The Kind You Have Always Bought... Bears the Signature of

Nursing Mothers and Over-burdened Women

In all stations of life, whose vigor and vitality may have been undermined and broken-down by over-work, exacting social duties, the too frequent bearing of children, or other causes, will find in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the most potent, invigorating restorative strength-giver ever devised for their special benefit.

Dedicate, nervous, weak women, who suffer from frequent headaches, back-ache, dragging-down distress low down in the abdomen, or from painful or irregular monthly periods, growing or distressed sensation in stomach, dizzy or faint spells, see imaginary specks or spots floating before eyes, have disagreeable, pelvic catarrhal drain, profluous, profuse or retrograde menstruation or other displacements of womanly organs from weakness of parts will, whether they experience many or only a few of the above symptoms, find relief and a permanent cure by using faithfully and fairly persistently Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

This world-famous specific for woman's weaknesses and peculiar ailments is a pure glyceric extract of the choicest five, medicinal roots without a drop of alcohol in its make-up. All its ingredients printed in plain English on its bottle wrapper and attested under oath.

If you want to know more about the composition and professional endorsement of the "Favorite Prescription," send postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for his free booklet treating of same.

The discovery of a new wick principle—so effective and yet so simple that it's a wonder no one thought of it before—has so revolutionized the manufacture of oil heaters and lamps that explosions, smoke and smell, caused by imperfect wick arrangement, may safely be regarded as things of the past.

This new wick attachment is to be found on the Perfection Oil Heater, advertised in the Examiner by the Standard Oil Co.

COMPOUND INTEREST

The trouble with most advertisers is that they expect immediate returns of large proportions. One prominent advertiser illustrates the principle of advertising in this way:

"The money expended for advertising is the same as if placed at interest. The profits from the advertising are virtually the interest on the investment.

"The sums spent for advertising are properly chargeable to capital account because the resulting good will is something that has value, which, if the advertising has been properly done, can usually be sold for the face value of the investment.

"The rate of interest is determined by the skill with which the investment is made. "Just as the quickest way to increase invested wealth is by compounding the interest, just so the quickest way to realize results from advertising is to compound the returns."—Advertising Experience.

THE BROOD SOW TO KEEP

It is not enough that the brood sow be of the proper conformation physically. It is equally important that she be of the proper conformation mentally and morally. If we may be permitted to use such a term with reference to a brood sow. In short: Is she a good mother? Is she level headed? Is she kind in her disposition? Does she know how to take care of her pigs? Or is she one of those hysterical, fretful, ill-natured creatures that are unfit for the duties of motherhood? If the latter, no matter how good a looker she may be, send her to the fattening pen. Get all the meat on her that you can conveniently and then let her go.

Again, no matter how good her conformation or how many pigs she may have to the litter or how good her disposition may be, is she a good suckler? Does she belong to the milking type? For there is a milking type in brood sows as well as in cows. If she has this with all the other qualifications, then keep her, no matter how tempting the price may be which the feed lot offers or some neighbor. A brood sow of this type is worth two or three of equal weight and equally endowed with good looks, but lacking in milking, mental and moral qualities. Therefore, first look over your brood sows and see how many are to go to the left into the feed pen and how many are to go to the right and be permitted the honor and privilege of furnishing the pigs for the next year.

In selecting youngsters it is well to reject all from litters that came small, say three or four. Select from litters of seven or eight good, healthy pigs that have proved by their growth that they have been well nourished by good milking dams. They are quite likely to inherit their milking qualities as well as her disposition and conformation. Reject unqualifiedly all candidates for future honors that come from uneven litters, and reject any that show a

A FREE WINNING CHESHIRE tendency to become short, chuffy, wheezy—in other words, to develop into animated fat kegs. These pigs will naturally be deficient in constitution and vitality and should pass into the feeding pen. Many farmers if they should reject the short, chuffy pigs will find themselves rejecting many whole litters. In that case it is probably the farmer's fault and not the pigs'. He has been feeding them too much corn and not giving them enough clover, oats, linseed or other protein foods. He has been asking them to make bricks without straw, muscle without muscle making material. They have done the best they could to turn the fat making material into fat, and let the farmer take the consequences.

In this case the thing to do is to reform his methods and either take the best that offers, or close out the whole business and start again with new stock, perhaps purchased at a long price. Before doing this, says Wallace's Farmer, make sure that you are not going to make the same mistake again, but that hereafter you are going to feed your brood sows with food "convenient" for them, to use the expression of the wise old man in the Proverbs, by which he meant suitable food, needful food, food adapted to the object in view.

The accompanying illustration shows one of the largest and handsomest Cheshire sows exhibited at the state fairs during the past few years. She is owned by R. G. Button of Madison county, N. Y., and was six years old at the time this picture was taken for the American Agriculturist. The animal was in good form and weighed 591 pounds. She was the first prize winner at several state fairs, including New York. In some places these animals are known as Jefferson county swine and are said to have originated in New York, in the county by that name. It is stated by some that they started from a pair of pigs brought from Albany, N. Y., that were called Cheshires. As there is no distinct breed of hogs in England known by this name and as there are no authentic records of importations into this country under that name, there is reason to believe that the so called Cheshires have been improved by crossing with Yorkshires brought in from Canada and elsewhere. Cheshires are white, with small, erect ears, long, broad, deep bodies, broad hams and nearly straight backs. At maturity they dress from 400 to 600 pounds.

Breaking the Colts. Handle the colts as much as possible while quite young. The time to begin to break a foal is as soon as it is born. If a colt is handled from birth it is far less difficult to break it to work later on than if allowed to run wild. A colt should be halter broken by the time it is a month old and should by that time be on such intimate terms with mankind as to allow its legs to be handled freely, says the Farmers Advocate. To teach a horse to be driven that has been handled from birth is so easy compared to breaking an unhandled colt that it is almost play. It is much easier to teach a suckling colt to lead or drive than it is a wild, strong colt of two, three or four years of age. Broken thus early, he will always be more trustworthy than if broken at the latter age.
