the health of the delicate womanly organs, so surely these organs are established in health the face and form at once witness to the fact in renewed complexion. Nearly a million women have found health and happiness in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Ingredients on label—contains no alcohol or harmful habit-forming drugs. Made wholly of those native, American, medicinal roots most highly recommended by leading medical authorities of all the several schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments.

For nursing mothers, or for those broken down in health by too frequent bearing of children, also for the expectant mothers, to prepare the system for the coming of baby and making its advent easy and almost painless, there is no medicine quite so good as "Favorite Prescription." It can do no harm in any condition of the system. It is a most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nerve nicely adapted to woman's delicate system by a physician of large experience in the treatment of woman's peculiar ailments. Dr. Pierce may be consulted by letter free of charge. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.
