For Lung Troubles

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral certainly cures coughs, colds, bronchitis, consumption. And it certainly strengthens weak throats and weak lungs. There can be no mistake about this. You know it is true. And your own doctor will say so.

DEEP SEA FISHES.

There Being Nothing Else to Eat, They Live Upon Each Other.

"All the deep sen fishes are enormous eaters," says a naturalist. "There being nothing to ent but the life about them, they live upon each other. Every facility for killing and devouring is provided-juminescence to dazzle, swiftness and strength to overtake and overpower, knife blade teeth for tearing, abnormally large jaws for crushing. Whatever the prey or however large it may be, there is little trouble in swallowing it. The mouth yawns like a cavern, and the stomach distends to hold a body even larger than the swallower. The appetite in fishes seems never wanting, and complete digestion with some of them is only a matter of half an bour." For this reason slaughter goes on unendingly. Usually it is produced only by hunger, but some monsters, like the bluefish, even when gorged, kill for pure love of killing.

Of the eternal warfare that goes on beneath the surface of the waves the same writer remarks; "They follow the prey like packs of wolves, and in turn are followed, band succeeding band, increasing in size as they decrease in numbers. The herrings eat the smaller fish, even their own young; they are harried by the bluefishes until a trall of blood stains the water, while following the bluefishes come the insatiate perpoises. Nothing saves the C. A. Nelson brought in a lead of weaker ones but breed. Many thousands of eggs are spawned that a dozen or more may be hatched and brought to maturity. Ellions are lost; yes, but millions survive.

THE BLAST FURNACE.

In Cleaning One It is Necessary to Use Dynamite.

The function of a blast furnace is old Gruelle ranch on Dry creek from the reduction of ores to metallic iron Walter Paxton, a short time ago, and The iron ore, like stone and coke, is moved out there this week. They have put la at the top and the iron and slag are drawn off at the base. The temperature of the interior of a blast furnace when in operation varies according to circumstances, but the molten Mamie, were up from Berkeley Sun- Iron when drawn off is about 1,500 degrees F., indicating a much higher temperature, inside,

To withstand such terrific heat, which is maintained by a powerful blast of air which acts much in the ame manner as a forced draft on a boller, the furnace is lined on the inside with a fine grade of fire brick, thoroughly burned. This wall of noncombustible material is about four feet thick, outside of which, is the steel

The lining of a furnace will last from two to six years, according to the furnace being in continuous operation for testimonials free. during that time. It takes about six weeks to reline a furnace.

After a furnace is "blown out," or ceases to be used, there is a quantity of iron which cools and solidifies at the base of the furnace. This is called salamander, and it is necessary to use dynamite to loosen this material and The Kalmath Falls Herald states that get it out of the furnace so that reder has a ready sale, as it is a fine grade of pig iron.

As a rule, when trade conditions are good a blast furnace is never allowed to cool down or be taken out of blast

Took the Wrong House.

On one of the southern railroads there is a station building that is commonly known by travelers as the smallest railroad station in America. It is of this station that the story is told that an old farmer was expecting a chicken house to arrive there, and he sent one of his hands, a newcomer, to ulcer, as large as my hand, from my fetch it. Arriving there, the man saw the house, loaded it on to his wagon the application of Bucklen's Arnica and started for home. On the way he Salve," says A. C. Stickel, of Miletus, met a man in uniform with the words "Station Agent" on his cap.

"Say, hold on. What have you got on that wagon?" he asked. "My chicken house, of course," was

"Chicken house be jiggered!" explod-ed the official. "That's the station!"-Ladies' Home Journal.

His Promotion.

A somewhat turbulent private wrote to his mother: "I am sorry you had no letter last week, but I am a defaulter. and it gives me a heap of extra work." The good woman in reply begged him not to be too hard on the others, but to L Wood, Neil Campbell all of Bly Oreremember he had been a private himself. I regret to say that he roared with laughter and read the letter aloud for the benefit of all who shared his room. - Miss M. Loane, a Queen's Nurse, in Contemporary Review.

Musical Note.

A gentleman at a musical party where the lady was very particular not to have the concord of sweet sounds interrupted, seeing that the fire was going out, asked a friend in a whisper "How could you stir the fire without interrupting the music?"

"Between the bars!" replied the rlend.-Home Notes.
