W. A. Wilshire met with a painful accident one day last week while engaged in marking lambs. His son was helping him, and the young man made a slash at a lamb's tail to cut it off, and Judge moved his hand some way so that the blade of the knife struck the back of his hand, cutting an ugly gash between the second and third knuckle joints.

Will Alford came over from Warner Tuesday to have his face fixed up. While handling a wild horse a few days ago, one of the ropes came loose and the animal kicked him in the eye, cutting a long ugly gash under the eye and bruising up the side of his face considerably. W. Z. Moss was helping and he also received several bruises about the legs.

Dist. Attorney Moore started for

Ashland Tuesday morning. He will bring his family, who have been living in Ashland for the past two years, back with him. His family will spend the summer in their old Lake county home. Mr. Moore will attend the Klamath County term of Circuit Court before he returns, which will be about July 1st.

Fred S. Fisher was in town last Saturday. He informed us that he was going to write to J. W. Bailey, State Food and Dairy Commissioner, of Portland for registration as a butter maker and secure a number for his creamery. This is necessary in order to comply with the Pure Food law. All butter makers will be, sooner or later, compelled to take the same action before putting their butter on the market.
