Secretary Hitchcock has withdrawn his acceptance of the resignation of Michael T. Nolan as Register of the Dalles Land Office and ordered a thorsugh investigation of the office, particufarly with a view to ascertaining the facts regarding charges made by Nolan against Malcoln A. Modey. Nolan's statement that accompanied his resignation and which at first was set aside without action, had been reconsidered and premate a situation that, in the opinionof President, cannot be ignored. Either the Register or the Receiver of the office has been go liey of conduct that warrants dismissal

"Few persons know how insecure ersons realize that the average lock a absolutely worthless for keeping out door lock is good for nothing but reminding casual business or social callers that they must ring to be admitted. None of these ordinary 'door fasteners,' and that's the best you can call them, will deter a burglar two whole minutes. If there's no key in the lock. he soon fits one to it. If there is a key in the lock, he inserts a pair of pinchers and in ten seconds has it opened. Understand me, I am speaking of the experienced burglar. The clumsy burglar is the one who gets in trouble He'll fumble around with a lock until somebody hears him. There is only one unpickable lock made. That's the six pin lock used by the government. It will defy any expert. There are six little steel pins in the lock, which have to be raised just a certain distance to open it. Some of the pins are one-fourth of an inch long and some of them a half inch. If one of the pins lacks even a hairbreadth of being other famous makers. raised the proper distance, the lock will not open. It baffles all the experts."

THE SHREW MOUSE.

Queer Superstitions About Harmless Little Animal.

The shrew, or shrew mouse, as it is commonly called, is found in nearly all parts of the world. It is distinguished by an elongated, pointed muzzle, small eyes, plantigrade, six toed feet and glands that secrete a musky fluid. Al together it closely resembles a mouse. but it is really not related to the mouse family.

When at home it is either under a pile of rubbish or in a hole which it has burrowed in the earth. It is nocturnal in its habits, but perfectly harmless, yet at one time it was much disliked and persecuted because it was thought to be a dangerous, mischievous animal. Among the Italians the notion was prevalent that the bite of a shrew was extremely poisonous. The French and the English believed that if a shrew ran over an animal's foot the became paralyzed; hence if a horse, a cow or a goat became a little stiff in its timbs the foolish people at once declared it "shrew struck," and the poor shrews had to suffer in consequence.

Of course the "shrew struck" anima had to have something to cure it, so an ash tree was selected, and a deep hole was bored into its trunk. Then a shrew was captured, put alive into the hole, the hole was securely plugged. and the innocent little animal was left to die of starvation.

The ignorant believed that after such an act the ash tree had power to cure "shrem-struck" animals, and whenever an animal became inactive or a little numb in its limbs its owner hurried to the "shrew ash," cut a switch from it and switched the "shrew struck" beast. The smarting caused by the switching naturally made the helpless animal move about as much as it possibly could, and in a short time it was pronounced cured.

A Gallant Highwayman.

A highwayman recently held up gasoline runabout on the outskirts of Rome. The highwayman stopped the runabout with a shot in the air. Then he ran forth from the tomb that had concealed him-the holdup happened or the Appian Way-and found to his surprise only a woman in the little car. "Where, madam, is your husband?" he demanded sternly and suspiciously.

flushing. "Then," said the highwayman, "I will take nothing. "It's bad enough to have a husband like that without being robbed into the bargain.'

"He's under the seat," she answered,

Evolution of Chemistry.

The first chemists were the alchem ists, who for hundreds of years vainly tried to make gold by compounding va rious chemicals. Chemistry was intro duced into Spain by the Moors in 1150 and the Chinese and Egyptians claimed an early acquaintance with it. Howev er, chemistry was not a science until the seventeenth century. Boerhaave was the first to combine the study of chemistry with medicine, and since then its evolution has been rapid.

A Bad Case.

"What's the matter, dear?" asked the doctor's wife. "Are you worried about Mr. Poorley's case?'

"Yes." replied the doctor. "And is there no hope?" "Very little. He says he doesn't expect to leave enough to pay more than one-third of my bill."-Answers.

OLD VIOLINS.

the Best Method of Finding Out Their True Value

Very often somebody thinks that he or she has a small fortune locked up in a fiddle case. The somebody does not know much about violing, but has heard or read that an old violin is a very valuable thing, and because grandfather happened to leave a violin, to assume duties upon the harp. somebody immediately believes that grandfather's violin is a treasure. As a matter of fact, ninety-nine times heir homes are," he continued. "Few out of a hundred grandpa invested in a ten dollar fiddle and played "Suwanee River" and "Annie Laurie." When an experienced burglar. The ordinary he bought it the violin was worth $10. but since then it has been depreciating in value at the rate of about 10 cents a year. From the mere fact that most of the varnish is scratched off and there are several cracks in the Instrument it does not follow that it is an "old one."

If a violin is good to start with it will improve with age and good care, but, on the other hand, a poor fiddle is not beneated to any extent if it survives a century or two.

Don't judge a violin by the label inside of it. Anybody can copy an old name and date and paste it in. If all the violins bearing a Stradivarius label were his, poor old Antonius would be working yet. More than half of the cheap, worthless violins bear copies of his or some other master's label, and even some real old and good instruments have been passed off as the work of Amati, Guarneri, Magini and

Any one having a violin with the label of a comparatively unknown maker is likely to be the owner of a more valuable instrument than the person whose fiddle is marked "Autonius Stradivarius."

There is only one way to find out whether or not a violin is living up to Its name, and that is to get the judgment of a good dealer. If he tells you that your violin is no good, but still offers to buy it, you may be quite certain that you have a good fiddle. But don't sell it. Take it to some other authority and see what he says, but don't make a bargain. You will hear from him if your violin is genuine, for the supply of valuable ones is small and great rivalry exists among dealers to secure masterpieces.

A great many people have the idea that all the very good instruments are the output of a half dozen old geniuses. when the truth is that there are scores. of old as well as quite modern makers whose works bring very high prices.-New York Herald.

A Cause For Thanks.

Charles O'Conor once began an after dinner speech in Philadelphia in this way:

"I must confess that I dread to make after dinner speeches. At the most sumptuous dinners, even at such a dinner as this one, if I know that at the end I must make a speech I am nervous, I have no appetite, I find little toadmire in the best efforts of the chef. In truth, gentlemen, I can readily imagine Daniel, if he was at all of my mind, heaving a sigh of relief as the lions drew near to devour him-heaving a sigh of relief and murmuring: "'Well, if there's any after dinner speaking to be done on this occasion. at least it won't be done by me.' "

Gentle Door Taps. A story of extraordinary deafness was unfolded at a recent meeting of a medical society in Philadelphia, Araelderly woman, exceedingly hard of hearing, lived near the river. One afternoon a warship fired a salute of ten guns. The woman, alone in her little house, waited until the booming ceased. Then she smoothed her dress. brushed her hair back in a quaint manner and said sweetly, "Come in."-Argonaut.

The Letter L. The name of "I" is in Hebrew jod or jot, a hand, and the earliest characters representative of the sound closely fesemble a hand with but three fingers. Little by little one finger after another dropped off until only the little finger was left, and the letter became the smallest in the alphabet, a jot or tittle, that is, the "I" and its dot being synonymous of the most insignificant things that could be described.

A Joyous Moment. "There is my last poem," said the young but melancholy contributor, "Thank the Lord!" replied the dignified editor as he clung to his chair that he might not dance a hornpipe.-Detroit Free Press.
