The Publisher's Claims Sustained

UNITED STATES COURT OF CLAIMS
The Publishers of Webster's International Dictionary allege that it "is, in fact, the popular Unabridged thoroughly re-edited in every detail, and vastly enriched in every part, with the purpose of adapting it to meet the larger and severer requirements of another generation."

We are of the opinion that this allegation most clearly and accurately describes the work that has been accomplished and the result that has been reached. The Dictionary, as it now stands, has been thoroughly re-edited in every detail, has been corrected in every part, and is admirably adapted to meet the larger and severer requirements of a generation which demands more of popular philological knowledge than any generation that the world has ever contained.

It is perhaps needless to add that we refer to the dictionary in our judicial work as of the highest authority in accuracy of definition; and that in the future as in the past it will be the source of constant reference.

Abuse of Freedom.

Emma Goldman, anarchist, is zealously engaged in the vocation of sowing the seeds of dissension and disorder broadcast, or as far as her power can reach, throughout the land. Born in Germany, she drifted to this country nearly a quarter of a century ago. Without an endowment by nature that would lead her to appreciate the blessings of individual liberty, she has steadily, for many years, abused its privileges and goes up and down the land proclaiming anarchistic doctrines unchanged. Blowing with fiery breath the coal between capital and labor, and inculcating principles that lead to disorder, with its consequences of violence and murder, this woman exemplifies, every time she makes a speech upon a public platform, the generous tolerance of the Government she soarsely reviles and impudently defies.

The weak place in a Republican form of government is disclosed by the freedom that is allowed to anarchists whose boldly proclaimed mission it is to encourage men and women to defy the law under which they live and the protection of which they claim.

Boasting what she calls the "philosophy of anarchism," this woman goes up and down the country sowing broadcast with her breath and by means of anarchistic pamphlets the doctrine of violence as a panacea for the ills of poverty, the equalization of property ownership and the necessity for labor. These utterances, falling upon the ears of the unthinking arouse untutored minds to pernicious activity; falling upon the ears of the vicious, they incite to crime; upon the ears of labor, already attuned to the whimpers of self pity, they take the form of a just protest against conditions that compel men to work for a living. To the extent that they find a receptive soil, they germinate as evil seed, take root and bear fruit age of their kind.

Perhaps there is no way under our institutions to prevent the broadcast sowing of this evil seed, though the crop that springs from it is plainly a menace to society and a wanton abuse of freedom of speech which is guaranteed to its citizens by a magnanimous Government.—Oregonian.

The following paragraph about boys was clipped from the "Stellar Ray."

There are several of these paragraphs, and we could publish them all at once, but will not do it. We will publish one each week, and each one must be remembered to properly get the hang of the next one, so the boy better cut them out and paste them on the barn door, or in some other conspicuous place:

"Boys are the stuff of which men are made"
